Poetry SCATTER SEEDS OF KINDNESS

Let us gather up the sunbeams.
Lying all around our path;
Let us Keep the wheat and reese,
Casting out the thorns and chaff;
Let us find the sweetest confort.
In the blessings of the day,
With a patient hand removing
All the briars from the way.
Then scatter seeds of kindness,
Then scatter seeds of kindness,
Then scatter seeds of kindness,
For our sensing by and by.

Strange we never prize the music
Till the sweet-voiced bird has flown!
Strange that we should slight the violets
Till the lovely flowers are gone!
Strange, that summer skies and sunshine
Never seem one half so fair,
As when winter's snow'y pinions
Shake the white down in the air.—Circ

If we knew the baby fingers,
Pressed against the window pane,
Would be cold and stiff to-morrow— Would be cold and stiff to morrow—
Never trouble us again—
Would the bright eyes of our darling
Catch the frown upon our brow?
Would the print of rosy fingers
You us then as they do now?—Cno.

Ah! those little ice-cold fingers... An't those little ice-cold fingers,, How they point our memories back
To the hasty words and actions
Sirewn along our backward track!
How those little hands remind us,
As in snowy grace they lie,
Not to scatter thorns—but roses—
For our reaping by-and-by.— Cho.

The Absorption of Canada into

Since the Presidential election subjects for original writing in the way of editorials in American papers have been rather scarce, though the Bostoù fire has served to fill up a little the dearth existing. The conflagration is now, however, pretty well exhausted, and editors are casting around them for new prey. It is in this predicament that the 'New York Herald' takes up the question of the "Absorption of Canada in the Union," and in about a column of special pleading it endeavors to show that the question has lain dormant, only, for several years past, "for its agitation among the Canadian people themselvss is likely at any time to take place, and take practical shape as well." Is it too much to ask of the irrepressible 'Herald' to give us a rest? We have been accustomed to hoar so much from it on this very stupid subject, and laugh so heartily at its egregious folly, that we feel-unable to stand much more. The 'Herald' thinks the Fenian raids had much to do with obstructing calin controversy on announcine, and that in our wrath against the authors. From the Quebec Chronicle,

Terrible Colliery Accident.

Walsall, Eagland, on Nov. 14. The collers, about thirty in number, descended the pit at 6 in the merning, but fortnand an alarming cry was raised from the bottom of the shaft, which is sixty feet deep.
The cry was: "Lower the eage, or we shall all be drowned." The engine was quickly set in motion, and eight or nine men had barely time to cling to it before the water was up to their neeks. It eppears that an immense volume of water, which had accumulated unsuspected in an abandoned working, suddenly broke into the pit and swept all before it. The few men who took the alarm succeeded in in reaching the bottom of the shaft before the water, and several others were washed
