LINDSAY, FRIDAY, SUPE. 11, 1885. MY LEGACY.

They told me I was hold. I turned in haste, And ran to seek my treesand.
And wondered, as I ran, how it was placed—
If I should find a measure
Of gold, or if the title of fair lands
And houses would be laid without my hands.

I journeyed many roads; I knocked at gates;
I spoke to each wayfarer
I met, and said, "A heritage a waits
Me. Art not thou the heare."
Of news: Some message sent to me whereby
I learn which way my new possessions lier." Some asked me in-naught has beyond their door; Some smiled and would not they.

But said that men were no being who bore
More gold than I could care:
While empty-handed up and down I went.
And so the morn, the noon, one day were spent. As through the mist he is "Poor child what evil ones are child on a thee, Till this whole day is wasted.

Hath no man told thee that the ever joint heir with one named Christ, who was is the goods to harm?"

The one named Christ I see, to for many days, In many places, vainly;
I heard men name his named a many ways,
I saw his temples plandy.
But they who named him most cave me no sign.
To find him by, or prove the means up mine. And when at last I stoud to the face, I knew him by no token Save subtle air of joy that place:

Our greeting was not spoken.
In solemn silence I received my since.
Kneeling before my brother medical their. My share! No deed of home or spreading As I had dreamed; no means that had dreamed; no means that had dreamed; no means that never held such accessors.

Exhibition Building. The agricultural society's exhibition building is now completed and presents a handsome appearance. Its dimensions are 40x75, the centre being two stories. This will gove sample room for a fine display, and is so arranged that every thing will be shown to advantage. The contractor, Mr. Dunn, has performed his work in a satisfactory manner, and the building is certainly creditable him as a builder and also to the encorprise of the society. Sheds are to be built for the live stock, but it is not expected that the grounds and out buildings will be in first-class order this year. That will take time, but when they are completed, and that will not be so very long if the present interest continues, few places in the province will be able to boast of so beautiful a property. The exhibition this year is to be held on Tuesday and Wednesday, October 6th and 7th. THE CROPS.—Now that the harvest is over and the threshing machines are hum-ming through the land, we can speak with more of a certainty regarding our crops. Excepting spring wheat there is nothing to note from my last report, but of it our worst fears have been fulfilled. From weevil, blight and rust the crops in this section will only average from six to eight bushels per acreand mostly second quality. As there is some difference of opinion recarding rust, some attributing it to difference and increase. garding rust, some attributing it to different agencies, however, we have always beent sgencies, however, we have always believed, and as yet see no reason to change our belief, that frost is the principle cause.

HARVEST.—The harvest in this section appears to be rather backward owing to the cool, cloudy weather which retards the ripening. A week of fine weather will have the desired effect of having the harvest housed. The condition of the harvest in this section is not as satisfactory as was anticipated about a month ago, the rust having almost destroyed the spring wheat crop. Fall wheat on the contrary will give a large yield, while the barley and oat crops are fair. NEW HOUSE. -Mr. Peter Ferguson, north of here, has erected a commodious looking dwelling house. REMOVED. -Mr. Rathmill has made improvements on his farm this summer on an extensive scale in the shape of the ex-traction and removal of stumps and other mibbish that assisted in lessening the value of the farm.

MONUMENT TO COL. WILLIAMS.—A movement has been set on foot to mark, by the erection of a suitable monument, the esteem in which the services of the late Lieut. Col. Williams, M.P., are held by his country. The place chosen as a site for the proposed memorial is in Port Hope, where the brave soldier and public spirited citizen was born and had his home, and with whose people he was most intimately connected. The Williams memorial association has been formed there, and has taken the first steps to carry out their landable object. It is not proposed to confine the subscriptions to Port Hope; all who watched and admired the course of the gallant officer from the time he started out for the Northwest, till his work accomplished, he died, while returning homeward, to receive from his countrymen the outward tokens of their admiration, are invited to take part in the movement. Those who wish to aid in the work may send their contributions to Mr. A. J. C. Galletly, manager of the Bank of Montreal, Port Hope.

It walks on its hind legs like a bear. Its hind feet are formed like paws. Its right hind foot is formed into three toes (one with a clute, the other one without). Its left hind foot is formed into four toes with clutes on each. Its tail looks quite comical, being curied and lays flat on the pig's back as though it was fastened there with a hairpin and somewhat resembling the new style of putting up the hair. It is about six weeks old, all white, perfectly formed everyway, except the above, and smart and everyway, except the above, and smart and thrifty. The sow has a litter of about six, all of which are more or less deformed, the above one being the most peculiar of the lot. We would advise the proprietor to negotiate with the manager of the Toronto Zoo for Mr. Piggy, as it would be quite a curiosity for his exhibition.—[Port Perry Standard FATAL DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On the evening of Thursday week the youngest son of Mr. Wm. Quackenbush of this place was accidentally drowned in Scurgog lake. He had eaten tea with the family at a few minutes to six and when the bell rang he was dead. In company with an elder brother he started from the house to see a train pass, and from there went to a covered scow lying at the wharf. His brother says he was shoving a stick down into the water and lost his balance in doing so. As the elder brother was only five years of age he was unable to render any assistance. The cries, however, of the brother attracted the attention of Thomas Little, and his mother, who reached the spot about the same time, but he had gone down for the last time and could not be seen. Jno. Con-nors jumped in after the lad, but he was not found until John Rains had procured a grappling-hook, with this he was brought to the surface on the first attempt to do sc. The boy was carried home, when Dr. Clemens used every effort to restore life, but he was working against to great odds. Death had claimed him. As this is the second child lost in this way, the circumstance is doubly painful to the grief stricken parents who feel their affliction very keenly.—[Standard.

He was first discovered by his wife suspended from one of the beams. Dr. Starr was summoned and assisted in taking the body down. On examination he pronounced life extinct. The deceased was a laborer 61 years of age and had resided in Brooklin about fourteen years. He was in comfortable circumstances, but was in the habit of taking a periodical spree. For the past two weeks he had been drinking hard, which led him to commit the sad act recorded above. Parties who have bought clothing or other Notes.—The crops have not been generally so good here as last year. Spring wheat has been considerably injured by rust, though not so bad as in some other sections.
