To Save Life

frequently requires prompt action. An hour's delay waiting for the douter may he attended with serious consequences. specially in cases of Croup, Pneamonia, and other throat and lung woubles. Hence, no family should be without a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which has proved itself, in thousands of cases, the best Emergency Medicine ever discovered. It gives prompt relief and prepares the way for a thorough cure, which is certain to be effected by its continued use.

g. H. Latimer, M. D., Mt. Vernon, Ga., says: "I have found Ayer's Cherry Pectoral a perfect cure for Croup in all cases. I have known the worst cases relieved in a very short time by its use; and I advise all families to use it in sudden emergencies, for coughs, cronp, &c.' A. J. Eidson, M. D., Middletown, Tenn., says: "I have used Ayer's Cherry Pectoral with the best effect in my practice. This wonderful prepara-tion once saved my life. I had a constant cough, night sweats, was greatly reduced in flesh, and given up by my physician. One bottle and a half of the Pertoral cured me."

I cannot say enough in praise of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral," writes E. Bragdon, of Palestine, Texas, "believing as I do that, but for its use, I should —At the Ottawa exhibition grounds last Wednesday afternoon a young butcher named Tom Winsley was dashed to pieces by falling from a balloon at a height of over 1,000 feet. Before Professor Williams, the aeronaut, got ready to start, he asked assistance in holding down the impatient monster. Among the volunteers was Winsley, who with others grasped a stout rope running around the base of the balloon. Prof. Williams entered the car and shouted to let go. All weleased their hold with the exception of Winsley, who retaining his hold was swiftly beene upwards. The aeronaut was unable to help the unfortunate, who though called upon to let go, still clung to the ropes. The balloon had now gone 1,000 feet upwards, and the spectators stood paralyzed with fear, gazing upwards at the unfortunate man, who, after letting go one hand, desperately clung to the rope with the other, only to fall earthward the next moment. Down he came, executing a series of somersaults in the air. He swuck in a field 100 feet from the grounde, and with the exception of his face was terribly smeahed. Winsley was aged 20 and was unmarried.

The "Writing up" Fakir. The Port Perry Standard says: Last week an individual called at this office and stated that he intended "writing up" the mercantile interests of Port Perry, and asked us for terms for pubof Port Perry, and asked us for terms for publishing his account of them in the Standard-We consented at so much per column and he started out to do the "work." Since then we have seen nothing of him, he having taken his departure last Friday for the North, but we understand that he roped in several of our merchants before he left. We advise surrounding tewns to be on the look out for him. The Chronicle of last week alludes to the same party as follows: "There is a gentleman about town taking orders for "writing up" the business men's affairs. This individual may or may not be a fakir, but his proposals to us to publish his matter made us believe he is one, and we advise business men to wait and see if they get any value for their money before paying it out. It is a common thing for these gents, on the advertising racket, to come out frauds."
