WEDNESDAY, APRIL 13, 1870. RED RIVER AFFAIRS.

Though we have no misgivings what ever as to the final result of the presen attempt at robellion, we are not without apprehension that affairs at Red River may evolutate in more serious trouble than we anticipated. The tone of the Quebec press is not what we looked for, er what might be naturally expected. It would be in the last degree disastrous were national prejudices in this case allowed to warp a proper sense of justice and to pol-liate the magnitude of the crime of Riel and his followers. A good opportunity is now presented to the loyal leaders of epinion in Quebec to mould the national last Friday. It was a genuine explotively sympathy and bring it into harmon, with Good Friday for them. perfect justice and national tranquillity. French Canadians, could now make his immense popularity tell on the side of food in that river: right and establish a claim to the grati-tude of a future generation. That he will at unt despatch of a frigate to the Cana-thus act we have no doubt, and that the nature as to proclude all possibility of failure, or even serious difficulty. We fear, however, that the satisfaction which we all desire, the hanging of Riel, will sever become a fact. He will be correct. measure adopted for the suppression of war steamer there. never become a fact. He will be coward sight of Fort Garry. The sens less course uggested by the Toronto Globe of conning the government at every Indignation Meeting has not, we are glad to see been adopted, the leading spirits as a general rule, taking a sensible view of natters, and withholding their expres sion of disapproval until circumstances plainly warrant such a preceeding.

Gen. Lindsn'xs Mission.

The object of the Imperial Government sending Major-General Lindsay to Canada, may be gathered from the following taken from the European Mail:—At the Wigan railway station, a large number of the inhabitants, headed by the Major, assemble to wish him a prosperous journey; and, in reply to a few remarks made by Mr. Eckersly, the General said if he succeeded in obeying the wishes of the Government, and arranged affairs so that the great colony could set for itself, while at the same time it kept up an affiliated feeling for the mother country, he thought he should have done that which would keep the British Empire united to the end of time. At any rate they would have done their best to establish in that colony affectionate relations da, may be gathered from the following hish in that colony affection to establish in that colony affection to rolations with the mother country, and so enable the empire to be consolidated: The gallant gentleman was heartily cheered, and numbers of his friends accompanied him a Liverpool.

Sad Accident.

We regret to have to state that a fatal we regret to have to state that a farial accident occurred yesterday afternoon by which one of the Queen's Own Volunteer's and a respectable citizen came to a sudden and untimely end. It appears that two companies of the Queen's Own—Nos. 2 and 7—were assembled for target practice on the Garrison Commons early in the afternoon—both firing at the same range. One of the men belonging to No. 2 company named Arthur Gascoigne had fired five rounds, and shortly afterwards re leaded his rifle—an ordinary Suider Enfield—in order to be in readiness for the sixth round. About ten minutes afterwards a little boy, some seven or eight years old, with whom Gascoigne was acquainted, came to where the latter was standing and asked him if the rifle which he held was his own. Gascoigne partilly raised the rifle, which was cocked, and forgetting for the moment that it was accident occurred yesterday afternoon by which one of the Queen's Own Volunteer's Mr. Dimelas, that the Petition of C. THE MISSISPIPI DEBT.—The following letter which appeared in the Times, March 26, relates to the debt of Mississippi.—In the last news from the United States I read that Governor Alcorn, of Mississippi, was inaugurated at Jackson, on the 10th inst., in the presence of an immense multitude, when, among the fustion, he said that it was with profound emotion he received from the hand of a conqueror the crown of civil law, and with fustian, he said that it was with profound emotion he received from the hand of a conqueror the crown of civil law, and with a mingled feeling of pain and pleasure that he bound it on the queenly brow of Mississippi. As an unfortunate holder of many thousands of dollars of Mississippi State Bonds, bearing date March 1, 1833, with interest due from 1840, and most of millions of source miles or seventimes. with interest due from 1840, and most of the principal post due, may I enter in the superficies of the terraqueous globe:
