AV. C. T. AI. For God and Home and Native Land." UNCUT LEAVES.

"Read me, mamma," said my darling. As she thrust her golden ourls oust above my book, "you're laughing-Can't you read from little girls?"

"Huery, mamma, I'm a story." 'Yes. you're one so bright and new, That the pages are not cut, dear, No one yet may read it through.

"In between the leaves I'm neering. Catching gleams of pictures bright. Here and there strange words, I wonder Why they fill me with affright.

He who wrote the book and made it. Gave a knife to one called 'Tima.' Who alone can cut the pages.

Be they prove or he they rhyme."

TEACH THE BABY TO PRAY.

The teaching a baby to pray should be s simple matter. The mother who herself feels the exceedness and comfort of prayer should hardly fall in imparting some of her reverence to her little one. The child should be told of her loving heavenly Father who gives her everything she has, of the dear Saviour who was once a little child on earth but who is now in heaven, and jet watches over his dear children. She should learn to feel that the Saviour is always near her to help her to do good; that He is happy when she is glad, sorry when she is ead or naugh y. It should be natural for the child to ask for help in the vexations and disappointments that are so much to her and so little to any one else. It will follow as a matter of course that she should kneel at night and pray that she may be guarded while she is asleep, and that the same care may be taken of those dear to her. If the mother is always ready at high to hear the child "say her prayers," there is not much danger that the formula will degenerate into the hasty meaningless gabble it sometimes becomes, and that lends color to the objection against teaching children to pray.

The age at which children should be taught to pray cannot be fixed definitely. Children vary so much in devolopment that the nother's own good sense has to be called in to help her. In general terms one may say that where a child can under-stand a story told her, and has sufficient command of language to prefer an intelli-gent request she is advanced enough to learn to pray. It does not require a mat-ared intellect to catch the idea of a Higher Power who hears and answers petitions. That is all she need know at the outset.

The rest will come in due time.

A sanctity should surround the time of prayer. There should be no talking going on in the nursery while the child kneels at the mother's lap. If possible the two should be alone together, that there may be opportunity for the little one to make confession of her childish paughtiness during the day, and to ask forgiveness for them. The bond thus established between mother and child is very close and dear. With such watchfulness as this there is no danger that the habit of prayer will breed irreverance. As to its causing laxity in later life there is room for doubt if this is everthe case with a judiciously trained child if religious practices of any kind are made atern during a contract than stern duries, punishments rather than privileges, the child will naturally revolt from prayer when she becomes old enough to choose for herself. It may be safely said, however, that there have been more men and women to whom the remembrance of early prayers has been assafe-guard than there are those whom it has led into Paths of recklesaness.

OBITUARY.—It is with deep feelings of regret we chronicle the death of Mr. Owen Tahaney, who died on the 6th inst. of inflammation of the stomach. He was only ill a few days and his sudden death was a sad blow to the family. He was one of the first settlers in East Rama, and must have undergone many trials since. He leaves a wife, five sons and two daughters to mourn his loss. His second eldest son, Michael, is in the police force, Bay City, Mich.; his eldest daughter is Mother Superior in a convent at Buffalc; one of his sons died last summer and the rest are all living here. They have our sympathy in this sudden bereavement. The funeral proceeded to the Roman Catholic cemetery at Uptergrove on Saturday, followed by a large number of friends and relatives. May his soul rest in peace. Mr. M. Tahaney came home from Bay City to see his father before interment. Mrs. Tahaney is recovering nicely from her severe illness, notwithstanding this sudden trial.—

UXBRIDGE. A BIG BEAR HUNT ON SUNDAY. — Result, bare. A large party was organized here on Monday morning to go in search of a bear that had been tracked and hunted the day before and in a swamp on the 12th of Reach. On Sunday the hunt had been entered into by a large number of Reach and Brock people, and when dusk compelled them to give up the hunt, some Sunderland men who had been in the party came down to Uxbridge to stay over night. The local sportsmen were informed of the affair and early next morning nearly every gun in the place was on its way to of the affair and early next morning nearly every gun in the place was on its way to the 12th of Reach. The hunt was prosecuted with vigor, but nary a bear could any one see. The supposition is that bruin had done some travelling during the night and left for behind him the locality in which he seemed likely to get such a warm reception. There were enough men, one hunter avers, to surround the swamp standing about aix yards apart. Only three or four men attended Marsh Hill church on Sunday; the others were "huntin' ba'r."—[Journal.

An OLD LADY'S BAD BLUNDER.—Mr. A.

After the annoyance of an arrest and other humiliations Mr. Campbell proceeded on his journey, the robbed old lady regretting her mistake and and putting herself under his charge until Brampton was reached.

He was a witness in the Greenfield case, and on Thursday he drew his, pay for attending court. A neighbor saw him and sent his boys to prepare the old man's fire and went himself to make him comfortable. At about nine o'clock smoke was seen issuing from the shanty, but the neighbors who hurried to the scene, although they heard the old man groaning, could not reach him. Address and Presentation.—Dr.A. J. Campbell having sold out his business in this place to Dr. Fish has removed to Gra-venhurst. On Monday evening prior to his departure quite a jarge number of the leading reformers met at his residence to bid good-bye. After the company was seated Mr.Tnomas Werry was called to the chair and explained to the doctor and his seated Mr. Thomas Worry was called to the chair and explained to the doctor and his wife the cause of the intrusion and called on Mr. Robert Philp, who read the following address, and Mr. S. T. Ferguson on behalf of the company presented the doctor with a handsome family bible and Mrs. T. Werry presented Mrs. Campbell with a beautiful album: To Mr. A. J. Campbell, M.D., L.M. F.R.C.S.—A few of your friends having heard of your departure have gathered for the purpose of bidding you good by and expressing our esteem of the straightforword and manly course you have pursued while among us. As a physician you have rendered many of us valuable service, faithfully and honestly doing all in your power for the welfare and comfort of those under your charge. We cougratulate you on your recent success in obtaining well-deserved honors in the universities of Europe. You have assisted in every cause for the bettering of man's social condition, particularly the cause of temperance, devoting many weeks of anxious toil in elucating the people to a sense of the terrible evil that is sapping away the very vitals of our country, ruining the promising life of many a dear one, and laying a large number of our friends and neighbors in drunkards' graves. It was largely through that effort that the temperance cause was successful in our township. We admire the firm stand you have taken in the reform cause, advocating at all suitable times and doing every thing possible for the furtherance of those principles which we think for the best interests of our young and fair Dominion, and by so doing alienating the friendship of many of your political opponents and causing great injury to yourself financially. As a neighbor you and your excellent partner have always been kind and obliging, assisting whenever necessity and giving the friendship of true, warm, loving natures. We sak of you, sir, to accept of this bible and you, Mrs Campbell, to accept of this album, not on account of their intrinsic value, but, on account of their intrinsic valu
