BOBCAYGEON. SMIFF HAS A GOOD TIME.—A London correspondent writes that Victoria, queen of England, is "exceedingly fond of sardines." Well, now really. You don't say. The news these London correspondents get hold of is quite startling. And how quick they are to give away any little morquick they are to give away any little mor-sel of news they may get in a round about way from a butler or a chambermaid. As a matter of fact the last time we took a friendly cup of tea with Victoria she sent out for a three a penny bunch of rad-ishes, and a pint of shrimps. And seeing as how we met so seldom, the dear old lady told Trixy to run around the corner for a told Trixy to run around the corner for a seven penny pot of marmalade, and six pen'orth of muffins. It is really infra dig for us, being as we are on such intimate terms with her royal majesty, to mention so publicly the tastes of that estimable lady, but when some dude of a London correspondent endeavors to show off in this iour. way, we seel it to be the duty of this jour-nal to demonstrate to that weak-minded
