THE LINDSAY CENTRAL HANDICAPPED BY UNFAVOR-ABLE WEATHER.

John A. and Mowat go back on us—Rain and Cold Spot) our Plans—A Large En-try List and Good Attendance.

For some weeks past the prospects of favorable weather for the Central fair has been a fruitful subject for discussion among the farmers of Victoria county when occasion drew a number of them together. The opinion was fully expressed that owing to the peculiar and unusual dryness of the past summer, October would come in cold and blustery, and naturally lessen the chances of a good exhibition. Mr. Jas. Keith, the bustling and obliging secretary-treasurer, treated such of these predictions as came to his ears with merited scorn, and pointed to the large increase in the number of entries up to date over last year, as a powerful and convincing refutation of such rumors.

The successes of past years have proven most encouraging to the directors, and many improvements had been early set on foot calculated to add much to the sucon foot calculated to add much to the success of this year's exhibition. A substantial carriage shed had been erected to the north of the entrance gate; a serviceable fence enclosed the speeding track for a considerable distance, having gateways at suitable places, thus keeping the track clear for horsemen, and reducing the danger of broken bones to a minimum; the shedding had been added to; the grand stand shared in the improvements and had been substantially roofed over in consequence of an agreement between the had been substantially rooted over in con-sequence of an agreement between the town and the society; another result of such agreement having been the erection of a substantial cottage for a caretaker, now ready for occupancy; and lastly, a large dining hall and kitchen had been fitted up underneath the grand stand, ca-pable of successfully caring for these who pable of successfully caring for those who might be "hungry and athirst" to the number of two hundred at a sitting. The above list of improvements bears ample testimony to the enterprise and push of the directors and officers of the exhibition.

Tuesday was the first day of the fair, and was mainly taken up in the placing of exhibits, and preparations of various kinds for the morrow. It was cold-decidedly frosty-and every person looked blue and uncomfortable. Still, the weather was preferable to the steady rain of the week previous, and everyone was hopeful of the morrow—the big day of the fair. Owing to the small number of spectators present the stallion race did not take place, and the amusement of the afternoon proved

A match game between the Peterboro Riversides and Orillia clubs to decide the Central Ontario championship for the season had been arranged for 1.30 p.m., but it was all of 2.30 before play commenced. The delay was caused partly by a protest entered by the Peterboro men against a member of the Orillia team, it being claimed that the player was an "importation." Finally the dispute was amicably arranged, and after some goal sticks had been roughly fashioned from a pine board positions were taken on the field as follows:

ORILLIA. PETERBORO.

A searching north-west wind caused the hundred or so of onlookers to cast around for sheltered positions from which to watch for sheltered positions from which to watch proceedings. The teams went to work with a will, and from the first the Orillia men pushed the Peterboro defence hard. A number of well directed shots were made on the Orillia goal, but the ball was always returned down the field. Finally a lively scuffle took piace right in front of the Peterboro goal, during which the ball was "shinneyed" through, giving Orillia the first game in twelve minutes. The Peterboro men now pulled themselves together and went in to win, and a stubbornly conand went in to win, and a stubbornly con-tested fight of twenty minutes declared in favor of Peterboro on a neat shot made by Isbister. The third game occupied twenty-seven minutes, and was a doubtful one all through. In an evil moment for the Peterboro men, however, Art Ross of the Orillias secured the ball and scored on a very pretty shot, leaving the game two goals to one in favor of Orillia. The fourth game only lasted five minutes, Art Ross again scoring for the Orillia men, thus securing ictory for the northerners.

WEDNESDAY'S PROCEEDINGS. Early Wednesday morning the officers were on the alert. The sun came out brightly, and a large attendance and a good day's sport was looked forward to. good day's sport was looked forward to. About ten o'clock, however, a cool nor'-wester sprang up, and the cheerful sun became obscured by masses of leaden-colored clouds, suggestive of a flurry of "the beautiful." A large number of people were in town, but nothing like the throng of other years. "Its the weather," said a prominent farmer, "its against nature to expect a successful exhibition in weather like this. It's cold enough to freeze —" Just then the drift of the speaker's remarks was lost, but the frament may be taken as expressive of what ment may be taken as expressive of what was uppermost in the public mind at the Scattered about the grounds were exhibits of agricultural implements, made by various firms, chief among which was that of Sylvester Bros., comprising a binder, mower, fanning mill, gang plows, sod plows, root cutters, etc., to the number of twenty different labor-saving articles. It will be gratifying to buyers of this firm's make of implements to know that red tickets were granted in profusion.

Noxon Bros., Ingersoll, had on the ground one of their steel frame binders, the knotter of which was very ingenious, and simple in its working.

Mr. J. R. Hopkins had several of the famous Cockahutt plows in position, which attracted favorable attention.

The Massey Mfg Co., of Toronto, exhibited two mowers and a binder.

J. Flurey's Sons, Aurora, showed two straw cutters, fitted for hand or horse power. various firms, chief among which was that

Mr. W. J. Bennett, Lindsay, representing J. O. Wisner, of Brantford, had on exhibition a tubular seed drill, a section cultivator, the "Favorite" cultivator, and "Perfection" hay rake. Champion fanning mill, with bagger attached, by Wm. Forsyth, Peterboro; Jackson's "Climax" fanning mill, with bagger, by Jackson & Magwood, Orillia; and a number of others.

CARRIAGES AND WAGGONS, The new carriage shed was filled with the exhibits of Richard Kylie and L O'Connor. Mr. Kylie showed an elegant "Gladstone," a spring market waggon, open and covered carriages, phætons and two cutters in the rough. The exhibit was subjected to critical examination and was very favorably commented upon, the painting and finish being especially praised. Mr. Kylie has secured his share praised. Mr. Kylie has secured his share of red tickets.

Mr. O'Connor's exhibit was a very complete one, and fully bore out the reputation he has earned by long years of experience in his business. Every description of vehicle from a farm waggon to a breaking cart was shown by him and the judges did not pass them by without affixing a red ticket here and there.

INSIDE THE BUILDING Displays by our business men were not generally made, owing no doubt to the unfavorable weather. Mr. Hore of the Singer Sewing Machine Co. occupied a large space at the north-western end of the building with a handsome display of the machines handled by him, the walls being adorned with samples of the work done on the machines by skilful operators. Miss Robeberge of the Toronto head office was in attendance to explain the different attachments to the lady visitors. Among the machines was one specially designed to do shoemakers' patching, but capable of all kinds of work on leather. One of the novelties shown was a "drop cabinet" machine, taking its name from the fact that by touching a spring the machinery drops into a recess, a cover slips over the space, and the machine is converted into a serviceable and artistic piece of furniture. Singer Sewing Machine Co. occupied a a serviceable and artistic piece of furniture.

Messrs. Anderson, Nugent & Co., furniture manufacturers, made a handsome exhibit of specimens of their craft, the effect of which was heightened by a home-like use of rich rugs and carpets. The exhibit attached a deal of attention, and bore out the reputation the firm has held in this ine for years past.
Mr. Geo. A. Metherell, music dealer, oc

Mr. Geo. A. Metherell, music dealer, occupied a prominent position at the south end of the building with a display of Mendellsohn planos and Uxbridge organs for which he is the Lindsay agent. The general opinion was that he had evinced a fine discretion in connecting himself with such superior instruments.

A representative of a Toronto company occupied a prominent position near the main entrance where he exhibited to the admiring gaze of the ladies several clever inventions in the shape of folding cloths, stands and collapsible shirt ironing table, selecting orders for the same.

On the west side of the building an exhibit of drain tile was made by Mr. S. J. Fox, and a display of farm and carriage harness, neatly arranged upon "dummy" steeds, bore a red ticket with the name of

J. Williamson-sufficient reason to warrant the judges in their action. A. Horn & Son, Mariposa woolen mills, made an exhibit of tweeds, cottons, twills, horse blankets, etc; plaids and rag mats by Mr. R. F. Whiteside; leather and rugs by Mr. and Mrs. A. Patterson and other miscellaneous articles were placed

ROOTS AND VEGETABLES. The display of roots and vegetables was very good, and proportions were mammoth. Collections of vegetables were shown by Messrs. D. Lack, Wm. Robson, John Duke and others that deservedly atattracted much attention. A feature that attracted considerable attention was an exhibit of roots and vegetables, oats, bar-ley and other grains, wild grasses, etc., from the vicinity of Calgary, Manitoba. This was part of a large exhibit made at the Toronto exhibition by the Canadian Pacific railway. Samples of oats and bar-ley that went 79 bushels to the acre, huge mangelds, beets, turning, and mangolds, beets, turnips, etc., and prairie grasses used as hay that went three tons to the acre, interested the attention of all, and enlarged ideas as to the capaoilities of our great North-west considerably.

LIVE STOCK. The wet weather and bad roads pre vented as fine a display of live stock as undoubtedly would have been shown under more favorable circumstances: still it was an excellent show. We defer notice in detail of the exhibits until next week when the prize list will be printed.
There was a fine and very creditable display of horses of all kinds, demonstrating the great progress of the country in this branch, where progress has, perhaps, been greater than in any other line of stock-

The exhibits of cattle 'were very good in quality, but not sufficiently numerous. A argeer show in this respect is to be ex-pected. Mr. John Connolly was the prinipal exhibitor. In sheep there was a fine exhibition in all the breeds. Swine were not so numer-ous as they might have been.

APPLES AND SMALL FRUETS. The display of apples and fruits was behind that of last year, particularly small fruits. Preserved fruits made a fair show-

BREAD AND BUTTER. Perhaps the most difficult work of the day for the judges lay in deciding between the many fine samples of home-made and baker's bread, and rolls, prints, crocks and tubs of butter. There was a profusion of samples, and the quality was fully up to last years'.

LADIES' WORK, FINE ARTS AND MANU-

Upstairs in the main building were placed the fine arts and ladies' work departments, and the large room was thronged at all times with admiring spectators. The works of arts lined the wall. The prominent exhibitors were Mrs. J. P. Ryley, crayon and sepia drawings and an oil painting; Miss Fowler of Mariposa, Mrs. D. J. McIntyre, Miss Flora McLean, Miss Holterf, Linesay; and others.

Messra. I. H. Oliver and Fewler & Co. had in position splendid exhibits of photographic work, between which the judges found it hard work to discriminate. Finally, however, the red ticket was affixed to Fowler & Co.'s exhibit.

Two beautiful specimens of ornamental penmanehip, the work of Mr. D. J. Banut Sawyer, principal of Peterboro business college, attracted widespread attention, and it was hard, indeed, to credit that such beautiful work could be done with a steel pen.
