Old Winter stood in the bright sunshine, Clad in his robe of snow, With tears rolling down his old gray beard And face o'ercast with woe.

" Do you weep, old man, for ruin wrought O'er hill and dale and wood? Did the ills you wrought on earth bring this A penitential moed?

With feeble voice Old Winter said, 'I've lingered here too long. I dare not breathe the breath of spring Or hear the robin's song. "I hurry on to the far, far north.

To regions lone and drear, Where I may hold eternal reign Throughout the rolling year.

"Once more sweet spring will plant the bud On every bush and wold, And deck the earth in fairest robes Of vernal green and gold.

Among the Flowers.

"Daisy Eyebright" in a very interesting communication to the Country Gentleman gives some suggestions about flowers that will be of service to our readers.

states: the same packets may cost more

It is said that there never was a time when so many people were interested in gardening. If we would have the full blessing of our levely flowers, we must work for them ourselves. We read of the "mind cure." "faith cure;" "grape cure, and even "dry bread cure;" why should not we institute a garden cure, and teach thousands of suffering women the surprising healthfulness of working in the garden! A five-cent packet of mignonnette, one of Drummond's phlox, one of sweet alyssum, one of petunias, and one of dwarf German ten weeks stocks, will give you a deliciously fragrant and brilliant flower garden. To be sure, there are many high-priced annuals and plants that the amateur gardner longs for and will have, even at the cost of some desired article of dress-for what are ribbons and laces compared with flowers !-- and a few novelties, even if they are high-priced.

are a charming acquisition. Pansiesare especially a "florist's flower." and great improvements have been made in their beauty. If the seeds are sown in boxes in the house or hot-bed, early in this month, or even in April, the flowers will bloom by July, and continue to flower until the snow covers them. Indeed, there is no perennial that gives such satisfaction as the pansy. Nasturtiums or tropæolums, of the dwarf varieties, make a beautiful bed, planted en masse, or else used as a bordering for other plants. Last season I had quantities of them; thirteen different varieties were planted as an edging to a large weather. Parsnips must be sown very Lindbay, and R. P. Buttam, Cakwood,—34-4.

the season. Their foliage varied in hue from the darkest myrtle green to apple green, and their flowers were from the deepest maroon to the most vivid searlet—from the lightest yellow to the richest single of orange—and from brillhant design to the darkest crimson, with blotches and tints of mingled hues. Respects of lowing weather, though it be showery.

Live Stack Notes. Royal Horticultural Society of London awarded a first-class certificate last sea-for the garden, and its colorings and off the collar and saddle pieces with a "eyea" are as beautiful as these of the moist cloth. This will prevent sore shoulverbena, while its varieties are almost as ders. All changes of food should be numerous. The new dwarf varieties are gradual, but in proportion to the work. a decided improvement, as their habit is Heavily taxed muscles make demands on close and compact, not straggling like the stomach; hence, increase the feed after common varieties. P. graf-gero, in pure work begins—never in anticipation. A white, rose color, marbled, and violet horse fed up before he is called to work shades, mingled with P. nana compacta, gets soft and fat. Be careful to protect of richest scarlet, salmon color, deep red horses from drafts when warm; rub down, with white eye, and pure white, &c., will blanket, or let them stand in close stables. make a beautiful bed, and bloom until Cows at calving need little care, the less late in Autumn. The novelty for the the better if in a loose box or the open season is a semi-double variety, which is said field. "Fussing" over them is always to bloom true from the seed. Some double provocative of injury. Give no grain, flowers incline to single growth from but a loosening diet of bran and roots for seed, but this one often has double rather some days, and gradually increase feed as than semi-double flowers upon the same feverish symptons pass away. Keep stem. It will make a lovely flower for ealves growing thriftily; skim-milk with pot culture, its bright coloring being de- a little linseed meal scalded and added to sirable for window-gardening. It is call- it as a substitute for the cream, is just as

They at least until they come to pasture come in all the brightest shades of the zinna; and whether mingled with others Berkshire, Yorkshire, Poland or other flowers, or placed in vases by themselves, will prove exceedingly decorative. They were introduced last season, and found many admirers. This season a packet of seeds can be purchased for 15 cents, and no garden should be without them. If planted as a hedge at the back of other flower-beds, they made a very attractive appearance; also in beds by themselves.

Sweet-peas, my special favorites, are enriched by three novelties which are said to be great additions in coloring to the Painted Lady, scarlet and other varieties.
They are called by the high-sounding names of Crown Princess of Prussia, a blush flower, shaded to rose; Queen of the Isles, a rich scarlet and white, with wings of rosy purple, and Miss Ethel, pink and crimson mingled.

Mignonnette, the "little darling" of our gardens, has attained to such large proportions under the successful manipul ations of the hybridizer, that it seems to have lost its distinction as a small flower, but it still retains its delicate fragrance. Bird's Mammoth has the largest and thickest spikes of the hybirds yet raised, and merits a place in every garden.

Clematis can be easily raised from the seeds, and as hardy climbing perennials there are no more beautiful plants. All the hues of white, blue, azure, purple and violet can be raised from one 25-cent packet of seeds, and the cultivator may have the good fortue to raise a novelty, as it is from seeds that all the finer varieties of clematis have been procured.

Impatiens balsam is a perennial introduced a year or two ago, and its seeds are now offered for 25 cents per packet. It is a profuse bloomer, and well fitted for house culture. Its flowers are of a rosy red, and, like the annual balsam, are pro duced from the axils of the leaves.

Chrysanthemums can be easily raised from seeds. They are hardy perennials, and the rarest and richest forms and colors have been produced by hybridization. The seeds are now offered at 50 cent per packet, and a hundred plants can be raised from its contents.

Petunias of these later days bear little resemblance to those our grandmothers delighted to cultivate. Their hues, blotchmgs, veinings and markings will almost vie with those of the tulip, that "fop of flowers." And now comes Petunia grandiflora intus aurea -which means a large yellow-throated petunia-which is most rich and rare, its seeds costing 75 cents per packet. Its throats are veined like the rich throats of the salpiglossis, always a favorite of mine; and who knows but its producer may have hybridized the flowers of that plant with those of the red petunia, and thus procured this wonderful novelty?

German ten weeks stocks made most perfect plants both on account of their ovely tints and their deliciously spicy The prices quoted are for seeds in the fragrance. A snow-flake variety is offer ed, dwarf in habit and very double, and rarely producing single flowers-a desirable acquisition for every garden. Calendulas has been the pets of garden for several years past, and now a new African marigold comes to the front to rob them of their position. It is of the El Dorado variety, and has flowers of three and a half inches in diameter, with fringed and laced petals of four shades of yellow, varying from pale straw color to the richest orange.

Work for April.

April is a busy month from Prince Edward's Island to Puget Sound, says the American Agriculturist. When spring comes in the high northern latitudes, it is upon us at once. It is winter one day and almost summer the next. The heavy snows draw the frost from the soil, so that when this disappears the ground is ready for the plow. While snow lasts get out the manure, the work goes much quicker and easier on runners than on wheels. One of the earliest jobs is harrowing winter grain. The advantage of a thorough harrowing with a smoothing harrow is so great that it pays not to sow grass in the autumn, but at the time of harrowing in a bond is given that the oats will be called spring. Grain sowed broadcast by itself for when ready. The note is good, because should always be harrowed several times. should always be harrowed several times. the stirring of the soil is a great advantage. Grass sown by itself will almost uniformly give satisfaction. The earlier spring grains are sown the better. Forage crops, such as peas and oats, spring rye, wheat and vetches or peas, should be put in in suc-cession once in two weeks. Certain seeds

To MAKE A WATER FILTER .- A VERY good water filter may be made as follows: Get a large stoneware crock with an opening at the bottom for a faucet; put in the bottom six inches of large clean stones to make a cavity; cover this with a slate cut to fit, and in which a quantity of holes are made; on this lay three inches of coarse gravel, then three inches of clean-washed charcoal as large as peas; then clean-washed sand three inches, and a slate as before on this. Put the water in the top and put on the cover. Keep it in a cool place or put ice in the water. For sufficient reasons all ice water should be tiltered, and all water that is not certainly above suspicion, and there is very little such.

THE BEST FOWL .- For all purposes the Plymoth Rock or the light Brahma is the most profitable fowl. The eggs are dark colored, large, and high flavored, and bring the best price in the market. The Plymouth Rock has white skin and flesh: the Brahma vellow. Both are excellent eating and make large early chicks, and both are as good layers as any other fowl except Leghorns, which are very poor table fowls and rarely rear chicks. The Langshan is a very handsome black fowl. but is inferior to these two breeds in several respects. From long experience with many kinds, the writer keeps only light Brahmas, and is quite satisfied with them for domestic use and for market.

SWINDLING FARMERS .- The frauds practiced upon farmers by knaves of various kinds have become so prevalent and notorious that even the agricultural department at Washington has turned its attention to the subject. Investigation has been made into the Bohemian oat swindle which has grown into such proportions as to become a serious disaster. In some counties in Ohio where the operators have worked industriously as much as $90,000 in notes obtained by fraudulent represen tions has been turned in the banks for collection in only one county, and, notwithstanding the publicity given to the frauds during three or four years past, the present season is more prolific of victims than the previous one. Farmers are induced to pay $10 a bushel for the seed of this worthless grain on the promise to take the produce at the same price. A note is given in payment for the seed, and but the bonds are worthless because the Multitudes of weeds are thus killed, and maker is not to be found when they

The council not on Membey night at dight oblight, with Mayor Descen in the their said Royte Walters and Cloub. Helph, Mallow, Students, Councily, Cust-did, 2. Walters and Taylor potent. This minutes of the last meeting were read and also several reports from the different standing; committees, just to refresh the memory of members who had been present and for the information of these who were absent. The minutes were approved of. COMMUNICATIONS

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Mr. Wm. Hungarized for the fire brigade band, stating that the charges made to the council that the band had alreed their privileges while using the fire hall were untrue. The communication also asked the council to grant a sufficient sum of money to pay for rent of a room. This communication was referred to the town property committee with instructions to give the use of the council chamber or rent a suffible room for the use of the band for practice and meeting room. From Mr. Fremont Crandell, suggesting some alterations in the present market by-law regarding the hours during which produce could be purchased for dealers. From Mr. S. Reaxin and 140 others asking for a sidewalk from Victoria-ave. to Albert-st. on the south side of Kent-st.—Referred to the street and bridge committee.

ADVICE AND ADMONITION.

Mayor DEACON censured the council for negligence of duty. Several committees had been called together and failed to meet. The committee to deal with the water supply had been neglectful and the committee to look after the main sewer had not apparently felt that matter of sufficient importance to meet to consider. Mayor Deacon gave a verbal report—as one of the delegation—of the visit of the delegation from Lindeay to Ottawa during last week. There was no definite assurance made regarding the post-office and customs buildings asked for. There was placed in the estimates a sum to further the iprogress of the Trent Valley canal. There was little hope that anything could or would be done towards relieving the town from its burden of railway debt and nothing either astisfactory or definite on this point had been ascertained by the delegation....Coun. Taylor asked for some information as to the location of the letter-boxes, and repeated the information already given on this point in THE Post of last week.....Mayor Deacon repeated to the council a summary of the proceedings at the meeting of Monday afternoon of last week, held to discuss with the representatives of the Grand Trunk railway the question of re-building at Lindsay the grain warehouse destroyed by fire. A proposition made by Mr. White for the company and held for approval of General Manager Hickson would be due the council in about one week. If this proposition was not agreed to by Mr. Hickson proceedings to enforce the provisions of the board would be at once instituted.

SMUTTY WHEAT.—The following is a safeguard against any smut that may be in seed grain:— Dissolve 1 fb. sulphate of copper or blue stone in boiling water, and dip your grain in the pickle the night before sowing. One pound of blue stone is sufficient for four bushels of wheat.

DEAR HISTORY.—Many of our people were taken in one year ago by a Chicago sharper who induced parties to sign their names to the family record, for statistical purposes they claimed. Now they are called upon by another agent to pay for a $12 book, the history of Dearborn County, APPLICATIONS FOR IMPROVEMENTS. addressed the council regarding the moving of several wooden buildings on William street. He proposed taking two of these down and putting two others into one building. A by-law lately passed would prevent him carrying out his project, unless the buildings so named were afterwards encased with brick. Coun. Keith referred to the by-law and said that it should be adhered to. The by-law was fetched and read over, and it was found that the by-law and Mr. Graham's proposition differed materially. It was finally decided to adhere to the by-law and insist on the building being bricked immediately after being moved.

after being moved. COURT OF REVISION.

Coun. CONNOLLY read a proposition which carried that the court of revision for the year be constituted as follows:—Mayor Deacon and Couns. Taylor, Mallon, Keith and H. Walters, to meet at the time specified by statute. THE SIGN AND MARKET BY-LAWS.

Reeve WALTERS read a proposed amendment to the by-law regulating signs on the streets, and after the usual routine the by-law was amended so as to allow of a sign being put up when such sign was a trade emblem, and suspended or supported not being put up when such sign was a trade emblem, and suspended or supported not lower than nine feet from the sidewalk or more than 12 inches inside the outer edge of the sidewalk... The question of amending the market by-law by allowing the market clerk to,buy articles and produce offered for sale was taken up. Coun. Crandell made a nowerful speech and urged that as fered for sale was taken up. Coun. Crandell made a powerful speech and urged that as there was practically a monopoly of the markets some competition should be created. Amending the by law in the way proposed would give competition, a thing very much to be desired. Coun. Mallon supported this view and said it would encourage the farmers to bring in produce. Coun. Connolly replied to Coun. Crandell's speech and said that if the by-law was amended as proposed tenders should be asked for the market and fees, as the opportunity would be more valuable. If tenders were asked for he would be willing to have the by-law amended. He said that the market was a poor one to buy anything at. Mayor vas a poor one to buy anything at. Mayo Deacon and one or two others spoke on the subject, and finally it was suggested that the amendment would be effective if the market clerk was allowed to buy on the market but not to retail again on the premises. On a vote this suggestion was ad-

Coun. MALLON brought forward a motion designed to do justice to him, as the pro-moter of the scheme which had resulted so moter of the scheme which had resulted so successfully in getting the post office letter-boxes at Lindsay. Reeve Walters would not oppose the resolution but said he thought that the letter-boxes were only given as a make shift by the government to avoid building a post-office at Lindsay. The resolution returned to the Dominion government the thanks of the town, coupling therewith the name of Coun. Mallon, and passed triumphantly.

AN ELECTRIC FIRE ALARM. Coun. CRANDELL, as chairman of the fire Coun. CRANDELL, as chairman of the fire and water committee, said that he had arranged with the local agent of the Bell Telephone Co., Mr. Johnston to supply and put up complete three electric signal alarm gongs and necessary lines. One gong would be placed in the police office, another at the fire hall and a third at the pumphouse. By using this system would be ensured prompt service in getting on the pressure in case of fire.
