LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JULY 17, 1885. THE QUESTION OF THE DAY. THE SCOTT ACT IN ONTARIO

We were then three weeks behind Victoria, and too late to bring on the vote before harvest; and on hearing from Victotoria that they had asked the secretary of state to appoint their polling day some time after harvest we at once concluded to try and get the vote taken here at the same time. As, contrary to expectation, the vote in Victoria was ordered to be taken this month we could not possibly have our petition put through in time, and will therefore now adhere to the former resolution of having the vote taken in Septem ber next if possible. I can assure you that the Scott act supporters in this town and county intend pushing the matter with all possible energy, and have very little doubt that there will be a majority for the act in all sections. We do not want our county to be the drinking place and dumping ground for topers of all the surrounding ground. country. We will let Hastings have that distinction all to itself.

GEO. E. WILLIAMS, Secretary Co. Peterboro Scott Act Association. Peterboro, July 10, 1885.

VIEWS FOR AND AGAINST. Liberal Temperance Society.

To the Editor of THE CANADIAN POST. SIR,-I understand that Prof. Goldwin Smith is to stump this county in opposition to the Scott act. I would suggest that he be requested to explain at his meetings how it is that, as he pretends to be opposed to the whiskey drinking habits of this country, the petitions to carry out his proposed scheme of temperance (?) are and have been so industriously circulated by those actually engaged in the liquor traffic,— Yours truly,
Fencion, July 16, 1885.

Peterboro and Lindsay and the Scott Act, [To the Editor of THE CANADIAN POST.] SIR, -We were told by the secretary of the Scott act committee, in his letter to THE POST two weeks ago, that the temperance feeling was stronger in Peterboro county than it was in Victoria. I think that he wrote without knowing whether he spoke truth or not. He desired to kill the feeling which is very strong here, that if the act is carried in Victoria and defeated in Peterboro, then the trade of Lindsay would be gone, except, perhaps, in the matter of grass seed for our streets. He also said that we should not consider that phase of the question at all, as it was purely business: whereas the Scott act was to be ly business; whereas the Scott act was to be supported from a higher motive.

Where it suits their purpose advocates for the act urgs that it will save money, make the poor rich, etc. Now, why should we not think as a town that our business interests are in great danger. Just so sure as we pass it Peterboro will defeat it, and will gain immensely by it say when and will gain immensely by it, and what they gain we will lose. Surely our repre-sentative at Ottawa could have arranged that the vote would be taken in Peterbero as early as in Victoria. Then we would have no question as to the good faith of the have no question as to the good faith of the movement.

The Presbyterian general assembly at Montreal, on June 17th of this year, speaking of the question of temperance and as to its effect on morals, say:—"It may be stated that on the 30th September last the inspector of Ontario prisons she we only two empty gaols—one being the gaol in Lindsey, where the late Father Stafford laborad so long and earneatly in the cause of temperance. The other was not in Peterboro. How does this agree with the stronger temperance feeling in Peterboro. Why did not that stronger feeling keep their gaol empty? Because that feeling did not exist and does not exist; and the defeat of the act in Bastings county has made it certain to be defeated in Peterboro. Both newspapers in that town especia the act. We should not be idle about this matter. It is well known that with all his strong views in favor of temperance, yet the late Father Stafford always opposed the Scott act, just as Bishop Cleary and the Rev. J. Carry gowespecit, When Mrs. Youmans dozen to say in favor of the act that she "hopes the day will soon come when the barbarous practice of using wine in the Eucharist will be abolished," is it not time to stop and think where such fanaticism will lead us? Had she been present at the wedding feast of Canashe would not have hesitated to rebuke our Saviour, as she and other Scott act people do not hesitate new. B. Lindsay, July 16th, 1885.

[To the Editor of THE CANADIAN POST.] SIR,—Those in this county who with so much confidence assert that the Scott act will carry in Peterboro should read the folowing from the Peterbore Examiner of July 14th:—"Has the question been fully considered whether it is wise to now submit the act? Whether it is wise to bring about a great loss of revenue? Whether it is wise to run the risk of removing the present control exercised over the traffic. Will the effect of carrying the act and not enforcing it have the effect of setting back the temperature meanures a question of the temperance movement a quarter of a century? Next year the Scott act will be in force in some three score constituencies, [Special despatch to THE POST.]

UNBRIDGE, July 16.—The majority for the Scott act as far as heard from is 968.

And is it not among the possibilities that a year's experience of an act which we have no certain assurance will be enforced, may lead the temperance people themselves to insist on its repeal?

The Scott act not enforced and not possible to be enforced means free whiskey for those who wish it. The revenue to the county would be lost and without restriction drunkenness would be increased."

Faischoods Exposed by Neil Dow. Mr. W. H. Bewell of Whitby wrote to General Neil Dow regarding some false statements by the notorious North Ontario Observer, and received the following reply, which explains itself: PORTLAND, June 11, 1885.

Wm. H. Bewell, Esq .: DEAR SIR, -This morning came your note of the 8th, enclosing the following slip from the North Ontario Observer of the 4th

"A SAD CONFESSION.—Neal Dow, the famous prohibition advocate, has entirely lost confidence in his pet scheme. Very recently he emphatically made the statement that ardent spirits were causing more distress in Maine than ever before, coupled with the admitted failure of prohibition in Kansass and Iowa, makes it imperative that the problem of drunkenness be re-examined."

server of any intention to falsify the facts, but there is not a word of truth in its statements. The Observer, no doubt, is a most respectable paper, and the wonder is to me that it is so badly informed in relation to a question of the highest importance to Canada se a nation and to the people. I am sure I do not overstate in saying that in modern times no movement has arisen of so deep interest to the prosperity of the nations and the welfare and happiness of its people at this however a way that the people at the people at the prosperity of the people at this people at the so deep interest to the prosperity of the nations and the welfare and happiness of its people as this—how to put away the tremendous evils coming from intemperance.
Upon this great question the Observer shows itself to be in utter ignorance, and thus misleads its readers shockingly.

I. I have not lost confidence in prohibition as the best way, the only possible way, of effecting any permanent change for the better in the condition of seciety, so far as intemptione is concerned. On the contrary, I was never more encouraged by the outlook in believing that in the time of persons now living it will become the policy of all English-speaking nations.

2. I have never made the statement "on-est intentions to give up its authority. That is as thoroughly a lie as te attribute to me the "remarkable statement" mea-to me the "remarkable statement" meationed by the Observer.

4. It is true that I have "lost confidence," not in prohibition, but in the republican party leaders in Maine and in the nation, who are now in full alliance with the liquor leagues of the country. This renders it indispensible that temperance men withdraw from that party finally and cooperate with each other earnestly for the final destruction of every vestige of the liquor traffic.

5. The republicans have been in rower in 5. The republicans have been in power in Portland for many years, with no effort on the part of their officials to suppress the liquor traffic. At the last municipal election we inflicted upon the party a most humiliating defeat, electing a democratic mayor by a large majority, and in twelve days from that time the traffic was practically crushed out and it remains so to-day. 6. I take this opportunity to assure the temperance men of Canada that there is and can be no ether way for them to overthrow the liquor traffic than to make that policy the chief issue—the sine qua non at the ballot box.—Respectfully,

NEAL Dow.

SIR,-I want to tell you about the appearance of the growing crops. I cannot put words together to tell you how well they look. How ever, as long as I have been in Canada I have never seen the growth that there is this 12th of July. I have made enquiries from all parts of Ontario, and it seems all the farmers are in one mind that the grain of all kinds is gooder than mind that the grain of all kinds is gooder than good. It seems to me that the times are first-rate by the appearance of the 12th of July, money more than plenty, also the people enjoying themselves. No appearance of want. Yet, however, there are some "ifs" to contend with. The harvest will be about ten days later than usual by all accounts. Time will tell. I hope it will prove profitable for the farmers. When the farmers have good crops we all have plenty.

Scott Act Meeting at Lindsay. The Scott act campaign was formally opened n Lindsay on Sunday evening, by a mass meet ing in the Opera House. The proceedings nenced shortly after the conclusion of the usual church services. The hall was crowded, many standing. The speaker of the occasion was Mr. John A. Nicholls. Upon the platform, in addition to Mr. Nicholls. ware Judge Dean, who presided, and about all the local ministers. After the "Lord's prayer," led by the Rev. Mr. Pearson, the chairman introduced Mr. Nicholls is a gentleman of pleasing address, rapid utterance, bold language and convincing arguments. His address was fluent, logical and of times eloquent. The assemblage generously applauded each happily made point and listened attentively throughout. We present a brief synopsis of the address. The fact that intemperance is a universally admitted evil was clearly demonstrated. The liquor traffic was indicted as guilty of murder in the first degree and called into epen court to plead the charge. Strong evidence was given that the liquor traffic is God's werst enemy and the devil's best friend. That its existance is dangerous to the perpetuity of the homes and material interests of the Ecott act were briefly explained. The dead failure of license laws was rapidly touched upon. The speaker powerfully sketched the history of prohibition in Maine, and gave personal testinomy to the great success which has there attended the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in that state. His knowledge of the Scott set in Halton county was drawn upon and among other present that the act is there a splendid success when has there attended the law against the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor in that state. SCOTT ACT MEETING.—Mr. J. A. Nicholls addressed a fair audience on Friday evening of last week and was listened to throughout ing of last week and was listened to throughout with marked attention.

THE SCOTT ACT IN SIMCOE.—Several gentlemen from Simcoe county have been visiting among friends in this vicinity and each and all speak in the highest terms of the working of the act in their county. They report that the merchants, many of whom voted against the act, are loud in their praises for the benefits that already have been derived from it. Many old and what they considered worthless accounts have been paid, and mill owners speak highly of it, asso many of their employees—mostly French and half-breeds—who were nearly useless on Monday are now on hand to work without any trouble, and they are not troubled with the men's wives coming in the middle of the week. Monday are now on hand to work without any trouble, and they are not troubled with the men's wives coming in the middle of the week to get money to buy provisions to keep them. And this great bug-bear was held up that the hotels would close their sheds. In their vicinity they charged 10c. for shed room for a couple of weeks, but even that the hotel men have relinquished, and some who are not violating the act are doing a living business. On the evenings of elections in their vicinities the drinking, profanity, etc., formerly was something awful, but on the evening of last election the town was as quist as any other week evening. There also was something that members of parliament would do well to note, and that was that large numbers of the conservative voters either voted would do well to note, and that was that large numbers of the conservative voters either voted for the Scottt act candidate or refrained from voting. It will be found that the present generation of electors are not and will not be bound down to party lines when they override principles that many esteem as of much importance as many of the present political questions. They do not pretend to say that liquor cannot be had, but you have to be well known to get it, and even then you cannot get it to excess. The French laboring men who formerly spent nearly their entire wages for liquer cannot garrely their entire wages for liquer cannot scarcely now get any, as the whiskey-sellers fear exposure if they sell to these on account of their lack of moderation when they get any, so that in self-defence they have to be very careful. While in fermer days you could scarcely get into town without seeing some drunken men, now they are neverseen.

Rev. Mr. Drew also addressed them in the evening in the Methedist church.

The Saved Army.—(To the Editor of The Post.)—Sir.—At the risk of being thought intolerant and illiberal, I propose to write in condemnation of the people who name themselves "The Saved Army." Persons representing themselves as officers of the army came to this place last spring, arrayed in uniform, with lace on caps, coats, skirts, etc., and got the consent of the municipal adthorities to use the town hall to hold meetings in. They held a number of services, led by Uaptain McGregor, quite a young lady, but cool and confident as an old veteran. They soon began to report converts, and finally got the late C. M. church to continue their meetings in. They announced that they came to work in the interests of the other churches, and at the close of their work would retire and urge their converts to join the churches already organized here. By this means they got help from the members and ministers of churches here, and got quite a number to unite with them. The Methodists soft the church that they were using to the Presbyterians, and now they (the saved army) propose to go on and form what they call a "barracks" which I consider a breach of their own proposal, although their revival is, to all appearance, over this some time, and many of their former adherents are falling away. Their service seems totally lacking in secretaes and the elements of piety, and appears to abound in the sensational rather than in christian simplicity, and their manners are after the style of a jovial, rollicking lumberman singing beating songs. Their hour of service although professedly arranged hours fixed for weachip in the churches and also with Sunday school work. From an usprejudiced stand point, and after due observation, the conclusion is that their work and presence should be discouraged in the churches and reserved and Oakwood clubs had another match on the lith the visitors coming off beat, the last time by ten. There was a large turnout and everything passed off very pleasantly. On the arrival of the train at Orillia a boat was in attendance to convey them to the park, where a very pleasantly was a part. In the attendance to convey them to the park, where a very pleasantly was a part. In the attendance to convey them to the park, where a very pleasantly was a part. pleasant time was spent. In the afternoon a game of lacrosse was played between the Cannington and Orillia clubs, which after about two hour's playing resulted in a draw, each club having secured one Scott Act.—As the time for the voting on the Scott act approaches the people begin to get excited about it. There has been a good deal of apathy displayed about the matter for some months past, but since the meeting on Friday night last, the 10th inst., which was called by the friends of the Scott act and addressed by Mrs. S. E. Peck, some excitement has been raised. As the time for voting approaches both parties seem to be sure of winning the day. A meeting called by the opponents of the Scott act was held on the evening of the 13th in the drill shed. There was a large attendance. Prof. Richardson spoke for about an hour in opposition to the Scott act. He was listened to very attentively, but did not succeed in raising any enthusiasm amongst his hearers. Mr. Keefer spoke for about an hour in favor of the act. And was greeted with rounds of applause as he made point after point in favor of the act. Prof. Richardson followed and spoke for about an hour and a half, trying to convince the people that the use of tea, coffee and milk was as injurious to the human family as strong drink, and quoting scripture to prove that these drinks were not only made for the use of man, but that we were commanded to use them. The sense of the meeting seemed to be largely in favor of the Scott act. The voting comes off on Thursday, 10th inst., when the probabilities are that the act will be carried in the county, but if the wine and beer amendments introduced by the senate are carried in the commons the passing of the Scott act will be of your little bonefit.
