" For God and Home and Native Land." A Sketch of General Clinton B. Fisk, the Probibition Candidate for the Prosidency.

llinton B. Fisk was born on December distillery. His father was a blacksmith, the youngest of a family of sixteen children and is said to have been neither a temperance man nor a church goer, and who seldom or never heard preaching. But there was one droll exception. A day at the blacksmith's shop and asked the coas of shoeing his horse. "Preach measurmon right there on that horseblock "said the blackemith "and I will not charge you a cent," The preacher agreed. The horse was shod, and the minister, nothing loth, mounted the horseblock, and solemnly and deliberately gave out his text divided his subject and preached a regular sermon as if in church. As business prospects were not encoursging the blacksmith moved farther west west to Cinion, which henceforth was the He had no state, but his hearthstone was broad smooth, and on that, by the light of the fire, he copied the characters over and over again much he could write easily and of the universite efforts on behalf of the Degroes. He recognized at the outset that an education must be placed within their reach, and onened a school in 1866. At first the criptories and spelling book covered the ground, but as the school grew its studies increased and it became Fisk University. The work was wonderfully successful has its demands for money Were hervy. One of its crisis was grandly met. A tand of the students who took the title of the "Fisk Jubilee Sloggers" made a tour around the world. In Great Britain Mr. Gladstone, Mr. Bright, Mr. Spurgeen and other prominent men approximate their chiefs. proving their object, recommended them to the public and attended their concerts.

He was obliged to leave home to earn ils own living, and the first article be longly with his earnings was a mutilated copy of Shak spears. Later on he acquired the "Pelicim's Progress," "Paradise Lost," a da "Columbian Orator." When he had been a year away from home heattended revival meetings, became intermirraned, converted and was baptised in the river Raisin.

In 1-11 his mother married a wealthy larner who was very kind to his step-son and gave him a good education. He was married is 1850 and now threw himself into hud ass pursuits with all his characteristic order. When the war broke out he took a deep interest in the question at issue and was emong the first to Missouri to undertake the tailing of the regiment of which he was made colonel.

They were well received in a I the leading towns and cities of Canada and received crowded houses. Lindsey being no exception to this rule. By their efforts a clear profit of $100,000 was realized for the university. Philanti ropic and temperance work has occupied much of his time. He clung to the republican party until 1884, but in that year the reception Miss Frances E. Willard and other prohibition advocates met with, convinced him that the gigantic evil of the light and he evil of the liquer traffic could not be grappled with through that party. He can in 1886 for prohibition candidate for Rovernor of New Jersey and his personal popularity attracted on unexpectedly large

The manner in which he conducted the campaign attracted the attention of the whole country, and rendered his nomination for the presidency inevitable.

MUNIFICENT GIFTS. -Mrs. Robt. Nicho'ls. by whose generosity the Nicholls hospital was established, has given another proof of her liberality. She is a member of St. Audrew's Presbyterian church. This But there was one droil exception. A church was a couple of years ago rebuilt Baptist minister from York drew up one day at the blacksmith's shop and asked erecting this new building the church was free from debt, but, as usual, a portion of the expenditure for the new church was left to be paid in the future. The debt on the church Sunday, the day of the anniversary, was $12 000. Collections were taken up to apply on the debt, and Mrs. Nicholls placed upon the plate a cheque for $12,000, the entire amount of the debt. Mrs. Nicholls had previously given $5,000 to the church. When the envelope was opened the officers were surprised and delighted to see the munificent gift it con-tained. St. Andrew's is not the only church that has been been benefitted by family home, where they were more prosperious, but the father did not live long to cappy his new home. He sickened and died in 1832, Laving his widow to pring up her six boys. The little Clinton had learned to read, but he was anxious to piled on the debt. Such Christian liber-ality is appreciated, not only by the con-gregations of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, the people generally, who recognize the spirit of generosity that prompted the giving of such magnificent offerings to assist

Mr. John Sullivan ably filled the chair, and Mr. Quizley acted as accretary. Mr. J. C. Leary was called on and on arising and the object of this meeting was to discuss the matter of annexation to Peterboro coust the matter of annexation to Peterboro county, and also to raise a fund to bear the temporary expenses which had already occurred and were likely to occur in promoting this object. Mr. Patrick Gillecce was then appointed secretary treasurer and a subscription started. About twenty five dollars were raised, and you may judge from the spirit of the meeting that they mean hustress. The matter of appropriate mean business. The matter of annexation mean business. The matter of annexation was again brought before the meeting. Messrs. Morgan O'Neill, C. Milloy and several other gentlemen gave their views on the matter. It was decided to leave it over until we hear the decision of the county council in December. Jas. C. Leary and William Deyell were appointed delegates to meet the county council in December with petitions from Emily and Verulam.

... Now, Mr. Editor, in looking into your bright, intelligent eyes we are surprised at

The Floating Bridge Question.—Considerable discussion is just; at present going on in this part of the county over the floating bridge on Pigeon lake. It is claimed that as the bridge is wholly in the county of Victoria, as the county council of this county for many years supported the bridge and thereby took upon themselves the responsibility, at least in part, of its maintenance, and as it benefits a considerable portion of three townships particularly and the travelling public generally, that the Victoria county council have at least a moral right to meet the county of Peterboro half way in the matter of repairs. The present condition of the bridge is no worse than it was for some years past, but the county council of Peterboro finding that this county would not bear half of the expenses of the repairs have closed it by placing two mammoth erboro finding that this county would not bear haif of the expenses of the repairs have closed it by placing two mammoth stones one at the approach to each end of the bridge and thereby shutting off traffic. The promoters of the movement to have parts of the three townships joined to Peterboro county seem to be decidedly in earnest, nor have they been slow to take practical steps to put the resolutions passed at the recent meetings into effect. They have interested the member for West Peterboro in their behalf, who has already by have interested the member for West Peterboro in their behalf, who has already by means of enquiries and attendance at public meetings made himself master of all the points in the case. The county council of Victoria will hardly for the sake of the expenditure of a few dollars endanger the severance of so much land from the county, the taxes on which for county purposes would in one year keep the bridge in repair for a score of years. The suggestion pair for a score of years. The suggestion made by the editor of THE Post that a good gravel road be made from the wharf to Lindsay deserves the attention of our county and municipal councils. The swamp on the back road at present is nearly a man-trap. As the north of the township is the s'ronghold of the principal membe of our council he should see that this road is made at least passable.

THE GALT MYSTERY.

Another Mysterious Box Addressed to Mrs. Cherry Posted in Toronto. On Saturday afternoon a new and startling development in connection with the Galt poisoning case was learned. The matter had been kept very quiet by the authorities, but the secret accidentally leaked out. Investigation showed these facts early in the week:-A pasteboard box, similar in appearance to those so intimately connected with the fatal tragedy, was posted in one of the Toronto west end boxes. It was addressed to Mrs. John Cherry, Galt, and within was a slip of paper stating that it was a gift from Meta's murderer, together with sundry warnings, winding up with the suggestion that certain persons had etter be careful how they acted. Within 60 1 the box were several chocolate candies. On one was a slip of paper, on which was written, "This is safe;" on another, "This contains poison." It is stated that the candy last referred to actually does contain strychnine. If this be so, it would tend to show a terrible significance on the part of this peakers. this package. Here is a peculiar and per-haps important point. The handwriting on this package is identical with the address on the package of candies sent to Mr. J. K. plied on the deht. Such Christian liberality is appreciated, not only by the congregations of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, who are directly benefitted, but also by the people generally, who recognize the spirit of generosity that prompted the giving of such magnificent offerings to assist the churches.—[Review.
