GENUINE BARGAINS AGAIN.

The fierce competition of the present day forces prices and profits down to the lowest possible point, until only those who can dispose of immense quantities of goods, and thus underbuy others, can succeed. The great success of our business this spring is a positive proof that people are finding this out----finding out the surest way to make money is to visit our large establishment and see the Bargains to be found in every department.

FROM NOW UNTIL JULY IST WE ARE DETERMINED TO BEAT ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS.

We know the only way to do this is to so reduce prices that every man, woman or child who either lives in or visits Lindsay, will be out of pocket by not attending our great sale.

LINDSAY, FRIDAY, MAY 20, 1890. THE LATE ADAM HUDSPETH.

Memorial Addresses in the Bouse of Commone by Sir John Macdonald, Hon. Mr. Blake and Mr. J. A. Barron, M.P. From the official report.

SIR JOHN A. MACDONALD. - Before the orders of the day are called I beg to ask the attention of the house to another grave loss which we have sustained this session. The hand of death has been heavy upon the house this year, and, in the decease of our colleague, the hon, member for South Victoria, we suffer a real loss. Mr. Hudspeth was not long in parliament, not long enough to take the position that his great abilities would entitle him to, and would have gained for him had he been spared. Those who knew the deceased had sincere esteem and affection for him. He was one of the most lovable of men; a high-minded, honorable man, passersing as kind a heart as ever beat in human bosom. All these who met him and had the pleasure of knowing him will jain me in that opinion of our late colleague. As a public man I believe that if he had lived he would have taken a very considerable and, indeed, perhaps a high position in the government of this country. All we can do now is to regret his early demise. To me personally he is a great loss. I knew Mr. Hudspeth very well for a good many years, and as I have already stated. I do not and, as I have already stated, I do not know that I ever met in my long experience a man more worthy of respect and esteem than was Adam Huispeth.

Mr. BLAKE - In the absence of my hos. friend, the leader of the opposition, who has been called out of the house for a friend, the leader of the opposition, who has been called out of the house for a moment, I may say that on this side of the house we cordially concur in every word that has fallen from the right honorable gentleman. I knew Mr. Hudspeth for a great many years. He was a warm personal friend of mint from his youth; he was, as the right honorable gent eman has said, one of the kindlicet and most lovable souls that ever breathed, and a man of the highest instincts of honor. He was one of those who in his personal as eer, his prefectional career and his political career, never, I believe, made an enemy, and who made friends among his advarrance and supporters wherever he went. He was one of those who very larguity conduced to estes the aspertites, often too great, which come in the course of our political antaqualeme, and serious as his lose is to us in the other element to which I have reterred, and in which he stood very high indeed in the ranks of this particular, its Barron-I do not think, He because his been made in such feeling terms both by the premier and the member for Ward Derman (Mr. Black) should be allowed to pass without some remarks from myself. The late member for South Victoria was my colleague. Although he and I were opposed politically I am bound to say that never since I have known here and since we have been opposed in politics has he ever allowed his political feelings to interfere to the least extent with that warm friendship which he has always shown me. I was his junior, of course, by many years in our profession and in politically opposed to me. The circumstances of his death, as we sail know, have been most sad. It is a letter which I received from my home to day I am informed that on Sunday evening he was as cheerful, as happy and as lovable as he always has been in the midst of and surrounded by his family. It can assure this house and the country that his loss will be felt most keenly, not only by his family but by every one in Victoria county and the surrounding counties wherein he was well known and highly respected. In the town of Lindeay we have all lost a personal friend. He was a valued cit'zen, good and kind to the poor and to one and all with whom he came in contact; and I feel confident that for many and many a long day the name of Adam Hudspeth will be warmly remembered in the hearts of the people who live after him.

I am credibly informed that a certain insurance agent is showing a blank form of applica-tion, which he says is the same as is used by me tion, which he says is the same as is used by me when insuring farmers in the Royal Canadian. I wish to warn intending applicants against misrepresentations. This agent has note of the forms containing the special terms obtained by me for my customers. The terms of the contract in the Royal Canadian are so much more favorable to the policy holder than those of the company represented by the agent referred to that it would not be to his interest to call attention to them. A Wodding at Chicago. A subscriber of THE POST in Chicago writes A subscriber of THE Post in Chicago writes:
"The evening of May 6th was passed very pleasantly by some former residents of Lindsay, Peterbore and Port Hope as the guests of Mrs. E. J. Sanderson, 15t South Weed-st., Chicago, The happy occasion was the marriage of Miss Minnie J. Sanderson) daughter of the lets Mathew Sanderson of Lindsay) to Will, L. Curveth of Winnipeg, Man. Rev. Dr. Jackson of Contensry Methodist church officiated at the coremony, The bride received many handsome gifts, as the, during her few years residence in Chicago, had made many warm friends. After suppor the happy couple left for Winnipeg, where they make their fature home,

-Mr. Tolbert W. Evans of Yelverton sa from Montreal for Glasgow on the 21st instant, for the purpose of making his annual importation of Clydesdale horses. He will this year endeavor to make a first-class selection of stal-lions and fillies that will not only maintain his reputation in the show ring, but that will make a further and decided improvement on the stock fortile pastures of the north country.

—Mr. Dennis Scully of Emily, the well known stock raiser of Emily, sold last week to Mr. J. Alkins of Port Hope some twenty one head of cattle, receiving good prices therefor. More than half of the number sold had been fed on ensilage corn and straw, and Mr. Scully is highly gratified at the result of his enterprise in building a silo, as he considers his stock wintered much better on the ensilage than in previous years on roots. He is strongly of opinion that farmers should sow more ensilage corn for fodder whether they have a silc or not.

—A Lorneville correspondent writes: "Kindly oer whether they have a rile or hot.

—A Lorneville correspondent writes: "Kindly correct mistake in your issue of 9th inst, concerning Mr. Routley's horse getting the red ticket at Eldon spring show, Woodville, as it was Young Emperor, the property of Mr. Arch. McMillan of Thorah, that was successful in winning first prise.".....There has evidently been a misunderstanding somewhere, and it is possible that an extra "red ticket" has got out, as both gentlemen mentioned claim the honor and both may be right—but in different classes. It is satisfactory to know that the farmers in that district will loose nothing by this mistake, as both are good animals and are available for service. Will the secretary kindly set the matter straight.
