but unfortunately owing to the bad weather the strendance was limited. A capital program was rendered. The negro melodies were very pleasing and attractive. The present company is exceptionally strong in well-trained voices. Miss Jennie Gatchead, the leading seprano, has a nagnificent voice and is a vocalist of remarkable talent. The basso, Mr. Thompson, has a voice of unusual compass. We can speak of the entertainment in the warmest terms of sommendation. They were frequently and heartily choored. A Bad Rusaway. and speedy colt, and Willie hitched the snimal to a gig in order to exercise him for an hour or so around town. When about to turn down the street by the bell-tower towards home the horse bolted, but young Hair held on pluckily hoping to stop him after the first mad rush. When hearly opposite Mr. Blair's house the animal left the road, and by a sudden lurch threw his driver out upon the sidewalk. Falling upon his head and shoulders the shoot rendered him insensible and caused profuse bleeding. He was conveyed into the house and Dr. Rempt at once sent for. Some time clapsed before he was rectored to consciousness, and it was ancertained that he had sustained no internal injuries. ... The horse, with a portion of the sig attached, was stopped a short distance from the scene of the accident.

-Judging by the somewhat premature—though heart; -interest already evinced by admirers of the "roarin' game" the curting season will be a brief one—conditional, of course, upon the ice being good. It is rumored the younger members intend pressing for the appointment of an official scorer and the rule that all scores are to be left on the blackboard until the next game is called.

The figures of the 42nd year of the Canada Life printed in the advertisement in other columns show the remarkable progress and properity of this company. It is managed with great care and judicious enterprise, and is one of the safest and strongest institutions of the kind in the world. The distribution of profit takes place at 31st December this year, and those who insure now will share in the advantage.

Mr. R. Armetrong of Kirkfield who is now working his saw mill in Carden killed another hear last Monday week. He was looking over the farm of the late Reeve Taylor in Carden when the spaniel dog "Jack" gave the alarm and Ruin was found in a den at the root of an old pine. A gun was obtained and the bear shot. Bruin had made himself most comfortable for the winter. The carcase was brought to town and was purchased by Mr. Simmons, the fur merchant.

count. Alex. Rose deserves well at the hands of east ward residents—none better. For why? Because to attend the last meeting of council and to wield his influence in favor of electric light for the ward he travelled from Hawk lake ... I miles north of Minden—where he was at work repairing drains. This in itself would be a praise worthy effort. But that's not all. In order to catch the train at Minden he was obliged to walk the 22 miles over the roughest kind of a road. -Hallowe'en passed off quietly; very few citizens were obliged to spead the next forenous searching for their front gates; and the special watch detailed to guard a venerable fence in the north ward held a sincoure for the time being. This was as it should be; and the boys deserve credit, although no doubt the vigilant watch maintained by the police in different gartions of the town contributed to the pleasing result. Too often it has been poor widown or other persons incapable of reprisal who have been the victime of the boys' lokes and destructive tendencies, and who were often put to serious expenses to repair the injury done. The change, however brought about, is a most desirable one.

Cuthbert of Lindsay and Miss Libble Brunker, youngest daughter of Mr. William Brunker, botelkeeper, of that village. The ceremony was performed by the resident minister, Rev. J. Curts, in his usual pleasing and effective manner. The bride, who looked charming in a dress of red satin, with white veil, was supported by Miss Carrie Cuthbert; and the groom by Mr. Arthur Dingle of Lindsay. After the ceremony the company partook of an elegant repast. A ball wound up the evening's festivities after the happy couple had been eccorted to the train, leaving on an extended wedding trip. A most enjoyable evening was spent The presents were unusually numerous and some of them very coetly. The list will appear next week.

—I. U. L. 557 and a large number of invited guests assembled at the simpson house, where a repast was spread that was perfect in all its appointments. The bill of fareembraced all the delicacies of the season, and included such palate-ticklers as roast wild duck, haunch of venison, haunch of bear, etc. The usual loyal teasts were duly honored, addresses being delivered by Rev. Dr. Williams, Col. Deacon, J. L. Winters, Sam Hughes, Henry Millar, J. W. Halk it, W. Woods and others. Others of the guests contributed patriotic and sentimental source, etc., and a most enjoyable evening was passed.

The C. M. R. A. of Lindsey purpose giving their first annual concert on Tuesday, November 26th, in the opera house. As they intend to make this concert an annual event—to be heartily supported and welcomed by the general public—they have secured the best professional talent available, and they are confident a program will be presented that from the first to the last number will be of the highest order and will be well worthy of the most generous support. Particulars will be given at a later date. It may be stated that the list of attractions will include readings by Miss Jessie Alexander, admitted to be the best clocutionist in Canada. Concerning her appearance in Toronto the Saturday Night says: "Miss Jessie Alexander has always been received favorable by Toronton-lane, and after her appearance in Association Hall on Thursday evening, January 3, her first appearance before a Toronto andience exclusively her own, she is entitled to rank permanently as a favorite. On that cooksion not a sest was vacant, and there was not a listener who was not charmed by her performance. Her varied program showed the diversity of her electivity and the statements of the program showed the diversity of her electionary talents. It may be said that Miss Alexander would not be the pleasing elecutionist that she is did she not possess in a high degree the power of mimiery, and, beyond that, a thorough and intelligent appreciation of each part which she assumes. Her voice has a won-Jerful closmose which renders every word distinctly. Womanike, she excels in picturing the passion of women. This was apparent in "The first Quarrel," yet in "Danga and Pythias" she may a vivid port ayal of the valorous and self-eacrificing youth struggiing against great odde. Several of her humorous pleces provohed great laughter, particularly the trials of "Baunders McGlasten," and she gave a beautiful picture of applaues, particularly at each effect were said dispiritually assumed. She will always be a feverite with Stratford sudicases."
