"Manna, or the Fisherman's daughter," by Mr. Wm. McDonnell, of Lindeny, was on the boards in Toronto last week. Like all new plays it has had its difficulties, but the musical critics of Toronto and elsewhere appear to think in the hands of a good company it would take very well.

FIFTEEN BIETHDAYS LOST.-The Guide e -"A man came into this office on nday and informed us that there were Monday and informed us that there were fifteen birthdays due him on the 29th inst. On enquiry we learned that he is sixty years of age on that day, and as he was born in leap year, he consequently is licking the above number of birthdays to complete the count. How is he going to catch up?" This is just the way in Port Hope; they are always losing time one way or another.

way or another. A YOUNG man named Hartwick, son of the well-known John, made himself slightly more emphatic than there was occasion for in conversing with a friend Saturday afternoon, so attracted the attention of chief constable Boll, who "reasoned" with him and took him where he had an opportunity to quiet down. We are sorry for the young man, as for some months he had been doing much better and had conducted himself very well. Whiskey of course was the cause and when that goes n men's brains generally go out on a CHALLENGE ACCEPTED. In reference CHALLENGE ACCEPTED.—In reference to the challenge of Mr. Carlin issued through our contemporary last week, Mr. Neddo writes us as follows: Mr. M. Carlin—Sin,—Your challenge I will accept, The Marquis of Queensbury rules will suit me. I will fight you with the hard gloves or hard knuckles for one hundred dollars on March 1st, 1884, or otherwise I will fight you on the rule of what is called whatever way you can what is called whatever way you can catchest by each one paying a fine. Yours respectfully, Hr NEDDO-

On Tuesday at Whitby a sad accident occurred. Mr. J. P. Beall, a commercial traveller of Montreal, and widely known in this section, jumped from the train and received fatal internal injuries. Some of the officials seeing him jump, stopped the train, and furnished Pullman bedding, etc., for his conveyance to the town, to his sister Mrs. Capt. J. H. Way's residence. He died at seven o'clock the same graning. He had been on the road seven. evening. He had been on the road sevenfeen years and was one of the most popular travellers on the road, Mr. Geo. heall, jeweler, here, was related to him and left Wednesday to attend the funeral.

CHUNCH OF ENGLAND CONCERT.—The concert in aid of Mrs. Hudspeth's sewing class by the members and friends of St. Paul's church came off Tuesday evening, and in spite of the stormy night—it was the worst flats winter—the attendance was as large as the hall could conveniently hold. The star of the evening was of course Mrs. Macdongall, of Montreal, and who has certainly made herself a great favorite in Lindsay. Messrs. Bate and Lorriman played some excellent cornet Lorriman played some excellent cornet ducts and the selections from the Pirates of Pensance by the Harns orchestra were much admired. Next to Mrs. Macdongall however came Miss Gallon and Mr. Mac-Gachen, who sang a very pretty duett en-titled, "The suller sighs," Miss Leary ing or two before and so great was the crowd that many are said to have been unable to gain admirtance. As it was an old Jewish cantata illustrative of the least of tabernacies and specially appropriate it was therefore resolved to introduce it into the Methodist service on Sunday evening as a "service of song." The effect was pleasing; it besides gave a better insight into the character and true meaning of the cantata, Mr. Emsley preaching from and making plain each portion, and apparently giving the key cote to each part. The same ladies and gentlemen who took part in the operations also song on this occasion, the effect being even better than on the form-

THE WARDENSHIP, -The election protest over the wardenship of this county came up for trial before indge Dean on Menday, and resulted in the unseating of Mr. Smithson, owing to insufficient qualithe many promises made if he count ence at his hands upon them. The boys, beserver, knew enough to keep at a respectful distance during the making of the speeches and cheered lustily at the cheered fustily quality without the slightest trouble and will take steps at once to do so according to the letter of the law. He will there-fore be a candidate again for the deputy-recreship of Fenelon, and it is to be hoped will be permitted to take the seat by acchanacion. It is a great mistake on the part of any retepayer to put his municipality to the expense of needless elec-fions merely to gratify personal grisvances, and we trust the electors of Fencion will show their disapproval of such doings by returning Mr Smithson by acclamation, thus saving the fownship the expense of an election and the county the measuity of again calling the council together again merely to elect a warden.
