The Misnespelis, Minn., ministers The Minnespelis, Minn., ministers' association, composed of representatives from each church in the city, passed resolutions to withdraw their patronage from all Sunday papers published in or out of the city. They claim that work done on any newspager that is not published on Sunday morning cas be accomplished during secular hours. They propose to refuse information to Sunday papers, and will preach against those papers and establish a ministerial boycoott.

—A London cable to the New York Herald-Toronto Mail says: The war office is considering seriously a plan for the establishment of an agency for the regular purchase of cavalry horses in Causea for use in the British army. It is suggested that this will open a new market for Causea, and commensate to a certain extent the this will open a new market for Canada, and compensate to a certain extent the people of the Dominion for the losses they have sustained through the operations of the American tariff. The project contemplates the purchase of 3,000 horses sunually.....This must be taken with a grain of salt until verified by other reports.

—A Lendon cable says Mr. Gladatone has recovered his health. He would have been in the commons last Friday, except that it was the coldest day of the winter. He worked all the afternoon with his private secretary. Nothing whatever further has been learned about his home rule scheme except that he has decided against Giffen's plan for buying out the landlords on the ground that se Irish landlords. I had said, innocent of any chaem between these two fashionable people, that Mrs. Z. was a charming woman, "But she is a snob," said Mrs. B., in a way that made her plates rattle. Then she rested her chin in her hand and her elbow on the table, and this is the harrowing recital: "Mrs. Z. is the wife of a millionaire, I confess. Her husband has his city residence, his summer resort and his haunts abroad. At his summer resort he has a shock of Southdowns, one of which is slain whenever the family has an appetite for sheep. I was giving our order to the butcher some time since when Mrs. Z. came in. She was on her way to the matinee, and had on the lovellest wrap I ever saw—I wonder what it cost? Well, as I was saying, she came in while I was ordering, and the manner in which she approached the butcher was overwhelming. This is the way she did it and this is what she said" (Mrs. B. rose and went through the imitation. It was immense: "Butchish, send ovah to ouwsh house a leg of mutton." Mr. Members was in favour of any reasonable economy in government house expenditures, but could not support the proposition to shelish government house. (Application to shelish government house.) Even in so democratic a country as the United States they two one to provide their national representative with suitable accommodation. From an economical point of view the shelition of government house would be at immediate demand for an impresse in the salarise of the Lieutes att-Governors, and as Omissio paid the largest share of the texation of the Dominion, she would gain nothing by the change. The fact was this stinck was a step in the direction of advocating the street was a step in the direction of advocating the change. The fact was this stinck was a step in the direction of advocating the change in a good gain nothing by the change. The fact was this stinck was a step in the direction of advocating the step in the director of automatic governor altogether. He was totally opposite such an idea, as a lieutement governor of our system of our to seen an idea, as a lieutement-governor was a necessary part of our system of constitutional government. (Applicate.) Who was to intervene between parties and decide when a dissolution was necessary if there was no lieutement-governor? (Applicate.)

Mr. McInterns said that he had expressly stated that he had no desire that the office should be shotished.

Mr. Maruals recited a verse from Long-fellow's "Haunted Houses," appropriate to the correlar.

Mr. Mirrual Precited a verse from Long fellow's "Haunted Houses," appropriate to the occasion.

Hou, C.F. Frasmi said that neither from the standpoint of dollars and cents or of democratic simplicity had a case been made out for the abolition of the residence. Suppose the governor were elected by the people, would not the expense in that case be a hundred times as particular to be supposed that a particular elected governor would as well hold the balance of power between the parties as the lieutenant governor as at present appointed! Hou, gentlemen talked shout the trappings of royalty. The suits and retinue of the governor of New York were much more imposing than anything we had ever seen in this province, and expense connected with the maintan ance of the office was far greater. The abolition of the residence would be leading us to a condition of affairs which he for one hoped he would never see. He hoped he would never see. He hoped he would never see. He hoped he would never see the turnoul, and confusion, and strife incident to an election of the lieutenant governor by the people. We had no power to do away with the office, or to abelish the salary. We had no title, in the ordinary sense, to the, buildings. So that if the motion was carried out, either the house would be sheadoned, or the government would increase the salary. The amount which would be awad was a mere trifle. There would be the cound the suite of rooms which would be awad on a serious to take out that as a reasonable deduction from this person to take one of it. Altogether he supposed that all that would be saved was a mere bagastile of two or three thousand delians a reasonable deduction from this he should be provided with a residence.

Hou, A. S. Hardy said the cost of maintaining the saved may a reasonable deliantian for the taken and the taken and the tan

Hon. A. S. HARDY said the cost of main-taining the governor of New York state was $19,390, and of maintaining the governor of Illinois $15,000. Buildes each state had of Illinois $15,000. Busine each state had also to support a listitement governor. He gave an account of a common in which the governor of New York was part.
