A GRANGER'S ESCAPADE.- Last week a tenant on Mr. Johnston Rrewster's farm, near Oak Hills, skipped off in the night with about a thousand bushels of grain. It was one of the cleverest "scoops" of the many that have occurred in this county in the past five years. Mr. Brewster lived on the same farm and in the same house with an place twice its size in Canada doing the the tenant. He was there on the night of the flight, but knew nothing of his loss till morning. It is estimated that not less than to teams were employed in moving the grain, and where it is gone is still a mys-tery. [World.

During the noon hour on Wednesday last the woolen mills of Mr. ames Dyer, Gardthe woolen mills of Mr. ames Dyer, Garder Hill, caught fire on the upper part of the premises. The mill hands were sty their dinners and the deavouring element had gained considerable headway before it was discovered. There being no appliances shout the place to extinguish the flames the fire had its own way. There was a large quantity of finished and unfinished cloth on hand, only a small portion of which was saved; some ten or twelve thousand founds of wool in stock was also burned. The fire spread to the store and post office, which with three dwellings and a barr of fire spread to the store and post office, which we sorry to learn there was not an analysis of the head shipper, assisted by the fire and a lot of agricultural implements, on which we sorry to learn there was nota-survived in one day. The head shipper, assisted by an analysis of the head shipper, assisted by the way of the head shipper, assisted by the province, were destroyed. Mr. James Dyer had only $6,000 insurance on the mill and sore; not one-quarter the amount he ought to have had. One of the dwellings was owned by Mr. R. Beer, the other two dwellings belonging to Mr. Dyer. The whole lose will reach upwards of twenty-five thousand dollars.—[Guide.

Serious Gun Accident.—On Thursday of week a serious accident happened to Mr. John Duggan, jun., of Verulam. While on his way from the house to the barn to shoot a squirfel he had seen there he stopped to speak to his father, who was working in the woodshed, the sill of which is unusually high. Mounting the sill, the young man rested the butt of his gun on it and held the barrel, on which he must have been leaning heavily; for as he turned and stepped down the gun slipped and the hammer struck the edge of the sill with such force that the cap not only exploded such force that the cap not only exploded but the lock was torn from the stock. Part of the charge of shot plowed a deep fur-row just above his hip, and then—missing his back, but testing his shirt and vest to ribbons—entered his shoulder, from which several grains were afterwards picked out by Dr. Graham, who was called to attend him, and under whose care he is doing well. Mr. Duggan's escape from instant death was a very narrow one, and will, it is to be hoped, serve as a warning to him-self and other sportsmen not to handle firearms as carelessly as if they were walk-ing sticks, as too many of them are in the habit of doing.—[Gazette,

LAIDLEY & WAUGH'S STOREHOUSE DE-STROYED. On Saturday morning last about one o'clock the large grain store-house on Sturgeon-st. owned by Messra. Inside & Waugh was destroyed by fire. When it was first discovered the whole When it was first discovered the whole building along the roof was one mass of roaring flames and nothing could possibly be done to stay their progress, although the fire engine, hose and buckets were speedily brought to the scene of the conflagration. Mr. Hart Williams' residence, just south of the burning building, had a narrow escape. A Grand Trunk box-car standing on the siding was also burned. On Kriday evening the scales, barrows and scoops were brought down from the upper storehouse about six o'clock that evening, when there was no sign of fire aroung the place. Those who saw the fire first say place. Those who saw the fire first say that the building must have been well saturated inside with coal oil, for they never saw a fire spread so rapidly and burn with such fury. Fortunately for our town rain had been falling during the night, and even while the fire was raging it was still raining, which no doubt prevented the destruction of a large portion of the village. Mr. Laidley informs us that there was between twelve and thirteen thousand bushels of grain in the storehouse, the loss on which was covered by insurance. The building was erected in 1883 at at a cost of building was erected in 1883 at at a cost of $1,500 and was insured for $750; while the scales, barrows, etc., were insured for $100.

The fire was no doubt the work of an incendiary. Mr. McDonald, as representative of the owners of the grain, said he would give one thousand dollars for the apprehension and conviction of the person who set the fire. Mr. Laidley is undecided as to whether he will rebuild. We can assure Mr. Laidley that he has the sympathy of his fellow-citizens in his heavy loss.—¡Herald.

ENGAGED.—We understand our teachers have engaged Mr. Lachlin McDonald as their teacher for the ensuing year as successor to Mr. Slias Smith, our present teacher, who resigned the position as teacher of our school with the intention of at-tending some high school to study for a higher certificate. We wish Mr. Smith all success in his studies. IMPROVEMENTS .- Our enterprising trustees have made great improvements on and around the school house. The building, which was threatening to fall owing to flaws in the foundation, was put on a solid basis by Mr. Alexander McKay, the skilful mason of this place, who dug to the solid rock and then erected substantial abuterate of stone under each corner. abutments of stone under each corner. He also repaired other flaws in the brickwork. We think it will stand now. The trustees lately had a big bee, to which they invited the ratepayers of the section. The graded and gravelled around the school building and also made. and also made a walk to the highway. It presents a different appearance and will he a benefit to the achool. We would suggest to other trustees to go and do like-wise.
