OBITUARY.—It is our sad duty this week to chronicle the death of an old and respected neighbour, Mrs John Junkin, who died on Tuesday, the 22nd inst, after a brief illness. Mrs Junkin had been blessed with good health until a few months previous to her demise. She seemed to have some trouble of the liver. Herdeath has caused a shadow in our community as she was a truly charitable and Christian woman. Married in Fermanagh, Ireland, Mr. and Mrs. Junkin came to this country in the year 1832 and settled in Verulam, where they remained ever since. They had a family of thirteen children, six daughters and seven sons, all living but one. The deceased leaves thirty-six grand-children. All her daughters are married but one. Of her sons three are farmers; Robert and G. F are now in Brockville, managers of the Sun Life Insurance Co.'s agency.

THANKSGIVING DAY.—A religious service was held in the Methodist church in the mo n'ng and in the evening an entertainment was given under the auspices of the ladies aid, which was well attended. The program, although not lengthy, was well arranged and was rendered in fine style. Considering the low price of admission quite a handsome sum was realized, which was appropriated to the use of buying dishes for the church.

Parent FERCE—A patent fence is on exhi-

PATENT FENCE.—A patent fence is on exhibition at the hotel, which is no doubt an improvement on the old zig-zag as to cost of building, etc. Those who are thinking of building or changing fences should have a look at it before PERSONAL.—Mrs. Hannah, of Uxbridge, has been spending a few days at her fathers. Mr. John Sailes... Mr. William Morgan, of Penetanguishene, has been visiting his old friends in this village.

REMEMBER the choice bargains at Mr.

BUSINESS NOTES.—Mr. Champion, tailor, has done a good business here since he came, and intends bringing his family here about the holidays. Mr. Champion is an excellent workman.

GRAIN BUYING -Since Messrs. Touch. burn & Preston's grain warehouse in Omemee was burned, Mr. Touch and, who represented the firm there, is to be found at his old place at our inches of snow here and the sleighing is very fair.

Shooting Party.—Thanksgiving day was observed as a holiday in the village here. A general hunt was arranged for that day. Two sides were thosen some days before, and were captained by Mr. Wm. Gainer and F. R. Curry respectively, the losing side to stand an oyster supper for the crowd. Mr. Gainer's team won by thirty points. Score; F. R. Curr's team, 360; Wm. Gainer's team, 390. The supper took place the same evening at Morrow's hotel. About twenty-five were present and a very pleasant time was spent, and there passed away from time to eternity Annie F Smith, wife of W. Smith. Beaverton foundry. Deceased was born at Lunencekirk, Kincardineshire, Scotland, which place she left with hermother and four other children, on the death of their father, when she was at the tender age of four years. From thence she made her home in Brechin, Forfarshire, continuing to live there an industrious, conscientious Christian life, until the year 1861, when she was pleased to cast her let with him who now marris her less: Song Sermon on Tuesday evening by Mr. Cross- are expected to be especially interesting. The ley attracted a large crowd, and all seemed pews in the church are all free, and all who weeks of speculating as to what part of the world would best suit their aspirations, it was decided to seek a new home on the western side of the Atlantic During the last week of August, 1869, the family, consisting of the deceased, her husband, and their three boys, the eldest of which was then about seven years of age, satisfy her husband, and their three boys, the eidest of which was then about seven years of age, sailed from Londonderry, for the far west, not knowing exactly where in Providence their lot would be cast. A short and pleasant voyage of nine days brought them to Quebec; thence to Toronto and Aurora, where a sister lived. Two years were spent there in an uphill struggle with the battle of life. Three more children were born, two of which died at birth; the other still survives in the person of her youngest son. At the two of which died at birth; the other still survives in the person of her youngest son. At the end of those two years an opening presented itself for the formation of a permanent home in the village of Beaverten. Ont., which was at once accepted. The family then, consisting of father, mother and four boys, bade good-bye to Aurora and soon found themselves in Beaverton, where during sixteen years was spent, what may be termed an uneven struggle with the world. Here the subject of these remarks fell into bad health shortly after her arrival, and in about six months after, the four boys were laid down with scarled fever, the third in age succumbing to this dire malady. This took place in February, 1872. This was a severe shock to the otherwise delicate health of the bereaved mother. Since then she never seem-Such troubles, along with other worries, gradually undermined her constitution; so much so, that in the summer of 1878 she fell a victim to gleams of partial health and pleasure, which tended greatly to ameliorate her otherwise weary life. In fact she was being looked upon for six months prior to her death as showing marked signs of improvement in her general health. But alas! this improvement proved to be but short lived, since from about the lat October letters are severed to complain more than be but short lived, since from about the lst October last she seemed to complain more than usual of acute pains in the stomach and intestines, gradually getting worse, although not depriving her of the power to move about and take the active control of her household duries, However, the end was near, although not anticipated by anyone. pated by anyone. On the morning of Monday. The November, she had a severe attack of retching from an almost empty stomach, during which it was evident she had ruptured an internal bloodvessel, as she then lost a great quantity of blood. From this attack she did not rally, but gradually sank away, until the morning of Thursday, 10th November, when in the presence of her husband, her youngest son and her niece, who resided with her, her pure spirit took its flight to that land where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest. Her memory is now held dear to all who knew her, more especially her own family. As a Christian she was one in every sense of the word; she was united in membership with the people called Disciplee of Christ. Purity, truth, justice and honor characterized herevery word and action. She really lived what she professed. As a wife she was affectionate, faithful, devoted and self-denying.
