LINDRAY, FRIDAY, APRIL 22, 1867, · 4 290, THE RPOTS ON THE SUN.

The wonderful power over certain carfuly affairs and disturbances, attributed to the spots on the sun, is denied by many able scientists and affirmed by others withmuch force of argument, and a strong array of curious facts. The theory is an attractive one for scientific speculation and discussion, and possesses deep interout for the ordinary reader. It is contended that the recent science disturbances along the Atlantic coast and in Italy. were more or less directly caused by affinge and unexpected revolutions and changes on the surface of the mighty orb that lights the world. Prof. Wiggins is a firm believer in the theory and an ardent advocate of its adoption and use in those predictions that have won him world-wide fame, and a good deal of ridicule and con-

THE DEPUTY-RETURNING OF.

The reformers in the contest Wednessday labored under the signal and unusual made of late years, or any particular cause for complaint. But in this election many circumstances point to a determination to make an much mer an possible of any partinen deputy who could be found willing to loud himself to whatever faction the situation might require. Early in the day a deputy in the north ward was discovered in a little game that, undetected, would a policy? Are we to exclude America shipphave left the way clear for putting in some good work. He was promptly stopped, and pleaded ignorance, forgotting apparently that he had had long experience in polling, and that he had even been a fullfledged returning officer in a riding contest. The discovery of this game put the reformers on the elect, and they soon learned that the deputies at Ray's and MeHugh's, two reform strongholds, were using the wrong caths for the purpose of blocking reform voters. They had a printed form of oath, similar to that used in the provincial elections, and with which they maintained they had been supplied by the returning officer. The matter was also brought to the attention of Mr. Dunaford, but we regret to learn he declined to take action to put the deputies right, even to indicate, by a brief writing, which was the proper form of onth and which was the improper form. The inwould have been only fair and right if he had taken some stops to correct a gross

It is a very serious matter indeed if deputy returning officers are to be allowed become, to a certain extent, partisan tools; and if public confidence in election officials is to be impaired.

The extra-election in Couth Victoria vative candidate by a majority of 50. The contest was fought with great energy and with the tremendous forces and influences did not roll up the expected majority of 200 counted on by them with great confidence. They were aided by two cabinet tosh, the contract-broker of Ottawa, and known far and wide as the "boodle" dispenser for the party. His followers were numerous and active.

Mr. Needler made a gallant fight, and deserves the highest credit for his public spirit in entering upon the campaign. He worked hard, and received hearty and energeticassistance. The reform party have good reason to feel proud of him and his record; and he and they have nothing to regret except that they were not able to get out or win two or three votes more than they did in each polling sub-division. Mr. Needler made certain natural gains and sustained certain losses as compared with the February vote. A Lindsay candidate would naturally gain in the town and adjoining townships, but a somewhat better vote was expected in Verulam and

Although beaten in the contest, the reform party have no reason to feel discouraged over the situation. On the contrury, they will be ready to go into the next campaign with vigor and hopefulness, for the riding is a very close one

An excellent suggestion regarding the forthcoming local jubilee celebration is made by "Citizen" in a letter elsewhere printed. A large committee of leading citizens should be appointed in due course to consider the matter.

A profound sensation has been caused by the London Times printing an alleged letter from Parnell to an American friend expressing mild regret at the assessination of Lord Frederick Cavendish and approval of the murder of Burke. The letter, it is said, was written to allay the discontent in Irish circles in America with Parnell's parliamentary denunciation of the crime. Mr. Parnell has denounced the letter as a vile and clumsy forgery, which it is beyond doubt. The Times, however, maintains the genttineness of the document and chalenges Mr. Parnell to proceed against it

Both sides had an excellent organization, and worked hard to employed in their favor, the conservatives wis. The tory side had two cabines ministers, Hon. Mr. Foster and Hon. Mr. ministers one making two visits to the low class, never heard before in the riding, riding but a much more powerful influ- and who could really have done their came ence was developed by Mr. C. Some of the speakof not more than ordinary reckle but a few of them were disgraceful slandpersonal abuse and the circulation of calumny and slander on the streets and bye ways. Two of them were like alarm clocks that, when wound up, rattle off for an hour or two at tremendous speed the same old story. On the reform side Dr. Landerkin, M. P., and Mr. Fisher, M. P., addressed a large meeting in Lindsey, and the former very effective speaker, earnest and impressive, with a humor vein now and then that takes immensely. Mr. Fleher is a quiet, selid speaker, whose sincerity is apparent and whose words carry great weight with any suddence. Some arrangements with speakers in the local house failed owing to other engagements intervening. Mr. D. E. Cameron of Lucknow gallantly filled the placer as far as possible, and gave a splendid series of addresses in Maripose and Verniam. Mr. Cameron is a clear, eloquent and incisive speaker, and has such a mastery of public affairs and political questions, and such ready talent for denate, that he would make a leading parliamentary representative, and we shall be greatly surprised if one of the Bruces does not send Mr. Cameron to Ottawa ere long. Mr. Joseph Tait of Toronto rendered most effective service. Mr. Tait is one of the best political speakers in the province, and has great power over an audience. Mr. Peter Ryan of Toronto addressed several meetings. Rie speaker to the immense audience in the old English church Monday evening was one of the finest ever heard in Lindsay. Mr. Coumse of Algoma, an exceedingly able speaker, filled an appointment in North Emily, giving an admirable address. Mr. D. F. Burke, the late liberal candidate for Algoma, did capital work in North Verulam. Mr. W. D. Gregory, president of the Toronto young men's liberal club, rendered valuable assistance in South Maripose; and Mr. J. C. Drury of Napanee shewed very creditable results in Omemee and South Emily in heiping in the organizing and canvase. Mr. W. T. R. Preston, it is deedless to add, rendered valuable assistance in organizing and holding meetings. Local speakers and workers without number assisted heartily all through the gamerical.

Some femericable and unusual blunder, if nathing worse, has accurred in connection with the forms of oath to be used by deputy-roturning officers. They were supplied with proper Dominion forms, but a good many, and perhaps all of them, used the provincial forms, which are quite different. How was this? This is a matter that requires explanation. The blunder caused trouble and hard feeling in some places. Steps were taken to get the proper form of oath for Ray's and McHughis, and the matter was brought before Mr. Dunsford, returning officer, who declared that he had supplied the proper form, but he declined to forward one duly certified as the responsibility in the premises should rest with the deputy.

At Remooro, Mr. C. G. Cody, the reform serutineer, was placed under arrest by the deputy, a high hasaded and outrageous proceeding. The deputy, Mr. W. N. Res, instituted on questioning a voter named Pat-deputy, a high handed and outragenue proceeding. The deputy, Mr. W. N., Rea, issisted on questioning a voter named Patrick Collins as to his qualification; but Mr. Cody maintained firmly that all the deputy could do was to swear the man. Mr. Collins was ready to take the oath, but after some wrangling the deputy took off his cost and threatened to lick Cody and put him out. Mr. Cody defended himself, there was a fusie, a crowd of tories rushed to the assistance of Mr. Rea and Mr. Cody was hustled out of the building. Mr. David Reid was struck and his son was hit several times in a later unpleasantness. On getting suiside Mr. Cody got a club and defled his assailants, but finally decided to surrender. The constables placed him under arrest in a building near by, where he did not long remain, however. On receipt of the news Mr. H. B. Dean and others drive to Reaboro, where Mr. Deans and that the count was properly carried on. Mr. Cody is an energetic scrutineer, and the arrest was made, it is believed, for the purpose of getting him out of the way and leaving the poil free for the the others.

At the suggestion of Lindsay members of the County Council steps have been taken to ascertain. as nearly as possible, the sum required to thoroughly repair and make as permanent as possible leading roads throughout the county. Reeves of each municipality will report at the June session of the council.

It is, we believe, proposed to raise a sum sufficient to cover the expense, repayable by means of a sinking fund, added to yearly. The scheme is a good one. Not only good, but feasible. No better investment could be made. The county; as a county-is free of debt. Money to make the improvement can be had at a low rate of interest.
