which he and his fathers for some centuries have exercised. He is now of little imies have exercised. He is now of little importance in his own country. White influences are in complete ascendancy. The king can get nothing that he does not ask for from his chiefs, who are under the control of the Protestant or Catholic religion. This is a great change for the young king, who a while ago killed a bishop, imprisoned white missionaries and slaughtered native Christians by the score. No heathens are allowed to hold any office in the new government. Many of them are permitted to remain in the land, but there is not a chief among them. The great offices, of which there are six important ones, have been equally divided between the two Christian parties. There has been great danger of serious clashing between the Protestant and Catholic sects. By the advice of both Catholic and Protestant missionaries they have, however, decided to bury their differences and work together for the good of the country. The parties have taken an oath signed by their leaders agreeing that whatever their disputes may be they will not spill one another's blood but will depend upon sober agreements and arbitration to settle all their quarrels. The Mohammedan party seems to be entirely defeated. Thus a remarkable change has been wrought in Uganda, where, a while ago, the Mohammedans ruled everything, and by their influence upon Mwanga and his successor, Karema, drove the whites out of the country and threatened to retard the progress of white enterprise and of all civilization in Central portance in his own country. White influthreatened to retard the progress of white enterprise and of all civilization in Central Africa for half a century to come.

It is certainly not plea-ant to be compelled to refer to the indisputable fact that medical science has utterly failed to affort relief in rheumatic cases. We venture the assertion that although electricity has only been in use as a remedial agent for a few years, it has cured more cases of Rheumatism than all other means combined. Some of our leading physicians, recognising this fact, are availing themselves of this most potent of nature's forces in supplying defects and correcting irregularities. NEURALGIA
