NOVEL AND IMPORTANT

Sale of Land & Territorial Rights

I will offer for sale, by Public Auction, on the GROUND, on

Wednesday, 4th July next,

at 8 o'clock p. m. sharp, the Four remaining Unsold Building Lots on South Side of King St., opposite the Queen's Hotel, Lindsay.

Also immediately after the sale will be exhibited Grady's Novel & Patented Combined Sewing, Needle & Holder, full size, and in operation. This new implement performs the three operations at once, it is light of draught, comprehensive, inexpensive, does the work well, sews all kinds of grain, seeds and dust mowers in detail or broadest (it is a new force screw, and adapts itself to all irregularities of surface). This novel invention is different throughout to any of the separate articles in use. Its cheapness, its utility and the saving of two-thirds labor will necessarily make it universally used. The Territorial Rights to manufacture and vend in this and a few of the adjoining counties, east, west and southward, will also be offered for sale by auction.

TERMS:—For the lots One-Half Down, and the balance in one year; for the Patent Rights, Ten Per Cent. Down, and the balance in two equal annual instalments. Interest in both cases Per Cent. Manufacturers and farmers invited to attend. R. LANG, Prop. W. L. RUSSELL, Auctioneer.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

T. BEALL, LINDSAY, Agent for County of Victoria.

W. H. GROSS, DENTIST, Nearly 23 years experience.

ENGLISH BLACK RUBBER PLATES.

During his dental practice of nearly twenty-three years, Mr. Gross' experience with the different materials used for dental plates, has been extensive and varied, embracing every article of the kind, and he has been able to select the best, silver and platinum were about the only bases used for artificial teeth. Shortly after the above date however, he was brought to the notice of the dental profession in the United States, but its application to dentistry being a patent, and owned by the Goodrich Rubber Plate Company, of Boston, who demanded from each dentist an annual tax varying in amount from $50 to $500 for the privilege of using it, the matter did not interest him in general use. With a view of producing a substitute for rubber many experiments were made, and in due time a number of compounds, more or less metallic, and some said to contain gold, appeared in the market. These new candidates for preference in the dental laboratory were successively tried, but the demand, and they were in turn condemned as totally unfit to be worn in the mouth. Settlements were now made with the Goodrich Rubber Plate Company on the best terms possible, and a large majority of dentists commenced the use of rubber. There are two kinds of rubber, the black and the red, viz. Black and red. The black is seventy-five per cent of pure rubber, and twenty-five per cent of sulphur; the sulphur being added to cause the mass to be firm and elastic. The red is fifty per cent of rubber and twenty-five per cent of the sulphur of mercury (vermillion) and some of the other ingredients. The red is not in doubt as to which of the two varieties of rubber to choose. At an early day in its history the Goodrich Rubber Plate Company was a subject of debate at meetings in dental societies everywhere, and the conclusions then reached were such as to cause a great many dentists to desert the use of rubber. It was not only annoyed but actually tortured by the use of red rubber, which they were still using with the greatest satisfaction, both to themselves and their patients. It was found that the use of red rubber, in fact, and therefore cannot produce congestion, or any other disease of the mucous membrane of the mouth. That hot, feverish condition of the mouth, which is frequently observed in the use of red rubber, is caused by some impurities in the rubber, and some of the other ingredients. The use of red rubber probably in all metallic compounds and alloys, are the active agents in producing such unpleasant feelings in the mouth. Mr. Gross is a conscientious man, and he is determined to improve to the contrary of this. Occasionally a person is met with who cannot wear a pure gold plate on account of the fact that the gold plates are worn with the slightest trouble. Unfortunately for dentistry there are too many "imitations" of the pure gold, and the use of these base metal handkerchiefs after everything that is pure, regardless of its merits. A lump of called a "gold alloy plate" is used in the mouth, which is not only annoying but actually tortures by the use of red rubber, which they were still using with the greatest satisfaction, both to themselves and their patients. Occasionally a person is met with who cannot wear a pure gold plate on account of the fact that the gold plates are worn with the slightest trouble. Unfortunately for dentistry there are too many "imitations" of the pure gold, and the use of these base metal handkerchiefs after everything that is pure, regardless of its merits. A lump of called a "gold alloy plate" is used in the mouth, which is not only annoying but actually tortures by the use of red rubber, which they were still using with the greatest satisfaction, both to themselves and their patients. It was found that the use of red rubber, in fact, and therefore cannot produce congestion, or any other disease of the mucous membrane of the mouth. That hot, feverish condition of the mouth, which is frequently observed in the use of red rubber, is caused by some impurities in the rubber, and some of the other ingredients. The use of red rubber probably in all metallic compounds and alloys, are the active agents in producing such unpleasant feelings in the mouth. Mr. Gross is a conscientious man, and he is determined to improve to the contrary of this.
