taking Things Without Asking

When I was a boy I was playing out in the atreet one winters day' eatering rides on sleighs, and it was great tun. Boys would rather eaten a ride any day than go out' regularly and properly to take a drive. As I was catching on to one sleigh and another cometimes having a nice time and of times gotting a out from a big black whip I at last fastened, like a barmacle, to the side of a countryman's cutter.

An old gentleman sat alone on the soat, and he looked at me rather henigantly, as I thought, and neither said any thing or swang his whip over me; so I ventured to climb appearant look from the countryman hat not a word. Emboddened by his supposed goodness, I ventured to tumble into his outter and take a seat under the huffile robe beside him, and he then snoke. SALT FOR CATTLE -- Cows now in full flow of milk absolutely require salt, without which the milk will not be perfect. It is not only because cows are foul of salt that it should be given them, but also for the fact that if they are deprived of either the yield of milk will become dimished or the quality deteriorated. Further than this, salt is an assistant to digostion, and as such is conducive to the health of animals.

REMARKABIA AGREMENT.—The idealess way in which many people converse, reminds us of two Dutchman, living oposite each other, who had for years been in the habit of smoking by their decreides in silence:
