TWEEDS AND CLOTHS.

We particularly mention Ordered Suits, as in this department we have been more active than ever, and have secured every novelty of the season.

Our $18.50 Scotch Tweed suits surpass any previous season importings.

Our $20.00 Suits are simply Supurb.

Our Canadian Tweed Suitings from $13.50 to $18.00 are equal in style to many of the Scotch Tweeds. We ask simply for an examination of these Goods.

To the Kelitor of the Warder. Sin, Have we any constable in Lind- self before I lit me eyes fall from his day or not, or why is it that the respectable portion of the people of Lindsay are not able to go about their business without being insulted, and in some cases illowed being insulted, and in some cases illowed being insulted, and in some cases illowed by the divil the very smart he used 'Only a few evenings ago one of Smart tho' the divil the very smart he med. Only a few evenings ago one of these rowdies went to a heensed hotel in the town, and abused and threatened its proprietor, k nocked down a bystander and raised a racket generally. A disgraceful affair also took place at the railway station, a party of Indiana being loaten, and on a later occasion a stranger beaten and robbed of a silver watch and some money. Now, our constables know ing wid a knowin wink o'the eye at the what is on and who these characters are, still no effort is made to capture them or stop their lawlessness. I should very much like to know how that is and why respectable people are to be ill-used by these rowdies without an effort made to punish there? Yours etc.,

[Peterbero Review.]

We are sorry to find the Lindsay l'ost misrepresentation. It says:

"Some time ago the deputy judges in the province, including Mr. Adam Hudspeth, of this town, were "abolished" by notice in the Casette. Mr. Hudspeth has since been reappointed. It is surinised that the Covernment desired to mead out my Heformers who might hold. "Some time ago the deputy judges in the province, including Mr. Adam Hudspeth, of this town, were "abolished" by notice in the Gauette. Mr. Hudspeth has since been reappointed. It is survived that the Government desired to weed out any beformers who might hold the position."

Our contemporary knows very well that Mr. Adam Hudepeth's previous appointment as deputy judge was in consequence of the absence of the county judge, and the binch and the spectateers that he was absence again. The commissions of the deputy judges were revoked because, though intended for a temporary emerally indiges were revoked because, though intended for a temporary emerally indiges were revoked because, though intended for a temporary emerally indiges were revoked because, though intended for a temporary emerally indiges were in fact unlimited. Now all the commissions, like Mr. Hudepeth's present one, are limited to the immediate occasion. These are the facts of the case, and the charge of weating out Reformers is false and malicions. We cannot understand how our contemporary can reconcile itself to such unfairness. If Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Adam Hudepeth were a findesy business man and his employee, the Post would scorn the idea of misorpresenting them in order to injure misrepresenting them in order to injure them. By what system of ethics, then, can it be permissable to deal unfately with them simply because they are political
