According to information collected by

-According to information collected by the Popular Science Monthly it appears that longevity without regularity of habits is very rare. In the blanks received old people, men and women alike, are put down as early risers and retirers, almost without exception, and fully nineteen out of every twenty have observed this custom throughout life, except, perhaps, at some short period in youth. Meals have been eaten regularly, three each day, with dinner at noon, the exception being so rare as to indicate nothing. Exercise in most cases has been hard work up to sixty-five or seventy. Old people are, as a rule, as active and fond of constant occupation as most people are at thirty-five.

—Some days ago Rev. Mr. Scott, principal of the Ottawa ladies' college, informed the five lady teachers that in future they must march into meals behind the pupils and march out in the same manner, or in other words they were to leave the table before him, and not to remain to talk over the business of the day, as they were wont to do. This order the teachers refused to obey. Tuesday when they went to dinner they found the table laid only for the principal and the pupils. No plates, etc., were laid for the teachers, and although they sat out the meal the principal never spoke to them, nor did the servants offer to do anything. At supper the teachers did not appear, but sent and bought their own supper.

—A London special to the Montreal Star says: Mr. Gladstone's visit to Birmingham was a 'prolonged triumph. The accounts of the enthusiasm are very glowing. When he rose to speak in Bingley Hall, the cheering lasted nine minutes. The practical results of his attack on the Chamberlain stronghold is likely soon to be tested. Mr. Hynoch, member for Ashton, a suburb of Birmingham, intends to retire. Mr. Hynoch is a gunmaker, and his chief claim to distinction is that he offered to give 10,000 rifles to Ulstermen to enable them to resist the law when the Home Rule measure of 1835 was imminent. His majority in the last election was only 782. The liberal candidate, Mr. Beale, is a rising barrister. a rising barrister.

of 900 on the Democratic ticket.

—It is stated on good authority that Rev. Father Chiniquy has felt himself compelled on account of age to give up his travels, and intends to settle down in Montreal.

—The expenses of the London Times in the Parnell commission are simply enormous. It is calculated that for witnesses alone the paper pays nearly $4,000 a day.

—The Michigan lumbermen are very sager for Canadian pine, and a Saginaw firm has concluded the purchase of three timber berths in the Georgian Bay district.

— The Italian war office organ in an article on the relations between France and Italy, signed by the editor—a high authority in military matters—says both France and Italy, with perfect good faith, protest that they do not intend to make an attack. Nevertheless, war is inevitable on the first occasion. France must sooner or later endeavor to burst the iron circle in which the unity of Germany and Italy has bound her. Let no one blame her for such an effort. -Thomas Aldwell, ledger-keeper in the Dominion bank at Belloville and formerly of Toronto, is niaced in a peculiar position. His brother William has been on a visit here for a few weeks and the two men are charged by the English church clergy men, Rev. T. W. Burke and Rev. S. Daw, with circulating immoral literature. The bank and the chief of police and when the bank clerk heard of it he at once instituted proceedings against the clergymen for libel. They have been asked to render an apology, and if they fail to do this Mr. Aldwell will issue a writ for damages. Both young men stoutly pretest their innocence and the affair has created quites a buzz of excitement among the friends of the interested parties.

-An American news-item says:—The marriage of Miss Mary, daughter of Wm. E. Endiectt, secretary of war, to Joseph Chamberlain, M. P., of England, will take place at Washington Thursday, Nov. 15th. It will be free from ostentation, and only the relatives and a few intimate friends from Salem and Boston will be present. It is understood that the couple will sall for England immediately after the ceremony. The relatives are reciclent when spoken to regarding the match, but it is believed that the family opposed it all along, or at least the British legation. Miss England immediately after the ceremony. The relatives are relicient when spoken to regarding the match, but it is believed that the young lady and English statesman are unsuited, not only in age but also in temperament. —Cipher despatches from St. Petersburg intimate that the czar's nerves are much more shaken by his recent accident than his tremendous physical atrength would lead one to believe could be the case. His lead one to believe could be the case. His mind constantly dwells upon the occurence and it is difficult to lead his thoughts into other channels. As he sits in the great armchair in his study he misses his faithful friend, the dog which was crushed in the wreck of the train at his feet, and those coming suddenly into his presence have more than once found him in tears. The case suffers a small deal from his bruises. A silver cigaratte case, which he had in his prefet when the accident was crushed perfectly first.

James Scott of Dawn was killed by his wife early last Thursday morning. She shot him through the field while he was asleep. She has shown symptoms of insanity lately, but was considered harmless. Scott, who was 43 years of age, has been a very hard worker and, although indulging in drink rather freely at times, was considered a good provider. There are seven children, the eldest being 14 years, and the youngest one year old. Mrs. Scott's maiden name was Amelia Mick, and her people live at Allandale, Ont. The coroner held an inquest and the verdict returned was that Scott was murdered by his wife during a fit of insanity. Mrs. Scott was committed to Sarnia gaol to await trial at the spring assizes.

-A scheme is being considered by the cannery proprietors of British Columbia which may have the double result of considerably reducing the destitution among the people of the western islands of Scotland and of settling the Chinese problem in the Pacific province. At present large numbers of Chinese and Indians are employed in the catching and curing of the salmon in British Columbia. Now, the crofter fishermen of Scotland are noted for their seamanlike ability and their experience as fishermen, and one proprietor of a cannery has arranged to bring out next year 120 families, or 600 souls in all. This immigration will be rapidly followed by other companies from the same source. British Columbia is to be congratulated on the prospect of acquiring such a thrifty the prospect of acquiring such a thrifty and industrious class of emigrants as the theories regarding the identity of the Whitechapel murderer seem to be that he is either the Malay formerly spoken of or a cattleman attached to some steamer that makes trips of a week's duration to some European port. The police incline to the latter supposition. According to this theory the murderer, after killing his victim, could destroy all trace of his whereabouts by immediately shipping and not returning to London for a week or so.... Dr. Forbes Winslow says: "It is the work of the same homicidal lunatic who committed the other crimes in Whitechapel. The harrowing details point to this conclusion. The way in which the murder was done and the strange state in which the body was left is not consistent with sanity. The theory stated some time ago has come true to the letter. This was that the murderer was in a lucid interval, and would recommence directly this state had passed away. It appears that the authorities were forgetting this theory, and that some one had been persuading them from the fact that so long a time was intervening between the murders that, therefore, he could not be a homicidal maniac. I desire, as personally or originally responsible for the theory, to flatly deny this, ted in our metropolis, to the terror of London. It appears to me that it is the burning question of the hour." -A London cable says: The body of a woman has been found murdered and mutilated in a house on Dorset-st., near Hanbury-st. The murder was committed in the woman's own room, and the body was cut up in a horrible manner. This is undoubtedly a repetition of the series of woman murders in Whitechapel. Blood-

The Washington Evening Post publishes this item, which may be true but is more likely not to be true:—One day this week Miss West, daughter of the late English minister, was in a store on the avenue, and with her was a well-known member of the Italian legation. While they were talking over a purchase Mrs. Cleveland's carriage drove up to the kerb and she came in. She spoke to the gentleman and for a moment talked with him, and then stepped towards Miss West and extended her hand in greeting. But the young lady would have none of it. She had not quite forgotten how Mrs. Cleveland's husband had snubbed her father, and with a haughty grace she folded her hands in front of her and turned her back on the president's wife. It was embarrassing, very embarrassing, not only to the parties at interest, but also to the gentleman, and Mrs. Cleveland relieved it by transacting her business and going without the usual parting salutations.
