The Bobcaygeon Independent goes out of its way to have a fling at Lindsay as follows:—"The Central show in Lindsay brought together a considerable number of people. As an advertising exhibition by the local tradesmen the show was goed. As an agricultural show it was a miserable failure. The inside department could have been beaten outright by any village show, and in the outside department if Mr. Boyd's exhibit from his Big Island stock farm and Mr. John Junkin's team of horses had been taken away there would have been little or nothing left."

If eur contemporary cannot say arrything in favor of the Lindsay central, it would be more to its credit at all events to hide its petty jealousy and untruthful remarks.
