News of the Week.

The estimate at Chicago of the loss of Sunday's storm is $200,000. Eighteen lives were lost.

There is excitement at Duluth over the alleged discovery of gold and silver within the city limits.

The determination of the manufacturers to enforce a 20 per cent. reduction has decided the iron workers at the Bayview rolling mills, Milwaukee, to strike; 5,000 men are employed.

Martin Table died at Lockhaven, Pa., on Saturday, aged 60. He served with Napoleon and participated in the battles of Leipzig and Hanau. It is believed he was the last survivor of the 14th regiment in 1860 he received a gold medal from the last companion of Napoleon at St. Helena.

It is reported at Washington that the British Minister has received papers containing charges against Tyan, Sheridan, and Walsh; and that Tyan will turn informer, under a promise of immunity, and expose certain irregularities in connection with the use made of land league funds that were a violation of the neutrality laws.

On Thursday a most interesting episode transpired in the penitentiary at Kingston. A young woman named Elliott gave birth to a fine little girl. Dr. C. Lovell reports that mother and child are doing well, and that the baby is a little beauty. The mother is about 25 years of age, good looking, and about six months ago was committed to the penitentiary for larceny from a place near Lindsay. She claims to be a married woman, and states that this is her fourth child. Selton, if ever, has such an occurrence as a convict becoming a mother transpired within the prison walls.

Rev. C. B. Pittblado, says a Winnipeg paper, returned a few days ago from a trip to the end of the track, after spending a short time at Regina, Moosejaw, Swift Current, and Maple Creek. He reports the location of Moosejaw an excellent site, and the country around it exceedingly fertile and fast filling up with settlers. The land around Swift Current and Maple Creek is much lighter, but is nevertheless adapted for agriculture. Railway construction is progressing rapidly, and it will only be a question of a few days now when the iron horse will reach the South Saskatchewan at Medicine Hat.

The story is being whispered around in Nanapanee that some time ago—months, not years—a certain distinguished personage felt the need of a wife, no doubt to comfort his declining years. Choosing among his lady acquaintances a rather bright woman, possessed of many amiable qualities and considerable wealth, he offered himself to her. The lady was presumably surprised; at any rate she refused him decidedly and, as she thought, finally. He, however, persisted in his wooing so manfully and so vigorously that in desperation she told him that if he would "cease to press his suit she would give him $1,000," and he took it.

The Picton Gazette of last week says: Within the past few days evidences have been furnished that some wicked and, no doubt, designing persons have made efforts which, if they had been successful, would have been instrumental in the destruction of a large amount of property, and perhaps the loss of valuable lives. Obstructions have been found on the track of the C. O. railway, which, happily, were discovered in time to prevent serious results. Without the fear of detection before their eyes some miscreants deliberately drove large iron spikes between the joints of the rails, near Picton; and near the Four corners, Hillier, a plank was laid quite across the track. The company are using the utmost diligence to discover the perpetrators of these malicious acts, and have offered a reward of $100 for their detection.

A human skeleton was recently found on the farm of Mr. Cooper, near Blackwell, in Lambton county, and a number of the old residents are connecting the discovery with the sudden disappearance of an Englishman named Robert Ward. About twenty years ago Ward worked at that locality, and was known to habitually carry his wealth, consisting of $500 in gold on his person. In the fall of 1863 he started for Wyoming to make some purchases, and took a short cut through the woods and across what was known as the big swamp, just before entering which he was observed talking with a school teacher named Robert Hill, and a boy who was ploughing in a back field adjoining the swamp, when Hill left the boy and started with Ward, ostensibly to show him the way through the swamp. This was the last time Ward was ever seen, and the general impression then prevailed that he had fallen a victim to foul play. The entire neighborhood turned out to search for the missing man, but no trace of him could be found. It was the prevailing opinion at the time that he had been murdered on the edge of the swamp, and the remains taken during the night somewhere around Wawanosh lake, in the township of Barrie, and buried in some dense part of the locality.

The Queen is said to have ordered a large brass tablet bearing an eulogistic inscription in memory of John Brown, which is to be placed on the walls of the Prince Consort's mausoleum at Frogmore. A brass and statute are also in preparation, and at Craithie an elaborate monument is to be placed over the grave, and a "cairn" on one of the adjacent hills.

The States of Illinois and Wisconsin have been visited by a terribly destructive cyclone, which has wiped out hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of property and destroyed scores of lives. In the former State, so far as known, over sixty persons were killed, while Wisconsin, where a portion of the town of Racine was laid in ruins, has a somewhat similar showing.

James Carey, concerned in the Phoenix Park assassination, and who turned informer, was on Saturday released from custody. Carey declares his intention to remain in Dublin, and he will prosecute the tenants occupying his house, who refused to pay rents since he became an informer. Ever since Carey turned all informer his house has been guarded by the policemen, and to-day the guard was doubled.

A serious accusation has just come to light against certain Buffalo police officers. If the story be true, an old soldier was wrongfully taken into custody, and while in police station No 1 was robbed of his money by somebody connected with the station. Owen Pheeny, the man who claims to have been victimized, has made an affidavit detailing the circumstances, and the police commissioners are investigating.

Some years ago Walter A. Smith, manager of the Merchants' at Sarnia, absconded with $2,000, which the Citizens' Guarantee company had to pay. The defaulter settled in Nebraska and prospered there. He died two years ago, leaving considerable wealth behind, which the Guarantee company has made a claim on, and is now suing for in the American courts. A commission to take the evidence was held in Montreal last week.

A bridal night experience almost surpassing in tragic horror that of the bride of Lammermoor, which Scott said was "an over true tale," is reported from Rio Grande del Sur, near the Uruguay frontier. A young farmer's marriage was postponed on account of his being bitten by a dog. The wound was cauterized and all went well. Three months later doctors declared all danger over. The marriage took place. A supper followed, and at supper the bridegroom was noticed to fall into a gloomy abstraction. After supper came dancing, and when the ball was at its height the bride and bridegroom withdrew. About an hour later piercing screams came from the bridal chamber. The door was burst open. On the floor lay the bride, still alive, but torn as though by some wild beast. The bridegroom, covered with blood, and foaming at the mouth, cowered in a corner, but in a moment sprang upon one of the men, when a brother of the bride sent a bullet through his brain.

Among the facts bearing on the excellence of the North-west as a farming country which are attested by the settlers whose evidence has appeared in the Winnipeg Sun, there are two which are worthy of being particularly noted. One is the large average yield of crops reported. There are but few cases in which less than 25 bushels of wheat to the acre have been obtained, while the majority range from 30 to 40. In Ontario the average yield is only sixteen bushels to the acre. Oats, barley and roots crops, especially potatoes, are in excess of the average yield in the east, in about the same proportion. When to this is added another fact which is conspicuous in these reports, namely, the ease with which these large returns are secured, it will be seen how great are the advantages which this country offers to the enterprising and industrious farmer. The land is ready for the plough. There is no preliminary and toilsome process of clearing required. Even the loss of a season in breaking is not necessary, since yields above the average of those now got in the Eastern provinces are to be had on the first turning of the prairie sod.

On 24th May, Piano Charley, the famous burglar, was released from Kingston penitentiary. He is well known in Toronto, and his career need not be repeated in detail. He claims to have suffered his last imprisonment undeserving, his offence lying in the fact that he was found in the company of the real culprit, Durand, who stole the locket and chain. He admitted to one here that he had been a participant in the robbery of the Boylston Bank, Boston, of $500,000; that he had a saloon in Paris, and spent $400,000 in fitting it up. He has travelled extensively in Europe and squandered thousands of dollars of his ill-gotten gains. He showed a great wallet of money, but said nothing about where it came from. He alleged that his wife was worth $500,000, and that ashamed of him and his misconduct she was desirous of securing a divorce, and had even visited him in the penitentiary to that end. Charley did not wish his release to be known, as he wanted to get out of the country. He showed as he spoke tickets for his passage to England. He cannot live in Canada happily, he cannot go to the United States, and so he hopes to end his days in Europe.

The following is going the rounds of the press, and we quote it here because we know of no place to which it will apply with more force than to Lindsay: "It is a well established principle that the people make the place, not its facilities for business. It is true that an energetic and prosperous people may be kept down by a lack of natural advantages, but this is not often the case. A thousand towns are kept in check by the greed and lack of public spirit of the people, where one is kept down by the location. Push and energy overcome all obstacles; greed and want of energy will kill the most promising locality. So our town is to be just what we, its citizens, make it. If its land owners hold its lots so high that manufacturers are kept out, this will set as a weight to keep it down. If the citizens prefer to patronize the merchants and mechanics of other places that helps to keep the place down. What is wanted is for the people to be united as far as public good is concerned. Patronize each other, as far as possible any new enterprise, especially manufacturers, give a warm greeting to every new settler, and give aid so far as may be to anything that shall tend to the public good. This policy is pursued, our town will rapidly grow, and become a prosperous and thrifty city. If, on the contrary, the citizens refuse aid to every new enterprise, unless they are to get a big slice of the profits, look upon every new arrival as a pigeon to be plucked, and patronize their neighbors only when they cannot do as well or better elsewhere than our town will grow slowly if at all. Our natural advantages will go to waste and count as nothing in the question of prosperity."

Discussing the License Act, the Galt Review says:—So far as the debate in committee of the House of Commons has gone, it is evident its tone is stern and firm, and that the Act to be passed will leave but little loophole for the offences now people complain of under the administration of the Crooks Act. There is scope for great and good work under this Act and every lover of this country will pray that when it passes the House and becomes the law of the land, under its provisions we may never see the evils we have seen under the mal-administration of the Crooks Act in Ontario.

Stratford's Mayor and Council are at loggerheads, and on Monday night the town council dispensed with the clerk and asked the Mayor to resign. The Mayor refused, and on his taking his seat the members arose in a body and left the chamber. This action is in consequence of the late episode in which the Mayor and city clerk were involved. The action of the council is freely commented upon and the town is in a ferment. There is no doubt that if the mayor persists in keeping his seat the council will resign or refuse to act until the law declares the seat vacant.

THE GREAT CURE FOR RHEUMATISM

And all complaints of a Rheumatic nature. RHEUMATISM is not a sovereign remedy for all the ills that flesh is heir to," but for NEURALGIA, SCIATICA, RHEUMATISM, and complaints of Rheumatic nature.

IT IS A SURE CURE From Mr. N. H. Pawling, one of the largest Fruit Growers in the Co. of Lincoln.

Dear Sir, I am much pleased to be able to inform you of the marked improvement in the condition of my wife since she has used the "Rheumatism."

For upwards of four years she has been unable to leave her chair without assistance; the greater part of the time her hands, feet and limbs have been much distorted and almost powerless, while her sufferings from pain have been constant, frequently excruciating.

Four bottles of your preparation have driven away her pain, restored sleep, and by reducing the swelling about her joints, have so much improved the action of her joints that she can now feed herself at the table, and be carried from room to room without suffering pain. The benefit to her has been wonderful, and should it cease now I should still feel that a great obligation rests upon us for your kindness in bringing this relief within our reach. I hope, however, to find even greater results from the use of the remedy. Yours truly, N. H. PAWLING.
