The Army and Nevy Genetic has published an article which has caused quite a sensation in England. It states that advices from India indicate unessiness among the European efficials statemed in that country, owing to the existence of Brahmin plots against the English regime. The spirit of the native Indian succes is increasingly hostile to the English. The actuality hostile to the English regime. The actuality for an increase of the native armies and for arming the native soldiers with artillery of improved patterns is very formidable to the interests of the foreignborn residents of some portions of the provinces. The reduction of the strength of the English garrisons, owing to the military necessities in Burmah, has added to the alarm. The Genette declares that it will not be wise for the government to treat this as a sensational and unfounded report. It declares that the situation demands a watchful eye and a firm hund. The number of Brahmins involved is placed at 500,000.

-The London correspondent of the New York Times cables: On the continent everything is in a flutter of excitement over the sinister developme nts in the cast. Even the boulevardiers of Paris are absorbed in the thing since the French naval activity is supplemented by the declaration that France has refused to join in the coercion of Greece. It remains as impossible as ever to tell whether the three empires will decide on the partition of Bulgaria and Turkey, as they did on the partition of Poland, or fly at each other's throats over the question, but Prince Alexander's action, to say nothing of the attitude which Greece maintains, renders increasingly imperative prompt settlement of some sort. Alexander seems to have taken a position of much cleverness, for Russia cannot reach him on land save by traversing Roumania, which neither Austria nor Germany will allow, while an invasion by water he could for a time at least repel. The situation cannot much lenger remain in the state of confused obscurity now reigning. Somebody must soon show his hand, it seems safe to predict that another week must disclose the reality of the various positions of the powers, and it sorbed in the thing since the Franch naval another week must disclose the reality of the various positions of the powers, and it is equally safe to prophesy that the week will end in a grand war scare. Nobody on the continent professes any longer to be confident of peace. It seems to be taken for granted everywhere that war is inevitable. The only question is whether it will be the last despairing stand of the small nationalities against the big empires, or a conflict between the Titans themselves. Greece is not so foolish in all this affair as she seems to be. Her actions all have a method in their madness. She counts on uprisings all over the Turkish empire, which will take up so much of the Turkisish army that she can easily whip the rest, which will take up so much of the Turk-ish army that she can easily whip the rest, and, moreover, she relies on Russian aid. Meanwhile the Russian papers are openly declaring that the czar's visit to the Crimea means overt action, the first step of which will be the forcible deposition of Prince Alexander of Battenberg. Even more interesting is the fact that the Berlin more interesting is the fact that the Berlin press is beginning to show its teeth in defense of the prince, which is held to mean that Germany is preparing to take an active part in the affair as protector of Bulgaria. There are many other notable indications of shifting conditions, the chief of them the accession of a pro-Russian ministry to power in Servia, but it would be a thankless and profitless task now to try to straighten out the tangled web when it is likely to be soon cut by the aword. It is enough to say that the belief in war is general, and there is a moral certainty that SCARING THE VANKER FIRM Mr. Mitchell brought up the fisheries question Monday night and sidiculed the ament's efforts to fit out a ficet for that Mr. McLelan, the late minister, thought only of finding jobs for his fellowthe Canadian fleet, is too slow for the purthe Canadian fleet, is too slow for the purpose for which she is being used. Mr. Mitchell has experience and ability, both of which qualities are sadly lacking in the late and present marine ministers. Mr. Foster made himself ridiculous by saying that the steamer Lansdowne would scare away American fishing vessels if she could not catch them. Mr. Mitchell said he hoped that was not the policy of the government. What was wanted was a vessel that would capture and punish trespassers and not one that would give them ample warning to enable them to get out of the way with their plunder.

THE LIBERTY OF THE SUBJECT.

THE LIBERTY OF THE SUBJECT. The member for St. John, N.B., brought up the question of a man who was sent to the Dorehester penitentiary in New Brunswick for an indictable offence, breach of trust while in office. The sentence was thought excessive and an appeal was taken to the supreme court of the province, which found that the wasrant of commitment was void, and therefore the process upon which the prisoner was de-tained was insufficient to detain him. But process upon which the prisoner was de-tained was insufficient to detain him. But just here the minister of justice stepped in and ordered the prisoner to the King-ston penitentiary, outside the jurisdiction of the court, so that when the judgment of the supreme court of New Brunswick was rendered the action of the department of justice made it inoperative. Mr. Weldon characterized this as an outrage on the right of a British subject to be brought up on a writ of habeas corpus. The minister of justice admitted that the man could not be legally detained in Dorchester, and he was removed to Outario so that an infor-mality about the warrant of commitment could be corrected. To find a precedent for this act Mr. Weldon said they would have to go back to the time of Charles the First, but until the papers are brought down it is useless to pronounce on the pre-cise character of government interference in this matter.

in this matter. SOME FANCY CHARGES. The statement of expenditure under special appropriation of $2,300,000, granted shows that out of that grant $763,575 was paid to the Hudson Bay Company for supplies and transport. Some of the company's charges appear to be exorbitant. Bread is charged for at ten cents per pound, coal oil at one dollar per gallon, seven dollars per pair for blankets, seven dollars a dozen for canned meat, fifty cents per pound for coffee, 25 cents per pound for bacon, 30 cents for corned beef, 25 cents per pound for substitutings. Also 33 acres of same lot on the for corned beef, 25 cents per pound for sugar, 10 cents a pound for oatmeal, 90 cents a bushel for potatoes, two dollars per gallon for lime-juice, 30 cents a pound for cheese, one dollar per pound for tobacco, four cents per pound for oats, nine cents a pound for flour, sixty cents a pound for gunpowder, and everything else in proportion. The charges for transport are also exorbitant, and it is easy to understand how the Hudson Bay Company's bill is so large. No less than $6,497 was paid by the government as commission and discount to the minister for collection. Mr. Fred. Stimson of bribery conspiracy fame figures

Stimson of bribery conspiracy fame figures Stimson of bribery conspiracy fame figures in accounts as recipient of $425 for two horses, although the horses were bought for the mounted police at less than $150 each.
