testify to the merits of this medicine. Mrs. Sarah Burroughs, of 248 Eighth street, South Boston, writes: "My husband has taken Ayer's Sarsaparilla, for Dyspepsia and torpid liver, and has been greatly benefited."

A Confirmed Dyspeptic.

C. Canterbui, of 141 Franklin st., Boston, Mass., writes, that, suffering for years from Indigestion, he was at last induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla and, by its use, was entirely cured.

Mrs. Joseph Aubin, of High street, Holyoke, Mass., suffered for over a year from Dyspepsia, so that she could not eat substantial food, became very weak, and was unable to care for her family. Neither the medicines prescribed by physicians, nor any of the remedies advertised for the cure of Dyspepsia, helped her, until she commenced the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. "Three bottles of this medicine," she writes.

-In an address at the London conservative club banquet Thursday evening Lord Salisbury said that the dark cloud was lifting over Insland, resolute government having had its effect. He believed that the country was in process of extrication to from the commercial calculations of the last five years. Never before had there been such solid ground for belief in the country's prosperity. While admitting that gigantic foreign agmics and ungertain national feelings were a great danger he declared that peace was secure for the present and he trusted for the future.

The other day something was noticed protruding from the cow's side, which, when withdrawn, proved to be the identical piece of whipstock swallowed by the bovine about twelve months ago. Extraordinary as this incident may appear, its truthfulness is vouched for by the owner of the animal, a man of undeubted veracity, and several neighbors.

—Lord Salisbury addressed an immense

-Lord Salisbury addressed an immense meeting in Hengler's circus, Liverpool, Wednesday night. He was alightly hoarse at the beginning of his speech, but his voice became clearer as he went on. Discussing the Irish question, he said the Gladstonians had relied upon their conviction that England could not govern Ireland, and had directed their policy toward securing the fulfilment of that figment of the imagination. Mr. Gladstone had prophesied that the conservatives would eventually give home rule to Ireland, but never was the principle of national union more sincerely held than now. The unionists were firmly convinced that Ireland had beceme thoroughly consolidated with Great Britain under the same legislature and the same laws and enjoying equal liberty. Vacillation had been the great crime of England against Ireland, and no government would be of any avail unless it showed that it could govern absolutely. Referring to the movement in favor of fair trade, Lord Salisbury declared himself to be still a free trader on principle, but experience, he said, had shown that the free trade theory had been carried too far or misapplied, in consequence of which some reaction was probable. The sugar bounties question, he said, was an instance of the hurtfulness of indiscriminate free trade. Agriculture was a more difficult question, but it must be admitted that the interests meeting in Hengler's circus, Liverpool, hurifulness of indiscriminate free trade. Agriculture was a more difficult question, but it must be admitted that the interests of the producer and the consumer in the productions of the English soil were bound by a common interest and must stand or fall together. In conclusion, Lord Salisbury expressed his conviction that those persons who thought the next general election would upset unionism had utterly misread the sentiments of the English democracy.

The silence of the czar on new year's day is interpreted more unfavorably than the speech of Lord Salisbury. Europe looks for some reassuring word from the Mu-covite ruler on such an occasion and is disappointed if it does not get it. Croakers forthwith begin creaking anew and bears seize the opportunity to depress stocks. The Bourgas incident is thought to assume fresh importance. Nobody would have doubted that Russia was at the bestern of that a seize because in the bottom of that as of other buccaneering attempts, and even had not the documents found on Nobokoff proved it other and ahundant proofs have lately appeared. That particular firebrand has been put out, but Russia has many more ready. SCHOOL EXHIBITION. -The school exhibition new year's was very successful. Nearly thirty-two dollars were received for prizes. Many of the residents assisted the pupils in the program and a very enjoyable time was spent.

Presentation to the Teacher.—The routine of school life was broken on Wednesday morning by one of the pupils entering rather late with a parcel under each arm. Marching boldly up to the deak he deposited the parcels, and after asking leave to read a note turned to the teacher and read an address full of kindly feelings, and on behalf of the school presented him with an elegantly bound copy of "Sea and Land Wonders" and a beautiful portfolio. It was received with thanks and some kindly advice given, after which business went on as usual.
