WIDDER GREEN'S LAST WORDS.

"I'm goin' to die," says the Widder Green,
"I'm goin' to quit this absthly scene;
It also' in e place for me to stay.
In such a world as 'tie to-day.
Such works and ways is too much for me.
Nebody san's let sobody be.
The girls is flettned from top to toe,
An's that's the huil o' what they know,
The men is mad on bends as' stocks.
Swearn' an 'shooth' an' pickin' locks.
I'm real afraid I'll be hanged myself

If I ain's laid on my final sholf.
There ain's a cefup but knows to-day.
I never was hundie anyway.
Put since crassy people all go free
I'm dreadful afraid they'll hang up me.
There's another metter that's peshy harl—
I can's go into a neighbor's yard.
To say, 'How be you; 'or borry a pin hut what the paper'll have is is,
'We're pleased to say the Widder Green
Took dinner a Tuesday with Mys. Keene,
Or, 'Our worthy friend Mys. Green has gone
Down to Barkhamstead to see her son.
Great Jerusalem' can's I stir
Without a riain' some feller's fur?
There ain's no privace—so to say,
No more then if thiswas the judgment Day.
And as for meetin'—I want to swear
Whenever I put my head in there.
Why, even Old Huntyred's spiled and done,
Like every thing else under the sun'
it used to be so solemn and slow,
Priste to the Lord hove.

Danne ATTEMPT AT INCENDIARISM.—
Between three and four o'clock on Thursday meeting, 15th inet., Mr. Mac-Nachtan, of the firm of Gross & Mac-Nachtan, discovered the reflection of a blase on his bedroom window. On looking out he saw that it proceeded from the premises occupied by Mr. John Blow, deputy reeve of the town, north of the Ontario hotel. The fire had been kindled in a space of about eight inches in width between the office and the coal shed, and the boards on both sides were burning fisrely on Mr. both sides were burning fiercly on Mr. MacNachtan's arrival. Other persons arrived immediately after the alarm and arrived immediately after the alarm and the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. A burning shirt saturated with coal oil was pulled out of the interstice, and coal oil was found to have been spilled on the boards around the burning spot to facilitate the flames. The attempt was a bold and determined one, and the escape of the town from what could not fail to result in a dieastrone configration, had the fire once gained headway amongst the wooden buildings and coal, was most providential. providential.

Concert.—The concert in the Music Hall on St. Patrick's night was largely attended, the room being literally crammed. Of the merits of the performances we scarcely dare to speak, remembering the indignation excited by the innocent and good-natured criticisms of a correspondent a few weeks ago. We may be permitted to say, however, that not one of the singers is equal to Patti (we never heard Patti but that makes no odds.) We feel perfectly safe in going this far, and we venture further and say that Miss Bolster and Miss Shanahan sing in a very pleasing and agreeable manner. The choir did extremely well. Miss Gordon's accompaniments were perfect, and Mr. Campbell's elective was both amusing and instructive. From what we heard of Miss D. Kennedy's voice we desired anxiously to hear more of it. it was in-mainly and instructive. From what we heard of Miss D.
