He told his listeners that to go through a campaign such as he had just done, was by no means to lie upons bed of roses. One of the greatest discomforts in a political campaign was that each candidate had more or less to run the gauntlet of slander. He himself, perhaps, had escaped from this kind of warfare as easily as most candidates, still he regretted that the tongue of slander had not been silent about him, and he was sensitive of the unjust things that had been said about him. He did not wish to be understood as now attacking the conservative party in this regard, althought unquestionably the evit things yet the pleasures, he thought, more than out-weighed all else. He should never forget the kind, warm hospitality he met with north, south, east and west, wherever he went, from one and all alike irrespective of party, in the homes of the people upon the farme. No trouble seemed to be too great, and if he did kiss a few babies, why what of it; but he never did-it only show-ed that even the babies too made him welcome. (Laughter) Afriend of his sought come. (Laughter) A friend of his sought to sympathize with him on account of the terrible trials it was thought he had gone through; but he replied to such friend that candidates in rural constituencies were always brought face to face with the best side of human nature. They saw charity bestowed, benevolence exercised, and hospitality freely given, which could not always be the experience of men in city con-wave be the experience of men in city con stituencies, where social ties made people distant and cold one towards another. He must not forget that to-night he was among Scotchmen, and that fact reminded him that when dret nominated a gentleman in Toronto, an ex-politician, a man of great prominence, and great as he was good, seemed to be sorry for the position in which he (Mr. Barron) was placed. "Why," he said, "you cannot be elected. "Why," replied Mr. Barron. "Because," said this good man "you are not a Scotchman and Eldon won't help you." (Laughter.) Well, Mr. Barron said, he had not been a day in Ridon in company with his friend, D. C. Gilchrist, before he ascertained that his Toronto friend's statement had no foundation in fact, and he stood there tonight as the representative of North Vic-toria, a living proof of the untruthfulness of his friend's prophesy. (Great applause.)

Some of his supporters were lamenting that they could not get a certain voter.

"Why not," asked the laudlady of the house where the conversation took place. "B.

cause," they said " they bad no means of supporters plotting how they could get a ertain vot. r; they could only do so by getting him away from one of his (Mr. Barron's) committeemen, who, it appears, had much influence over the voter. A plan was arranged and then the little boy ran and told his mother, and soon she appeared hooded and cloaked just in time to see the plan being put into operation; but the good lady took this committeeman by the arm, and in those lovely, dulcet, commanding tones which sometimes ladies use when anything displeases them, this lady shewed the committeeman he was being made a tool of, and the vote was saved. (Applause and laughter.) The presence of adles, Mr. Barron said, reminded him to to take a greater interest in campaigning, a greater interest in the elections and in the government of the country, the moral standard of political warf re would be raised and much improved, and he hoped the day would soon come when they would be saked to take a practical interest in the innues between the two parties. He wished to thank them for paying him the com-

SPRING

ARRIVED.

As we intend to kill the dog and make other improvements this spring, it is now in order to say something, whether it be much or little, about some bargains we have to offer in Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Millinery and Mantles, Car-pets and House-furnishings, Readymade Clothing and Gents' Furnishings, and our Merchant Tailoring department, which is the most perfeet and complete in the Midland

BARGAINS did we say? Yes, that is the most expressive word in our vocabulary at present; we might, however, make it more impressive by the use of strong adjectives but prefer to omit them for the present.

BARGAINS, what a small word to be of such significance and vital importance to the ordinary householder. It speaks volumes and conveys peace and happiness to a large number of taxpayers, and causes the veins of hilarious mirth to open instantaneously, and yet there are a few people who con tinue to confine their patronage to the old fogy style of doing business, simply because they have never yet been properly initiated BARGAINS! Our experience has taught us that the great major-General Agt. Madnay. Ity appreciate and glory in a good bargain. They enjoy it more than a small boy does who steals off and goes in swimming, and yet we are told there are some hard-heads who have never experienced such pleasant sensations. BARQUET TO MR. J. A. BARRON, M. P., AT WOODVILLE.

A Large and Florent Cathering - Rio-quest Speech from Mr. Sarron-Some Eapper Largestee The invitation to Mr. J. A. Barron, M.P. by his Woodville and Eldon friends to attend a banquet at Woodville last Tuesday night, resulted in his being met at Grasshill, where he and Mrs. Barron and a few Lindway friends left the train by several conveyances and a band of music, thence they were all driven to Woodville, preceded by the band and a sleigh-load carrying torches. Mr. and Mrs. Barron were entertained at the residence of Mrs. John Morrison, widow of the late John Morrison. rison, widow of the late John Morrison, who formerly represented the constituency. A out 8.30 Spencer's hall was well filled, when Mr. sud Mrs. Barron, Mrs. John Morrison and Miss Morrison, Mr. Cockburn, ex M.P., Mr. William Cameron, Mr. Jas. Dickson, Mr. G. G. Ketth, Mr. and Mrs. McSweyn, and a few others entered the hall. Full justice was soon done to the good things prepared by Mr. and Mrs. McKinnon of the Northern. Among those present beside those mentioned were Mr. Wm. Lownsbrough, Mr. Thos. Walters, mayor of Lindsay, Mr. W. Eyres, pres. S. V. reform association, Messre. Donald Jackson, Donald Campbell, D. C. Gilchrist, J. C. Gilchrist, R. Adam, W. McKee, Dr. Baxter, Dr. McKay, John Guun, er., A. Gunn, V. S., A. C. Campbell, and many others, numbering about one hundred and fifty altogether.

Mr. Jae. Dickson, the president of the reform association presided, and Mr. W. Eyres occupied the vice-chair.

The CHARMAN before beginning the pro-The CHAIRMAN before beginning the proceedings of the evening stated that he had letters from different persons regretting their inability to attend, one of them being from Mr. D. J. McIntyre, ex M.P.P., who was compelled to be at Whitby on professional services, thus preventing his be-reseional services, thus preventing his being present.

"The Queen" was then proposed and her health drank in right royal manner, when Mr. Thos. Waiters sang the national anthem, which was joined in by the entire company. A song from Mr. Walters was then called for, and he gave "Canada our hearth is capital and her health drank in right royal manner, when bome" in capital style.

Other patriotic toasts followed, when the "Dominion parliament and legislative assemblies" brought to his feet Mr. Cockburn, late M. P. for North Ontar o. He was enthusiastically received on rising and ex-pressed his pleasure at being present among his old constituents to do honor to Mr. Barren, who had so gallantly redeemron's victory showed to the people what ability, hard and constant work and timely action would accomplish. North Victoria now afforded a fine example for other eral electionsering plans of his opponents stated. He ridiculed the professions of loyalty of the tory party when they would stoop to such unfair means as they had portunity of being present to join in the rejoicing over the late great victory in

Mr. G. G. KRITH, who was also called to respond, in the course of his able remarks they would not be led through the mire of boodleism by Mr. Barron's late opponent, and they were entitled to all credit for preferring country to party. He alluded to several leading issues of the day in a mest spirited manner, and received much applause when he sat down.

(Louid laughter.)

The VICE-CRAINMAN then proposed in slequent inaguage the health of "Our Guest," which was enthusiastically reviewed.

Mr. Barrow on rising was loudly cheered and applauded. After recording to some of the humorous references to himself by previous speakers, he went on to say that when he remembered that in the late campaign he had received, he believed, the unannous support of the party to which he was silled; when he remembered that many conservative had joined their side in the late campaign he had received, he believed, the unannous support of the party to which he was silled; when he remembered that many conservative had joined their side in the late campaign he had received, he believed, the unannous support of the party for which he was silled; when he remembered that some conservative had joined their side in the late campaign he had received, he believed, the unannous support of the party for aid and assistance has revoked when he remembered that some conservative had joined their side in the late and the support of provinces, and nevented him from exercisely when he remembered that some conservatives perhaps not meany, but certainly some had for presonal reasons helped him or voted provinces and provinces, and has actually arouned of the province of support of provinced has actually arouned in the province of support of provinces, and has actually arouned for the province of support of provinces, and has actually a rouned for the province of support of provinces, and has actually a rouned for the province of support of provinces of support has different himself by the support of provinces and provinces and provinces and provinces and provinces and provin eloquent language the health of "Our Guest," which was enthusiastically received. Mr. Bannon on rising was loudly cheered and applicated. After retorting to some name is "Lansdowne," and is made ourposely for the adornment of man. You may try until you are black in the face and you cannot buy it outside of the City Store, because nobody else in Lindsay can get it.

Our Merchant Tailoring department is under the management of Mr. Cathro. His aim is to make every suit a walking advertisement for the City Store, and every walking advertisement a City Store suit.

Mr. Barrow on rising was loudly cheer. In additional selection in the sum of the bumorous references to himself by previous speakers, he went on to say that when he remembered that in the late camping he had received, he believed, the unimplies he had received, he believed that many conservatives had joined their side in the fight, because they thought the time had savived when a change of government was required; when he remembered that some conservatives had an invelop and some passively swelted him for reasons which generally some had for personal reasons helped him on the couply swelted him for reasons helped him on the couply swelted him for reasons helped him on the couply swelted him for reasons helped him on the city store, perhaps not many, but certainly some had for personal reasons helped him on the couply swelted him for reasons helped him on the couply swelted him for reasons which he was sittle store to speak, for years, before any constitute and control of the latter and gettiened as well and so intimately as he was well and so intimately as he was the certain. He was sittle selection. He was sittle selection and the couple of the hadron and in expressing his true feelings. He looked upon the honor paid him so the greatest that could be conterred on man by his fellow-men, for greater than high official positions, because they were generally in the gift of one man or one set of men; but his position to-night was one he was placed in by the free and intelligent vote of the people, and he carnestly and devoutly hoped that he might not be found wenting, but that his health might be spaced and ability given him to properly represent the great riding of North Victoria, which boasted of possessing the time-honored and giverous name of our beloved soverign. (Applause.) He told his listeners that to go through a campaign such as he had just done, was LOCAL NEWS-LETTERS REABORO.

He did not confine his censure to one party. The respective parties should be rid of such sianderers. (Applause). They did no good to their party and no good to their country, because they were of a class spoken of by one of the speakers in the late campaign, who, rather than vote against their party, would prefer going to the funeral of a skunk and kissing the corper. (Laughter.) But—he went on to say—though the labor was great, the annoyances many, and the risk considerable, yet the pleasures, he thought, more than most respected neighbors in the person of Mr. Henry Ronan, now of Orillia, and Mr. Radcliffe. FARMERS' INSTITUTE.—The farmer's institute is still talked of, and all those present are more convinced of the usefulness It is quite likely that a meeting of the in-stitute will be held in Fenelon Falls in June. The commencement of an agriculture library for the use of the members of the institute is in contemplation, and the idea is one that should by all means be carried cut. There is a strange aversion among a vast number of farmers to what they call book learning, which is a lament able mistake. Book learning alone will of the study of mechanical works will make a carpenter. Practical skill is a necessity, but a .nan may be left to his own perso experience for fifty years, and then be in perfect ignorance of the various component parts of any grain or root he has ever grown. The earth is merely factory for converting certain chemicals into certain grains and roots, and to keep the land in fertility whatever is taken out of it must be restored. What hope then is there for a man being an intelligent and successful farmer, unless he knows what each crop has taken from the land. It is not within the means or learning of every man to undertake these scientific experiments, but the result of such experiments and analysis is to be obtained from books, and all that knowledge is to be obtained in and all that knowledge is to be obtained in a few hours by any man who can read. A library for the use of the members would be of inestimable value, -[Independent. Accident. On Thursday, about halfpast five o'clock, Mr. James Wright was struck by a tree and severely injured. SHOCKING ACCIDENT. - A shocking coast ing accident happened at Roblin's mill, Rossmore, near Belleville, on Friday night. The steep embankment to the rear of the flour mill has been a favorite resort of coasting parties all winter. Sieighs, especially bobs, dash down the steep incline at lightning like rapidity. On Friday night a party of three young men were merrily enjoying themselves with a pair of bobs. Byron Bush, aged eighteen years, was steering. In making a descent a runner of the leading sleigh cut through the crust and Bush could not control it. The party dashed full speed into a stump. Poor Sush's head was knocked into a jelly. MOVING TO PEFFEBLAW. - Mr. John Mc-Dougal, late of the Beaver Mills, near Canhas purchased the grist mill there from Mr. Thos. Stokes, and expects to commence business in a short time.

BASKET SOCIAL.—The basket social held in the town hall last Monday evening was quite a success. There was a good turn out. A few young gentlemen paid a good price for their baskets, hoping to have the pleasure of sharing it with their particular particular was lade. ng lady, but some were doomed to disappointment.

DEBENTURES SOLD.—Our debentures for fire and town hall nurposes have been sold in Toronto for $6.722, which is about one per cent over par. This shows that the credit of Caumington stands high. The sale was made by the reeve and Mr. Brandon.

Naw Staner.—A new street from Laidlaw to Ann-st. is to be opened. It is to be called Ham et.

A BUILDING BOOM.—Preparations are being made for the exaction of several brick stores and dwellings, which, along with our new hall, is going to make things very lively here this summer. Work will be commenced on some of them immediately.

....Mr. C. C. McPhaden has purchased the house Mr. McDougal lived in and is going to move in it at once.... There seems to be a general movement for building and improving premises in this village this spring. Something of the nature of a boom in property is in progress here. VICTORIA ROAD.

BASKET SOCIAL.—A basket social was held on Friday evening, February 25th, at the residence of Mr. Armour. A large company gathered and a very pleasant evening was spent in games and social chat. The baskets, which were very elegant affairs, were sold by Mr. McKenzie of Kirkfield, and realized high prices. Altogether $28.00 was realized for the Sunday school of St. Thomas, and other funds of the church..... In a paragraph in a former seue the sum realized was erroneously printed $2.00.

EMILY.

AN OLD SETTLER GONE. - Death carried off the other day Mr. Bartholomew Knaly, one of our oldest settlers, at the advanced age of ninety years. Mr. Knaly was born in Limerick and came to Canada in 1825. He married Miss Mary Madigan in Peter-boro, and settled on lot 1, in the 11th con., where he has since lived, with the exception of three years in the States. There was a family of four daughters and two sons. The deceased was a member of the Roman Catholic church and was a respected resident of the township.

OAKWOOD.

A WARDER LIE NAILED.—We notice your town cotem, keeps up the same con-temptible warfare after the battle that temptible warfare after the carter the characterized its columns during the election during the campaign just closed. We are informed that the editorial under the caption, "How Methodists resort to reliligious appeals," is of a character with very many of the same writer's articles. It is simply full of lies. The appeal was never made by Mr. Lownsbrough, and no such or similar conversation with any Metho-dist or Methodist class-leader ever took place in Omemeror any where else in which Mr. Lownsbrough was one of the parties. In short it is one of the Warder's lies from whole cloth. [Remainder of letter next

DRESS AND MANTLE MAKING. - MISS Hern wishes to inform the ladies of Oak-wood and vicinity that she has opened out a dress and mantle-making establishment next to the post office and respectfully solicits patronage. Orders will be promptly filled. -36-13.

WOODVILLE.

[Correspondence of The Post.] IMPROVED STOCK - Mr. Arch Shaw of lot 4, con. 1. Eldon, has purchased from Mr. John Westlake, the well known stockbreeder, a fine two year oid throughbred Durham bull. He is a fine animal, all dark red, and weighs 2010 bs. Mr. Shaw's en-terprise will no doubt be duly appreciated by the farmers of the neighborhood ... Mr. Shaw recently sold a 51 yr. old horse for

PRESENTATION .- Last Wednesday evening the ladies' class of the Methodist Sunday school presented their teacher Miss Lizzie Parsone, who is about removing to Manilla, with a hand-ome album as a token of the respect and esteem in which she is held by the class

OBITUARY. -Mr. John Gunn of Woodville received a telegram from Brucefield almouncing the death on Wednesday last of Rev. John Ross of that place. Mr. Ross was well known thr unh thi section and in Beaverton, having when a student supplied the Beaverton Prespyterian church for a summer. He was the last minister of the Free church party who remained out of the union.-[Express.

BEAVERTON.

[Correspondence of The Post.] MONEY .- $50 000 private funds to lend at six per cent. No commission. Apply to Louis M. HAVES, Barrister, or J. C. JENNETT, Insurance Agent, Beaverton, -34 'f DIPHTHERIA is again prevalent in our village. Mr. A. Ham. on of the Hamilton house, so lately afflicted, is once more the victim. His second daughter Ethel is down with this read dis ase. Every one sympathises with Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton in their trouble. At the time of sending our notes the life of the child is in the balance. A little one way or the other will decide. Let us hope for the best.

REMOVAL TO PETERBORO. - We very nuch regret to announce that Mr. Louis M. Hayes, our much estremed legal authority, has left us for Peternoro. We understand, however, that al hough his principal deid of business will be in the mentioned town he wall still repeir to his "first love" occasionally. He can't give up Beaverton altogether. He will be here about once a fortnight and met probably on all court days, so ong as they don't in terfere with his main pusiness. But his old clients in this neighb rhood wishing case can do so on application to Mr. Jos. C. Jennett of the Beaver on general agency, who, we may state, take- full charge of the loan and collecting pusiness. We wish Mr. Hayes much success in his new field of

REVISING OFFICER'S CLERK - We have also to mention that in course quence of Mr. Hayes leaving our neighb smood he has had to resign the position of revising offi-cer's clerk, which he had under Judge Dartnell to the satisfaction of every one. His successor, we understand, has been appointed in the person of Mr. B. Madill, banker, of this place, and brother of the newly-elected member. This is considered a good appointment. We presume the other officers of the court will be the other officer s of the court will be the same as last year. Mr. Jennett retaining his old position. On all hands the revising officer and his assistants received much praise from all parties for the very impartial manner in which the necessary business was conducted, and we may confidently look for a repetition of the same this year. ST. PATRICK'S DAY is not soing to pass unnoticed in Beaverton after all. almost given it up as a han jub, but we understand one of our whole souled Irishmen resident in our town purp see celebrating dence by an oyster supper, music, etc., to which all our principal residents are invited. This is just an avant courier to what we may expect in future years. So, Mr. —, here's "a votre sante," and good luck to ould Ireland.

TROTTING .- At the time of sending our notes we do not know of the re-uit of the race between McRae's Marthower and Smith & Co.'s Mand Barnett. It all depends on the track. If it is hard and clear Mayflower is the winner; if not, the other and stronger animal will win. Both animals are good bits of horsett-sh and well mais are good bits of horself-sh and well cared for. Who'll buy the winner, gentlemen? Make us an off-r. Whoever wins now is their chance to make money.

Convaluscent.—Mr. Wm. Joyce, V.S., has returned to town fully restored to his health. He has been very successful since he has engaged in his practice here. His business extends as far south as Sunder-h EBSONAL.—Harrison & Leslie have pro-cured the services of Miss Lee of Toronto to take charge of their millinery depart-ment the coming season. Business.—Mr. H. Westcott, hardware merchant, has opened a branch store in Brechin. This will be a great convenience for the farmers of Mara, as he keeps a full stock of everything in the hardware line.
