Medical.

The First Symptoms

Of all Lung diseases are much the same : faverishness, loss of appetite, sore throat, pains in the chest and back neadache, etc. In a few days you may be well, or, on the other hand, you may be down with Pneumonia or "galloping Consumption." Run no risks, but begin immediately to take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

Several years ago, James Birchard. of Darien, Conn., was severely ill. The doctors said he was in Consumption. and that they could do nothing for him, but ad ised him, as a last resort, to try Aver's Cherry Pectorals After taking this medicine, two or three months, he was pronounced a well man. His health remains good to the present day.

J. S. Bradley, Malden, Mass., writes: "Three winters ago I took a severe cold. which rapidly developed into Bronchitis and Consumption. I was so weak that I could not sit up, was much emaciated. and coughed incessantly. I consulted several doctors, but they were power-less, and all agreed that I was in Conaumption. At last, a friend brought me a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. From the first dose, I found relief. Two bottles cured me, and my health has since been perfect."

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, JUNE 22 1888. NEWS OF THE WEEK. HOME AND FOREIGN ITEMS OF INTEREST.

Gathered from the Telegraph and Exchanges.

Russia has sent a pressing note to Turkey asking for £700,000, representing two delinquent annual instalments of the war indemnity of 1879, and as Turkey has no money and Russia may insist upon an equivalent in territory, trouble is feared.

-Mr. R. Armstrong of Turnberry town-ship is making a pond on his farm for ship is making a pond on his farm for trout. It will cover one-quarter of an acre, and he expects to have one thousand young trout in it this year. There is a natural spring in the pond at one end, so that all he has to do is to bank it up all around and put in wire netting where the water escapes. The idea is a good one, and Mr. Armstrong's example might be followed by numerous other farmers.

The banner of the democratic party in the presidential contest is the red bandan-na handkerchief of Thurman of Ohio. When Mr. Thurman first entered the senate he always used a huge red handanna handkerchief, not only in the ordinary way but to lend force to his gesture, and as the years rolled on and the bandanna invariably of the same size, color and pattern the ministry have had to give way to the was always seen waving in the forefront of the legislative contests he became known as the man of the bandanna. Une result of the adoption of the bandanna as a campaign flig has been to cause an extraor-dinary demand for them, and the manufacturers, a Gasgow firm of silk weavers, have for the first time in many years more orders for them than they can fill.

-A Victoria, B.C., despatch says: Considerable indignation has been caused through Chief Justice Begbie in court the other day making some personal remarks about the conduct of Rev. Mr. Starr, pastor of the Methodist church, in the witness-box. The clergyman was lounging over the box when the judge asked if he would the box when the judge asked if he would lounge on the other side. The witness leisurely shifted his position to the other side, remaining in the same attitude. The justice asked the sheriff to give the witness a chair, as he did not seem able to stand up. Mr. Starr replied, slapping his leg, "I'm all right." The justice then peremptorily commanded him to stand, and the witness committed. The institute then remarked that complied. The justice then remarked that witness did not seem to have more

Miss Keefer only returned from Florida, where she had been passing the winter, on Thursday last. Mr. Keefer went west Saturday morning to visit another daughter who is very ill, and Mrs. Keefer was also absent at the time of the accident. The bodies have been recovered. Great sympathy is felt for Mr. Keefer who has been sadly afflicted of late, it being only a few months since his son Charles felt, a fine young man, since his son Charles fell, a fine young man, fell from the Lachine bridge and was

The temperates men are jubilant and the publicans angry. The are jubilant and the publicans angry. The joy of the home rule opposition expresses itself in a chorus of jeers. They think it a sign of weakness. Privately, moreover, they remark, or some of them do, that is will be just as easy to obstruct the progress of the m'ni-terial measure by proposing amendments to other clauses. Mr. Ritchie not very prudently let fall the remark that it was the number of amendments which had conviced the cabinet that it was useless to persevere with their proposals for the benefit of the publicans. Probably Mr. Caige's figures convinced them. That practical arithmetical perron proved, or at least professed to prove that the claims to compensation under this bill would have amounted to thirty milproved, or at least professor or under this the claims to compensation under this bill would have amounted to thirty millions sterling, an appalling figure indeed. —A farmer who drove into Ottz,wa Friday from Manetick, through the township of Onzode, states that he counted one hundred and seventy buildings which were blown down by Wednesday's storm. Fences are laid flat everywhere, and the re-erection of farm outbuildings and fences will cost the agriculturiets of that section a great deal of money. -A Lendon cable says: Mr. Parnell's sanguet at the Cafe Royal, to the nation alists members who have suffered under the coercion act, was attended by about sixty of the Irish representatives. The proceedings were of the most enthusiastic character. Mr. Sexton, wearing the chain of office as lord mayor of Dublin, made a finished and telling crattom. The chief point of Mr. Parnell's speech, and the one most enthusiastically received by the gathering, which was almost entirely composed of Catholics, was that in which he repudiated the authority of the pope over Catholic Irishmen in matters temporal, and declared that the effect of the rescript had only been to give the lie to the old charge that home rule would mean Rome rule. Confidence in the triumph of nationalist cause at no remote date was the presixty of the Irish representatives. The

The division list on Mr. Jenning's motion against the extravagance of public departments reveals the curious fact that the government was defeated by nimeteen votes, and this was the precise number of their own supporters who voted against them. The defeat was really caused by the abstention of a large number of tory members, who are disgusted with the confiduct of the government in respect to the licensing question. There is a good deal of friction among the ministerialists. The out and out supporters of the government lay the blame of the defeat and the consequent loss of prestige on what they call "the Churchill gang." On the other hand it is alleged that Mr. Smith is not strong enough to lead the house of commons, and renewed efforts will be made to induce Lord Salisbury to relegate him to the upper house and enter negotiations with Lord Randolph Churchill, not to succeed him, but to give the government support by taking some post in the cabinet. Many dangers will have to be encountered by the government before the end of the season. The clauses of the local government bill, transferring the licensing authority to the county councils can only be withdrawn by the permission of the house, and this the liberals will strenuously resist, so that the ministers will be under the necessity of voting against their own proposals. The question of empowering the councils to close bars on Sunday will, it is understood, be left an open question, so that the tories may vote whichever way they like.

—A London cable thus reviews the political situation in England: Several London

-A London cable thus reviews the political situation in England : Several London papers are suggesting to the government the withdrawal of the compensation clauses which have raised such a storm throughout the country, and it is stated on what appears to be good athority, notwithstanding semi-official denials, that the government have already made up their mind to withdraw these clauses, almost unconditionally, and that very likely other surrenders will follow. Once more than the statement of the surrenders will follow.

the ministry have had to give way to the liberal unionists who rebelled against Mr. Chamberlain and gave the ministers warning that if the clauses were pressed they would vote with Mr. Gladstone. Any price must be paidtoaverthat. When Mr. Chamberlain defended the clauses the government thought they were safe. It now turns out that, small as the Chamberlain party is, he cannot manage it. Overboard go the clauses and Mr. Chamberlain is left in a singularly foolish position. This is a very serious blow for the ministry, and something worse is to come. The temperance interest has been tremendously stirred up, and to appease it the liquor dealers have been sacrificed; but now it is their turn. As a rule, they have supported the conservative party. They are worse off under it than they would have been under liberal rule. Mr. Ritchle's bill adds twenty per cent to their licenses, exposes them to the risk of having their houses closed on Sundays and holidays, and places them under the control of the county councils. Their worst enemies could not have done much more by a beginning. Is it to be supposed that they will sit down quietly and bear this from men for whom they have voted? All the tories are sore about it. Why have they been dragged into this complied. The justice then remarked that the witness did not seem to have more backbone than a sausage-skin filled with water, and was as limp as a dirty collar. A witness, he said, that tooks a solemn cath to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, and then conducted himself in the manner Starr did, necessarily detracted from the weight of his evidence. The publication of the remarks in a morniag paper caused a sensation, and there is ageneral opinion that the justice's remarks were degrading to the bench, though it is also stated that the witnesses manner towards the court was rather exasperating.

One of the saddest drowning accidents which has ever taken place in the Ottaws vicinity occurred adout 6 30 o'clock last Saturday evening at Rockliffe, a couple of miles below the city on the Uttaws. The Crofters. [To the Editor of THE POST.]
SIR,—I have noticed in the press and in your valuable paper a few editorials about the crofters, and if half of the facts written and related by those places and the letters sent from the unhappy people are true and no action or movement set on foot by the Highlanders and the descendants of Highlanders on this continent to aid these unfortunate people then the boasted clannishness, and may it not be added the Christian charity of Scotchmen is empty sound. I was highly pleased and thankful to George Laidlaw for his outspoken letter. He knows the class of people these crofters are, and when he wrote he no doubt spoke his honest convictions and stated facts. My aim is not so much to generalize as to say that in the county of Victoria we have a large percentage of people who left those now unhappy islands and a larger percentage of their descendants. It is to bring those together in some tangible way that I thus write. What is the most favorable scheme to aid those people who I am credibly informed are in a starving condition? Where are the Scotch societies in the counties of Ontario and Victoria? If there are none then how can these people or those of them charitably inclined meet to discuss what could be done by way of help; by way of immigration to one of the western provinces or to be mixed up among the people? Would it be any harm to discuss those questions within the pale of the churches? What say the Mace and the descendants of all the other class? is empty sound. I was highly pleased and the other clans?

THE BAKING POWDER DIS CUSSION.

Official Tests to Determine the Best-Why they are Superior Leavening Agents— The use of Carbonate of Ammenia. The official analyses by Prof. W. G. Tucker of New York State have afforded some of the most valuable evidence yet produced relative to the actual character of the food and drugs in every day use. ome time since Profes directed to analyze the various brands of baking powder and report which was the purest and best. He procured samples from the grocers in Albany, and after a series of exhaustive tests reported that the Royal was the purest and best of all ex-Royal was the purest and best of all examined. The accuracy of the published report being questioned by a local manufacturer, a reporter of the Albany Journal obtained an interview with the Professor, which is reported as follows in that paper: "Doctor," said the reporter, "it appears that one of our local baking powder manufacturers attempts to discredit the report some time ago published in the Journal with reference to baking powders, for which the analytical examinations were made by yourself and Prof. Mason. Were your analyses and opinion printed correctly."

"They were," replied Prof. Tucker, "literally." "You say, Doctor, that the Royal baking powder is superior to any other baking powder which you have examined?

"That is my report."

"Wherein, Doctor, consists the superiority which you find in the Royal over other brands?"

"As stated in my report, in the great purity of its ingredients, in the unquestioned propriety and wholesomeness of those ingredients, in the exact proportions of the same, and the chemical accuracy and skill with which they have been combined. As I said before, it is, I believe, a baking powder 'unequaled for purity, strength and wholesomeness."

"Doctor, the Journal's lady readers would like you to inform them what are the peculiar virtues of a good baking powder over other and more old fashioned methods of raising, breach, biscuit and cake?"

"That would require a long answer, something in the nature of a lecture. Briefly, however, the advantage of the Royal baking powder over yeast consists in the quicker work it accomplishes, in the preservation of some of the best elements of the flour, which are destroyed in, the production of the carbonic acid gas by the use of yeast, and in the absolute certainty of sweet, light and digestitle food, Over other methods for quick raising the inerits of a pure baking powder are great. It is always ready for use, the acid and alkali are combined in exact proportions to produce definite results, or to render the largest amount of leavening gas and leave nothing more than a neutral residuum, which is not the result where cream of tartar and seds are bought separately and mixed in the kitchen, for it will always occur where this is done that one or the other of these substances will predeminate, making the food yellow, heavy, bitter and unwholesomeness of the food. All these difficulties are avoided in the use of a pure, properly-made, until used. A perfect baking powders generally are robbed of the necessary preserving agent in order to give present strength? "But they say its origin is fitthy,"

"Its origin and method of preparation are no nore fitthy than are the origin and preparation of bread. All this talk about anmonia is baking powder and its fitthy origin is the veriest rubbish.
