THE GREAT BANKRUPT STOCK MEN.

New Years Gifts for Everybody.

MOTHERS!—Buy little Jack a Christmas Box; it won't be "little" Jack very long. Keep up the Christmas sentiment with the "Little Folks." When their legs lengthen and the downy moustache comes on the upper lip they'll soon enough get sober and matter of fact. Keep them boys as long as you can.

MOTHERS!—Buy your big sons a Christmas Box—a few Silk Handkerchiefs, or Gloves, or Collars; they cost but little, but they go a long way; don't suppose because they talk horse (and smoke cigarettes and meerschaums) and other kindred subjects, they are insensible to maternal demonstration. Not a bit of it; he'll brush a tear from his cheek when he's alone and wish he was in knickerbockers again, holding his mother's hand and toddling by her side.

BOYS!—Get a Christmas Box for your Mother. Club together and buy her the best, and then it will come a long way behind what she is doing for you every day. Her best you can never repay; but a little return or memento of affection from you will go a long way with her—Gloves, Muffs, Handkerchiefs or a Winter Wrap.

HUSBANDS!—Buy your wives a Christmas Box. You are fortunately fixed, having but one wife to buy for. Think of what a time a Mormon Elder has in adapting his favors to his various ribs. Your duty, or rather your delight, is plain and easy. A Mantle, a Dress, a dozen pair of Kid Gloves, and a thousand and one things besides (she can do with them all) that we can offer you at wonderfully low prices.

WIVES!—Buy a Christmas Box for your husbands; get his mind off his business, off his politics, off the stock exchange. Of course he is sometimes grumpy; (just a whisper in your ear) feed him well, then surprise him with a new Smoking Cap, or a new Dressing Gown, or some Neckties, or Pocket Handkerchiefs. Make THE FAMOUS your confidant. They have a specific for every case.

GIRLS!—Buy your big brothers a Christmas Box; you know their tastes. They prefer Neckties to Prayer Books, and you cannot wonder, for they believe your taste "and example" is perfection.

POLITICIANS!—Bury the hatchet and the pen, perhaps if you all could get new lives this Christmas tide it would be the best thing both for you and the public. Supposing Sir John presented the Hon. Edward with a policy, (not the National one, he don't understand it), or that the Hon. Edward presented Sir John with a few principles or a pair of Gloves, not so much to cover the hands as to keep them warm, and then Sir John might send the Honorable Edward a new Hat; not that he needs one, oh, no, but a Christie Stiff would give him such a distinguished appearance. And even our Provincial Premier might forget this Christmas time that, although he comes out head ever time, he might, well he might, in short, broaden out a little (we don't mean physically), and be a little less Provincial. (Suits to fit all sizes at KEAN'S, in Scotch, Canadian and Foreign Tweeds,) and give not only the Farmer Boys a vote, but the Student, the Clerk, and the Mechanic a chance to distinguish themselves or otherwise.

THE CLERGY!—Might present their congregations with—well, say shorter sermons this holiday season, and countenances that are great comfort and happiness, and that their own beliefs thoroughly agree with them. Surely on Christmas everybody should look hearty, not exactly rubicund, but what say you to cheery?

CHURCH-GOERS!—Might present their Pastors with overflowing congregations and pay up their dues. Surely no class of our citizens work harder for their stipend and labor more for the good of their fellows. Dressing Gowns, Overcoats and Ministerial Supplies supplied by the "FAMOUS."

RICH MEN!—At a very small outlay can present their less-fortunate fellow citizens with Heavy Quilts for 75c. each, and whopping big ones at $1.50 each. Blankets and Flannels are also wonderfully cheap and economise a lot of Caloric. Woolen Stockings and Mittens are also a wonderfully nice Christmas Present.

WORKINGMEN!—Yes, even he can scatter his favors, for surely there are none so poor but can help his fellows, and although the air is frosty it is kindly, and gives strength to the toiler to give a good day's work for a good day's pay, and a cheery look and a pleasant "good day" to his employer, who oftentimes finds it as hard to make both ends "meet" as the employed.

MISTRESSES!—Too, might think of Bridget in the kitchen, or Sally in the scullery, or Lizzie as she sweeps out the parlor, for something besides wages are needed to knit together the family life. A New Dress for Bridget, a Bright Bonnet for Sally or a Jaunty Apron for the housemaid. Well, you'll find the Christmas pudding more shapely, the pots and pans burnished brighter and the corners all the better swept up.

SERVANTS!—Might run the house along with a little less racket this Christmas time—and agree not to disagree. Bridget unbeknownst to her mistress—out of her own money—might get a sprig of holly to garnish the pudding, while the other lady helps might conspire together to surprise the family with the brightest and cheeriest of fires and have the house made beautiful.

EVERYBODY!—Should remember that KEAN'S, the Great Bankrupt Stock Men, have laid themselves out to serve you with the best of their ability. Their Low Prices have brought crowds from all over the country. Their stock of Men's Boys' and Children's Suits and Overcoats, their Great Sale of Winter Furs, their Marvellous Cheap Dress Goods, their Low-priced Carpets, their Beautiful Stock of Fancy Goods for Christmas Presents are now the talk of every fireside throughout this town and surrounding country.

Between This Date and New Year

We are desirous of seeing EVERY RESIDENT OF LINDSAY and the adjoining Counties and smaller Towns inside our Store. If you but pass in and out without making a purchase we will be delighted for you to do so; and if, in passing, you should see among our thousand-and-one attractions anything you care to purchase we will be pleased to serve you.

Since our opening in Lindsay (some five months ago) we have presented our Goods before you at prices which have STRUCK TERROR into some of the high-priced dealers in Lindsay and made the people WONDER HOW WE DO IT. We have tried to catch your eye by Reason, Rhyme, Humor and Facts, and if we have sometimes overstepped the bounds of propriety in our advertisements we can only say that being human we are liable to err. This much, however—Our Statements have Always been True.

THE BAD BOY'S CHRISTMAS STOCKING.

"Dear Santa Claus," wrote little Will, in letters truly shocking. "The best of good boys, so please fill a heaven up this stocking. I want a drum to make pa sick, and drive my mamma crazy. I want a doggie I can kick so he will not get lazy. I want a powder gun to shoot right at my sister Annie, and a big trumpet I can too just swirl loud at granny. I want a duffle big false face to scare in the our baby. I want a pony I can race around the parlor, maybe. I want a little hatchet, too, so I can do some chopping upon our grand piano new, when mamma goes a shopping. I want a nice hard rubber ball to smash all into under the great big mirror in the hall, an' I see an' I see a winder. An candy that will make me sick so ma will hold me an' make pa get the doctor quick an' never try to scold me. An' Santa Claus, if pa says I'm naughty it's a story, just say if he whips me I'll die and go to king dom glory."

It is not likely that this particular boy got what he wanted. Who can always have just what he wants? Nobody.

THE IDEAL AND THE REAL.

[BY THE BARD OF THE "FAMOUS."] Once a charming, charming, charming. Nice young man (considered so) Learned, alas! that streams of true love Never, never, smoothly flow. He'd been loving, loving, loving A fair maiden long and well, And at last had mustered courage All his treasured hopes to tell. He'd not whispered, whispered, whispered Them into the maiden's ear. But had penned them and had sent them To the one his heart held dear. He was waiting, waiting, waiting For his darling's kind reply— Watching for the postman's coming With an eager, anxious eye. Soon a ringing, ringing, ringing Struck upon his startled ear— "There," he cried, "there comes the letter— Welcome, welcome, mislaid dear!" Oh! how fondly, fondly, fondly To his lips the note he pressed— Knowing that his Arabella Had his dearest wishes blest. But, oh horror! horror! horror! How his anguished heart did bleed It was from his washerwoman And did thus piteously read: "I've been washing, washing, washing, Scrubbing for you many a day— Fifteen dollars now you owe me: Why, you rascal! don't you pay?" Not at Kean's Famous, Famous, Famous Did the man his clothing buy, For the Famous has no such patrons— And we'll show the reason why: When a Suit's bought at the Famous What is saved will, past a doubt, Pay a laundress for its washing 'Till the Suit is all worn out.

HONESTY THE BEST POLICY.

We advertise facts, both as regards quantities, quality and prices. We mark all our goods in plain figures, make no second price and SELL STRICTLY FOR CASH. The public are not slow to find out where they can get the Best Value for their money and civility to everybody. We wish you to understand that everything we advertise is now in stock, but we would advise an early inspection before all the plums are gone.
