We don't ask you to take a few months' experience as a guarantee. We point to the MANY YEARS these watches have been before the public, to the high favor in which they are held wherever used and known.

About Agencies.

We are not sole agents for any line of goods. Sole Agency" is another name for "Monopoly." We want no monopoly. We can meet all comers on fair grounds and hold our own Why don't the "Old Redealers? Because dealers know the value of the goods so well they will have them whether their neighbors have them or not. No need to offer a monopoly as an inducement.

As to Guarantees.

Whose warrant do you want when you buy a watch, that of the party from whom you buy, who is right where you can find him if need be, or that of some one in Texas, or some other place out of town.

Zacts are Stubborn

We are selling the sole agency goods at lower prices than the sole agents themselves.

We sell other and better goods at prices that defy competition. Hence the necessity of a monopoly.

Brices.

We don't promise you 101 cents for $1, but we give you better value for your money than you can get elsewhere.

Will there be any difference in the profit of your farming for each of 2 years if in one case you pay rent and taxes and hire half or more of the work done, buy fuel, &c., and in the other case pay none of these ex-

Mr. Geo. Crandell, rising then, with all the aldermanic dignity and corporation he could muster, began with up-lifted right hand towards heaven to shase roundly the two Lindsay newspapers for daring to put in such tenders for printing as the clerk had requested. He considered the newspapers is this town nothing but a "band of pick-peckets."

Mr. Crandell—But I will do se. I am on my feet and therefore can say what I like. I say they are pick-pockets, and are robbing the poor ratepayers of this town who are kept with their noses to the grind-stone trying to get enough money to satisfy their "insuchable" appetites. I teil you, Mr. Chairman, they are pickpockets, and "don't you forget it."

He did not believe in the rubbish Mr. Crandell was saying, and when he was so troubled lest the printers should make a cent or that their tenders would be fair rates he should have obtained tenders from Fencion Falls or Omemee or wherever he wanted, so that they could be received and laid on the table with these. To howl round the board in this manner after receiving the tenders was not a very statesmanlike proceeding, and did not add to the dignity of Mr. Cran-dell in any way.

Mr. Mallon (who by-the-way was dently too ill to venture out with safety on so cold a night) said he could not see what there was so much discussion over. The printing offices had been asked for tenders and they had given them, and it was their duty to accept the lowest, all things being equal. If they did not want tenders they should not have asked for them. To say that some of the printing could be done in Omemee or some other place cheaper than in Lindsay was all noncense, unless perhaps it was Jimmy Allen's Salvation Army songs, that the printing offices here would not print for him under any circumstances.

Mr. Fee—That is easily answered. I want to show Mr. Barr he is not going to run this council nor any other printer.

Mr. Crandell was of the opinion one was as bad as the other, they were both trying to run it. They should not run him, and he would either bring in the Omemee office or do something, and fight them as the Israelites fought the Mr. Connolly again expressed his strong Philicipus. He was not going to see the Omemee office or do semething, and fight them as the Israelites fought the Philistines. He was not going to see the ratepayers of this town ground down to the dust if he knew it till they had not a penny left to rub one against another.

Mr. McTavish also expressed his strong disapproval of deputations, and had no faith in any good they might accomplish. Mr. McTavish also expressed his views on the question. He had little faith in penny left to rub one against another.
No, sir (and here he swelled visibly) he would make them "discorge"; he would bring down upon their heads the wrath of the whole town of Lindsay and then venture out with his little hatchet and like David of old slay the giants in the hall way, and "don't you forget it." (Laughter and load, applaase.)

Cries of "motion," "motion," brought the council back to business again. Mr. Crandell's amendment to the amendment was lest, only himself being found equal to it. Mr. Fee's amendment was next voted down, and the motion of Mr. Connelly, giving the printing to the furthern gentlement of the motion of Mr. Connelly, giving the printing to the lowest to make the motion of Mr. Connelly, giving the printing to the lowest them here and them have been very flattering to the firemen, they demand reduced to "demand reduced to "dem

Mr. Crandell, for the chairman of the finance committee, who was then in the chair, presented the finance report. In addition to the accounts passed the report recommended that tenders be received for the burial of strangers and others, the price to include the digging of the graves. comething could not be done with the town bell so as to make it ring easier. When a fire occurred it was for some reason very difficult to ring.

Mr. Crandell informed the council he intended putting up a fire alarm bell in a more central spot so that trouble would be remedied. He also spoke as though he intended to build a new hose house for the drying of hose some where near Britton's corner on Kent street, but did not give a very clear idea when it was to be done or how till the council had first received his report as to the cost of the improvements he proposed. RAILWAY DEPUTATION. Mr. Crandell, as a deputation of one sent into the northern municipalities last week, reported that he had fulfilled his mission and believed he had done so satis-factorily. He had first had printed some and some of our oldest citizens had a memorials setting forth the grievances to be remedied. He met the council of Fenelon Falls on Thursday afternoon, and received a promise of a deputation to accompany them to Toronto. He next proceeded to Verulam and met Mr. Fairbairn. He did not meet Mr. Fell, of Somerville, but left the memorial with his clerk, which he said was the same and some conclusion, moved, seconded by Mr. Mallon, that the tender of the Post being the lowest, be accepted.

to that having to be done in every case, Mr. McTavish said there were some in Lindsay like every where she who would get their medical attendance five if they possibly could, yet who were well able to pay for it. In order to guard against this and protect the town physician from being imposed upon he believed it would be much better to require an order from them from the mayor, reeve or some responsible municipal efficer. He know enough of Dr. Merriman, who would likely receive this tender, to know that in a case of life and death as Mr. Bryans referred to he would go whether with an order or not. The council then adjourned.

It now becomes our sad duty to chronicle the death of Mrs. Angus Fraser of this village, which took place on Saturday, February 23rd, at the early age of 29 years. She had been ailing with consumption for about a year and bore her suffering with a christian fortitude. Her remains were followed on Tuesday, Feb. 26th, by a large concourse of sorrowing friends and acquaintances to the R. C. burying ground at Victoria Road. An affectionate husband and a little daughter

Armstrong and Wm. Cameron, J. P's. on HEAVY LOSS .-- Mr. Finlay McRae, of this village, lost a valuable team of horses a few nights ago. In some unaccountable way they were thrown side by side in the stall where they commenced to kick furiously, not stopping till both were dead.

They were horribly mangled, the flesh being torn from their bodies in a frightful way. It is only a short time since the team returned from the shanties. Mr. McRae has the sympathy of the entire neighborhood in his loss. Mr. McTaggart who was removed from here to the Victoria Road station has been removed to Kirkfield where he will remain permanently. Victoria Kond station will consequently be closed.—(Ad-
