Midland District Notes.
 Mr. H. H. Burnham, of Port Hope, voted in East Peterboro', East and West Northumberland and East Durham on Tuesday. He covered one stretch of eleven miles in fifty minutes. Had he not paired with a Conservative in West Durham, he would also have dropped a ballot for Dr. McLaughlin.

The pulp mill on Dickson's race, in Ashburnham, was sold on Friday at the sheriff's office. The bidding for the property was made by Mr. John R. Scott, of Napanee, and Mr. Geo. A. Cox, of Peterborough, but it was finally sold to Mr. Scott for an amount which was $675 over all liens on the property. Mr. Scott is the owner of the Napanee Paper Mills, and will, probably, ship the pulp made here to Napanee, and manufacture it into paper at the mills there.

When Mr. Thomas Rattenbury, chief draughtsman of the Northern railway, died a few days ago, it was known that he had left a pretty large sum of money locked up in a secret receptacle of a cabinet made by himself. Today his children, with whom he had not been on very good terms, discovered the hiding place, and brought to light a package containing $5,000. A letter was also found requesting that the amount be equally divided amongst his children.

Since Rev. A. Findlay accepted the call of the Bracebridge church and become its pastor it has been decided by the Harris Presbytery to appoint another missionary for these districts with headquarters at Huntsville. Rev. Mr. McLeod, of Kingsville, Quebec, was first selected, but declined. Then Rev. Dr. Fraser, of Queensville, Ont., formerly missionary to Ponceaux, was chosen. He also declined. Then a rev. gentleman from Ponceaux was chosen, but he likewise declined. At a late meeting of the Presbytery the stipend was increased and Rev. R. Moodie, of Stayner, offered the position. It is not known whether the rev. gentleman will accept or not.

A passenger on the M. R. R., from Uxbridge, on Thursday last, gives particulars of an accident that occurred at the railway crossing just north of that station on the afternoon of that day. A farmer named Thos. Johnston was crossing the track seated on a load of grain, when the sleigh was struck by a passing engine that was moving at a slow rate of speed into the station yard. The sleigh was entirely demolished, but the man escaped serious injury by being literally scooped from his position, and when the engine was stopped he was found seated upon the cow-catcher with two of his bags of grain, and beyond having received a few bruises and a terrible frightening was apparently little the worse for his adventure. The horses broke loose and escaped injury.

The following case of sudden death is reported from the village of Gravenhurst: "A man named Thos. Williams died suddenly here on the 20. It appears that he took the stage at Huntsville the same morning for this place. On the way down he appeared quite ill, and almost immediately after leaving the stage here he died. An inspection of his effects showed that he is from Somersetshire, England, where he leaves a wife and five children. A clue was also obtained to a brother now residing in Whiteby, who was communicated with. A letter was also found addressed to Mr. T. Taylor, Bracebridge, which showed that he had located two lots in the township of Chaffey. He was buried yesterday in the village cemetery.

The News-Argus gives the following particulars of the terrible accident which occurred on the Quebec and Ontario railway, at Callahan's Rapids, last Monday morning, the result of a dynamite explosion, causing the instantaneous death of one person, and the serious if not fatal injury of another. Two men, named King and Buckley, were in one apartment of the boarding house of Munford & MacMahon, contractors, warning the explosive, and preparing it for blasting, when the explosion took place. Mr. King, the clerk, was blown about forty feet through a window, his right arm blown completely off, and the left arm and lower jaw horribly shattered. Buckley was blown through a partition, and although badly hurt it is thought he may recover. Instantly the building was on fire, the occupants barely having time to escape. This is the fifth accident (the last two fatal) that has happened on this road within a space of six miles.

In a recent issue we noted that W. C. Anderson, formerly a resident of the Tyndinaga Reserve, had fallen heir to an immense fortune, willed him by a relative in Scotland. At the time he was employed as a telegraph operator at Lechute, P. Q., and was looked upon as a steady, industrious, and in all respects an exemplary young man. It appears, however, that his good fortune has completely destroyed his equilibrium. He at once took to drink, borrowed money recklessly from reckless or thoughtless friends, entered into wild speculations, purchased a property in Montreal for $30,000, and started on the downward road at a pace that would suggest that old Nick himself held the reins and was supplying the road cuts. He seems to have had a peculiar penchant for diamonds and invested largely in precious stones which he has placed in costly settings. Naturally he forgot most of his little obligations, and among others neglected to pay $100 borrowed from Mayor Halliday, of Brockville. On Friday last, the latter having learned that Anderson was on the train en route from Toronto to Montreal, caused

The three leading fairs of the Province have announced their dates for holding the exhibitions of 1883. The arrangement is excellent, and will meet with the approval of the great majority of exhibitors. The Toronto Industrial will open on Saturday 11th and close on the 22nd. The Provincial will be held at Guelph from September 14th to the 30th, and the Western fair will open in London on the 1st of October and close on the 6th.

The employees of the Midland railway presented Mr. Joe Haggas, the retiring mechanical superintendent of the railway, with a handsome gold chain and appendage last week in the Queen's hotel. Mr. Y. Gethwaite occupied the chair and Mr. Lynn read the address, which was signed by Messrs. G. Mimmis, G. Henderson and Thos. Walton on behalf of the employees. The party sat down to an oyster supper and spent an exceedingly pleasant evening.

A few days ago Mr. Sharpe, of Prince Albert, father-in-law of Mr. Motheral, of Port Ferry, while on his way home was taken with a feeling of extreme weakness and fell down in the snow on the commons south of Mrs. A. Gordon's residence. He was eventually discovered in this helpless condition by Mrs. Wm. Simpson, who gave him all the assistance in her power. It was a cold day, and had he not been timely discovered would have frozen to death. It is supposed he must have been lying there alone about half an hour.

The post office department has long been considering the necessity of enlarging the postal cars on the Grand Trunk railway between Montreal, Toronto and elsewhere. The present ones in use are altogether too small. Inspectors Sweetnam, of Toronto, and Dewey, of Ottawa, were instructed by the Postmaster-General to visit Chicago and inspect the postal cars in use in that great railway centre. As a result of the visit, Inspector Sweetnam has furnished the Grand Trunk authorities with plans and specifications of the Chicago cars, and five new postal coaches will be immediately constructed. Two of the new cars will be run daily between Toronto and Montreal. Their dimensions will be forty feet by the full width (9 feet). The fifth one will be used as an extra car. The postal route between these two points is the heaviest in the Dominion, and with the present cars in use the mail clerks are greatly handicapped by the limited space allotted them. As many as eight men can work with comfort in the new cars, which will have all the latest improvements in use over the border.

Many a sickly woman, whose sad experience had demonstrated alike the failure of conceited doctors and poisonous drugs, has obtained a new lease of life for a few dollars worth of the Vegetable Compound and has gone on her way rejoicing and praising Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass.

Blessing to all Mankind.
 In these times when our newspapers are flooded with patent medicine advertisements, it is gratifying to know what to procure that will certainly cure you. If you are bilious, blood out of order, liver inactive, or generally debilitated, there is nothing in the world that will cure you so quickly as Electric Bitters. They are a blessing to all mankind, and can be had for only fifty cents a bottle at A. Higginbotham's. (2)

Death of a Noted Criminal.
 The recent death of that remarkable criminal, Dan Noble, has revived the story of his great bond robbery in New York in 1866. The amount stolen from the Royal Insurance company was $275,000. Noble had two confederates, named Frank Knapp and James Griffin. While these two engaged the office men in conversation Noble stole the box containing the bonds. They fled with the money to Canada, locating in St. Catharines, where Griffin assumed the name of Williams. In 1867 he returned to Elmira, N. Y., and began to live in a most luxurious style. It was in that city that the spoils were divided between him and his pal Knapp and Griffin. The division was made with Dan's usual eye to business. The amount of the contents of the box that was secured in Wall street it seems was not known at the time to any one but Noble. He quietly abstracted $200,000 of the booty, leaving $75,000 as the ostensible fruit of their operations. He gave to each $25,000, with which they expressed themselves satisfied, and afterwards took their departure. Knapp went to Canada, and is keeping a hotel in Toronto now. Griffin, who was the shrewdest member of the illustrious trio, kept a gambling house and was suspected of complicity in the robbery of the Bank of Montreal in St. Catharines when some $40,000 was secured by the thieves. Williams left here a day or two after the robbery accompanied by a detective, ostensibly to hunt up the robbers. He failed, however, to return. He then went to Danville, N. Y., and set up a gambling institution, resuming the name of Griffin, but we believe died in prison. The detection, arrest and conviction of Noble, by the aid of Griffin turning State's evidence, speedily followed, and is a matter of criminal history. Griffin's treachery was the outgrowth of the discovery that Noble had not made a fair division of the booty. Noble was sentenced to five years in Auburn prison after four trials. The walls of Auburn did not, however, hold the wily prisoner long, for in less than a year he escaped by unappreciated circumstances and fled to England. There and on the continent he assumed his audacious career of criminality, with varying success, being several times a prisoner in different countries, until finally he was landed behind the bars of the English penitentiary in which he breathed his last.
