An attempt was made on Monday night last week to set fire to the stables of the Queen's hotel, Belleville. The hostler, after finishing his work for the evening, left the stable about 9 o'clock, leaving the doors open, as he has been accustomed to do since the warm weather. On returning at 11:30 he found the doors closed, and when he opened them he smelt smoke. Going to the northern extremity of the stables he found in a long narrow recess a pile of straw blazing fiercely. Fortunately the flames had not as yet communicated to the partitions, and two or three pails of water sufficed to extinguish them, There is no doubt that the straw was set on fire with the deliberate intention of A Peterboro rowdy who was blocking setting fire to the building, for the woodup the sidewalk with a companion, rudely work close by was saturated with coal oil,

Tuesday evening it was A grand reparation has recently been | learned that Mr. Sheppard was in town, made on the 6th con., Eldon, immediately and a Review representative promptly ing particulars being obtained: In October last Mr. Sheppard was exploring the northern townships of this country in quest of timber. One day while he was crossing a stream in the township of Herschel, his attention was directed by a glittering substance on the edge of the water, and picking it up it was found to be a piece of quartz with an extraordinarily rich show of free gold. Being an old prospector and mineralist of considerable experience in Nevada, Mr. Sheppard made such examination of that immediate vicinity that convinced him there was a valuable deposit of the precious metal, and he immediately set about securing the property, in which he soon was successful. Early this spring he took a professional Californian expert to the place, and on the strength of the latter's report, and various other assays of the ore that have been made, a strong company has been formed at Ottawa to develop the mine, having first purchased a half interest from Mr. Sheppard, as stated last week, for $25,000 The conditions of the sale and purchase are that the company must commence work developing the property inside of three months.
