LINDSAY, FRIDAY, APRIL 6, 1898.

MR. HUDSPETH OPPOSES RE-CIPROCITY.

Mr. Hudspeth has come out squarely against reciprocity. He evidently does not like the job; and covers up a good many weak points with the usual loyalty gush. That sort of stuff is getting rather stale. To take down the tariff barriers is no more disloyal now than it was in 1854. The first reciprocity treaty proved the best remedy for the only serious annexation movement ever attempted in this Montreal signed an annexation mani- It may take some time, however, to put festo. It is surprising that Mr. Hud- the fairs on a basis and scale satisfactory speth in his explorations into the history | to all parties; but if fa of olden times in Canada did not bring out the names of Sir David Macpherson. Sir George Cartier, Sir A. T. Galt, and the other tories who signed this precious document. An instructive lesson on loyalty might have been generalized from it. Reciprocity secured the larger market, the expansion of trade and the better prices, and the annexation feeling died out. A similar result would follow the adoption of reciprocity now. If this talk about disloyalty is anything else than absurd the policy that increases the export of Canadian eggs from a few hundreds to many millions must be double-dyed disloyalty, and steps should be taken to stop a trade proceeding so dangerous. Is it disloyal for the farmers to support a policy that will obtain for them enhanced prices and a free market for their barley, cattle, sheep and many other articles? If it is then the country must be full of rebels. But Mr. Hudspeth is talking nonsense, and no one knows it better than he does himself. We are obliged by the demands on our space to defer to another issue some comments on Mr. Hudspeth's address. We fancy the shrewd and intelligent farmers of South Victoria will size it up at its full value. They can read and discuss it for themselves; and compare it with the speeches of Mr. Barron, Sir Richard Cartwright and others who advocate reciprocity. Mr. Hudspeth tries to make it appear that reciprocity is a new thing, and that it was not discussed at the general elections. Mr. Hudspeth has forgotten, apparently, that Mr. Barron in his address to the electors of North Victoria said :-- "An honest and earnest "effort should be made to secure reci-"procity, which would result in increased "prices being obtained for our cattle and "farm products of all kinds, which now "seek a foreign market. In the export "trade eggs alone were worth in 1883 "more than one-half as much as all the "manufactures." The first sentence simply voices the general policy advocated by the reform party for years. The question is brought into special prominence just how because a grand opportunity to secure reciprocity has been thrown away and valued interests of Canada have been and valued interests of Canada have been sacrificed. If "an honest and earnest effort" had been made to secure reciprocity it could have been secured with no loss of dignity on our part. But it was not made; and consequently our farmers will have to put up with lower prices. If they are satisfied with lower prices. If they beaceful counsels will prevail in France. are satisfied with lower prices they will applaud Mr. Hudspeth; if they want higher prices they will support the liberal opposition. They are doing this already uncalled for attack on Mr. Barron. His veiled allusion to Mr. Hector Cameron's unpopularity in the riding was a singular performance. It was very hard upon Mr. Cameron : and it was not necessary to

THE EGG "COMBINE."

It is stated that an egg "combine" has been formed in this province to keep down the price of eggs to the farmers. A number of the larger dealers in Ontario with greedy proclivities have, it appears, formed an organization, and if they can squeeze a cent or two cents on the dozen from the farmer they will have a handsome revenue. The egg business has always been safe and profitable, with fewer "breaks," paradoxical as it may seem, than in any other produce business There has not been unhealthy or ruinous competition, but it has been in the hands of a great many dealers. It would appear that a few greedy persons want to monopolize the business as much as possible, and hence the "combine." An essential part of the scheme is to crush out the small dealers, or to limit their purchasing power to the smallest possible amount. As the smaller dealers ship to Toronto the "combine" will sell eggs below cost, or at a very low figure in Toronto only. This will prevent the smaller dealers throughout the country making anything, and will either drive them out of the business or force them to come to terms with the "combine." In view of the enormous proportions to which the egg trade of Ontario has grown the "combine" will make "a big thing," a very big thing indeed, if they can establish the monopoly and keep it going for a few years. Some features of the scheme will be developed in these columns next week.

VICTORIA COUNTY CATTLE FAIRS.

The first of the series of cattle fairs in this county will be held at Coboconk on Tuesday next, at Kirkfield on Wednesday, at Woodville on Thursday, at Oakwood on Friday, and at Lindsay on Saturday-all of next week. The other dates and places will be found in the official advertisement on our second page.

We trust the farmers of this county will turn out in force at these fairs and do their best to make them a success. Outside buyers are of course expected to be present, and no doubt they will find it to their advantage to do all in their power in reason to make these fairs a success and to keep them going. But farmers will find these fairs convenient occasions for buying as well as for selling, and if they fail in this respect they will not have accomplish. ed the full measure of hoped-for success. succes that result will speedily be accomplished. ANOTHER DECISIVE VICTORY.

Another decisive victory has been won by the farmers for reciprocity—the third in succession since the two parties "locked horns" on the great issue of the day. L'Assomption has been carried by Mr. Gauthier, the liberal candidate, by a majority four times greater than he obtained at the general election. L'Assomption is a conservative constituency, and the conservatives were cock-sure of carrying it this time, but the reciprocity question was clearly placed before the French Canadian farmers, and they responded in its favor "by a large majority."

Reciprocity has carried Prince Edward. Missisquoi, L'Assompton. Which next?

South Victoria? Is Mr. Hudspeth going to resign and try it over again?

To the Rettor.

To the Rettor.

About two months ago I published my official circular No. 6, on the composition of baking powders, and included in it the analysis of thirty brands of this class of goods which were generally add and used in Ohio. I did this for the information of the goods, but who had not the opportunity of knowing their chemical composition, and having land before them the plain analysis to choose for themselves. I had no thought or wish to favor any particular brand or variety of powders, and gave no personal opinion as to their respective merits. I aimply stated the facts that were generally acknowledged, and the questions that were still unsettled in regard to this class of goods, and left the purchaser free to buy or use which ever brand he preferred.

chaser free to buy or use which ever brand he preferred.

One month ago there appeared in your journal and in many of the leading papers of the state, a false and garbled statement which does this commission great injustice, and which I apprehend was published as a paid advertisement of the Royal Baking Powder Company. This false and garbled statement makes quotations from my circular without using quotation marks, and so mingles and blends its statements, interpretations and comments with the language of the circular as to leave the impression that the article was semi-official. This article—pretending to quote, but distorting and misrepresenting many official circular as it did—was a most fagrant abuse of an official paper. It was greatly mialcading, and the publication of such a document was wholly unjustifiable. It was alike an injustice to the trade and to this commission, which sought to make an impartial and unbiased statement of the facts relating to the chemical composition of the baking powders of commerce, and to the chemical changes wrought out in the processes of bread making. Persons wishing to look into this matter can be supplied by this office with copies of the original official circular and analysis, and no weight or consideration should be given to the unfair and miscading statement referred to. Respectfully,

ABOUT WATCHES.

Watch, which will be more honored in the breach than in the ob

1.—In the first place, when you want to procure a Watch get one from a peddler or some one as far away as possible, so that if anything goes wrong with it or it doesn't turn out as represented, the seller's feelings wont be hurt by knowing that it don't give satisfaction.

2.-When you have got it go around to all your neighbors and invite them to to all your neighbors and invite them to inspect it and give their opinion as to its value, and thus find out how bedly you have been swindled. Pry up the lid and poke the "innards" with a horseshoe nail or a match, and if you see any wheels or things out of place or that don't move as fast as they should, why stir them up a bit. Don't let a Watch go to ruin just for the want of a little attention of this kind.

3.-About the first thing to do is to scratch your name on the case and en the beautifully finished movement; choose the most conspicuous places to do this. It may not make the Watch run say better nor improve its appearance, but if you lose it the finder wont have to advertise it.

4.—If there is a baby in the house lend 4.—If there is a baby in the house lend it to him to keep him quiet. It is well to tie one end of the guard to something outside of the baby, so that if he swallows it it may be recovered without a surgical operation. True, the child may fill it with honey or buttermilk, but don't be alarmed. How do you know that the Watch isn't specially adapted to digest such things. It may be the very treatment needed to improve its time-keeping qualities 20 per cent.

5.—Let it run down every other night. Most watchmakers will tell you to wind Most watchmakers will tell you to wind it regularly and always keep it going. Common sense will tell you that if you keep your Watch running it will wear out. Now you let it run down about twice a week and give it a reet; that's what a Watch wante—a rest; it gets tired. Then again watchmakers will tell you to have your Watch cleaned once a year at least. Those watchmakers are a bad crowd; they want a job. Why, when you take your Watch to one to get repaired just as likely as not he will declare it needs cleaning and a new wheel or a main-spring and charge you one, two or even three dollars for it, when you knew perfectly well that all that was wrong was the dipper-dollar squeezed against the escapement,—any-body could see that.

6.—If your Watch don't keep time put some goose oil on the hair-spring; coal oil or black oil is cheaper maybe, but goose oil will be more appropriate. It will cost a little more but remember that as you saved 140 per cent, on the price of the Watch by buying from a peddler instead of your local dealer that you can afford to have the best oil in the market.

If, on the application of these rules, rules, your Watch does not prove as useful as you might wish it would be a good idea to take it to some reputable local dealer and offer him an even trade for the best he has in stock. The chances are that he is so anxious to do business that he will jump at the chance.

There may be some more rules which it will pay you to forget as quickly as possible, but we have no time to write further just now. In the meantime we wish you well.
