

Ayer's Medicine.

The Old Doctors

Drew blood, modern doctors cleanse it; hence the increased demand for Ayer's. It is now well known that most diseases are due, not to over-abundance, but to impurity, of the blood; and it is equally well attested that no blood medicine is so efficacious as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

"One of my children had a large sore break out on the leg. We applied simple remedies for a while, but the sore would shortly heal. But it grew worse. We sought medical advice, and were told that an alternative medicine was necessary. Ayer's Sarsaparilla being above all others, we used it with marvellous results. The sore healed and health and strength rapidly returned."

"I find Ayer's Sarsaparilla to be an admirable remedy for the cure of blood diseases. I have used it in many cases, and it has worked every time."—E. L. Pater, M. D., Manhattan, Kansas.

"We have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for over thirty years and always secured its use when asked to prescribe the best blood-purifier."—W. T. McLean, Druggist, Augusta, Ohio.

"Ayer's medicines continue to be the standard remedies in spite of all competition."—T. W. Richmond, Dr., Lake, Mich.

—The London Daily Telegraph says that the report of a French commission will be published in the first week of the session, that it is precise and vigorous in dealing with the forgeries, but finds it impossible to exonerate Mr. Parnell from a failure to separate the political organizations from the organizations that were openly criminal.

—There are now thirty-nine crematories in various parts of the world. Italy has twenty-three, America has twelve, England, Germany, France, Switzerland, Denmark and Sweden have one each. In Italy there were twenty crematories in 1870; the number rose to twenty-five in 1875, and to thirty-nine in 1877. The number in the United States was 235. Since 1870, 1,177 cremations have taken place in Italy, while the combined numbers from all countries brings the total only to 1,200.

—A Perry correspondent writes: A good desecration of this town tells a startling story regarding his curious experience while attending the wedding of a young man who was preparing for an extensive new year's dinner and killed three fowls; the last one, instead of hopping around like an ordinary hen and cackling, he heard her head cocked up and walked about ten feet, laid an egg and gave up the ghost. In the meantime, the fowl's head cackled for nearly a minute before it, too, became quiet.

—Wales had a seashell jacket made for her lagoon in Paris, and the important fact was that it was made of the same material as the most prominent furriers in New York made twelve jackets for dogs immediately on seeing the news in the paper, and they were sold within a few days.

—The claims of the Princess of Wales to be a leader of fashion are beyond dispute.

—It is probable, says London Times, that the Emperor William will visit London very shortly. The Emperor's visit to London is expected to be a very successful one.

—There is no place in Canada. A medical gentleman who formerly practiced his profession in Farnborough, leaving there two years ago for Los Angeles, California, writes to a friend in Montreal, N. B., that the bottom has dropped out of the country. He says that $3 can be made in Canada for every $1 out there, and of course the cost of living there is much greater than in Canada. In a question of investment some $5,000 in real estate when he located in Los Angeles and, as he intends to return to this country in the spring, he would like to know of some at least, property being a drug in the market and absolutely unsalable.

—The Montreal Witness opposes the expenditure of any further money in deepening the canal. It says that the construction of a canal would never pay a matter of business, that their only use is to keep a check on the railway freights, and that the present tendency is to consolidate railway management in a number of great systems which must ultimately result in control by the government when competition by canals will become a thing of the past. Any canal that is built will provide for competition against the great corporations it could do so more cheaply, effectively and permanently by building a railway and operating it as a business by constructing canals at a vast expense.

—So many guesses at the future provision for the Princess Louise of Wales, Duchess of Fife, have been made that it may be difficult to believe that the Duke of Fife's marriage settlements. It is in the event of the Duke of Fife's predeceasing his wife, the trustees are empowered to pay the princess a jointure of $35,000 per annum in her own right, and in addition, during her time as she may remain unmarried. There is also placed in the princess's hands a sum of $100,000 to provide for her household and to be paid to her in the event of her death. In the event of the princess's death, the sum of $100,000 will be paid to the interest until it shall be provided, at her own request, in lieu thereof.
