"That man," remarked a prominent physician the other day to our reporter, thinks be is sick. He is a 'hypo.' He comes here regularly three times a week for treatment. There is absolutely nothing the matter with him, but of course every time he comes I fix him up something."

"And he pays for it?"

"Yes, $8.00 a visit. But what I give him has no remedial power whatever. I have to cater to his imaginary ills. He is one of my best friends, and I dare not disappoint his fears."

An even more striking case of professional delusion is related by W. H. Winton, business manager of the Kingston (N. Y.)

One day he laid one on his deak in his New York office. In the same office a friend was using a remedy put up in a large bottle. By pure accident it was found out that these two bottles contained exactly the same medicine, the two ounce vial costing the doctor's patient $2; while his friend paid but $1.25 a bottle holding over sixteen ounces of Warner's safe cure. The doctor's services were stopped at once, the man continued treating himself with what his doctor had secretly prescribed—Warner's safe cure, which finally restored him to health from an attack of what his doctors called bright's disease."

If the leading physicians in the land, through fear of the code, will secretly pre-

We hear it warmly spoken of in every direction, and we have no doubt whatever that it is, all things considered, the very best article of the kind ever known.

A Good Day's Sport.—A general hunt was organized by the young men of the temperance society on the 22nd inst. Mesers. George Cruese and James Horn were chosen captains, and the company were divided into two sides; after which all adjourned to the woods where a continual peppering was kept up until nightfall. The largest game procured were forces and porcupines. Two rescoon trees were discovered and chopped down, and all the inmates they contained ruthlessly massagered. One of the hunters followed a lynx discovered and chopped down, and all the inmates they contained ruthlessly massacred. One of the hunters followed a lynx track but failed to come up with the savage beast. When the game was brought in and the points counted it was found that the winning side had a majority of 90 points. The losing side treated their more successful opponents to a grand banquet in the evening, where thrilling tales of hair breadth escapes (of the game) and daring adventures of the day were related.

OBITUARY. On Sunday, Nov. 20th, 1887,
Mrs. Nancy Moore passed from earth. She resided with her son in-law. Mr. H. Noble. The deceased was born in Pennsylvania in the year 1802, and came to this country when about four years old. She has lived be greater part of her life in the township of Markham and interi, with Mr. Nobie. Five months ago she received a stroke of paralysis and for the last three months has been confined to her bed and suffering most interse pain. She retained the use of her mental faculties to the last. Her remains were interred in the Christian cemetery at Little Britain after a very appro-priate sermon delivered by Rev. Mr. Pilkie. One son and two daughters survive her. For the last sixty years she has been con-nected with the church of God, and through all that period has been noted for her zeal earnestness and religious principles, which were early implanted in the heart. Her familiarity with the scriptures enabled her to find almost any passage mentioned in where is thy sting? On grave, where is thy victory?" Her end was that of the just, shining brighter unto the perfect

IN MEMORIAM. - To the memory of Nancy Moore, by a friend:

Another dear mortal has gone,
Yes, gone to the realms so bright,
Where sorrow and pain are no more
And darkness is banished from sight. She has passed thr ugh sore affliction

And long were the hours of pain, But gently she bore her sufferings And scarcely was heard to complain. While singing the "Sweet by and by,"
A song she delighted to hear.
Her soul was enraptured with joy,
And thoughts of the bliss over there

There will be no more sorrow there

Was a precious thought to ber mind But blessings unbounded and free For the trouble she's left behind. Dear mother has goue before us
To join in that blood-washed throng,
And shout hosannas forever,

We'll meet her in glory ere long. In that land that's fairer than day. Where our Saviour and angels dwell, Where free from all sorrow and care

Eternity's too short to tell.

How bravely the battle was fought, What a glorious victory won; Henceforth there is laid up a crown Through the merits of God's dear sen.

IMPROVEMENT CLASS.—The young people's mutual improvement class has opened again for the winter season. Mr. James M. Emerson is president; Thomas G. Emerson, rice-president.

REMOVED TO BLACKSTOCK. - Mr. George Suggitt has gone to Backstock to engage in business there. George served three years with Mr. J. B. Emer-on, our worthy blacksmith, at Valentia. He then went to different places in Canada to learn all he could about the trade, and also worked some time in the states. He returned home and has been working for Mr. Joseph Maunder, who does the largest general blacksmith trade in Victoria, such as carriage work and horse shoring. George is a practical horse-shoer. His work will speak for itself.

Personal.—Mr. Will Veal gave us a short visit last week.... Miss Lena Casey has returned home again. She has been down east for some time visiting friends.

kind of ice.

OBITUARY. — With regret I chronicle the death of Miss Annie Webster, youngest daughter of Mr. Thos. Webster, who died hast Sunday of enlargement of the heart. Though Annie was young in years and death came to her suddenly it did not find her unprepared. She had given herself to Jesus and died happy in her Saviour's love, requesting all present to meet her in heaven. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord."
