Who had the money? (London Free Press)

It is now attempted to be shown that Kirkland had no money, and therefore could not bribe the confidential ecoundrel Mckime the common informer listfore, or the improvious traffer Dowling, But the best evidence shows that he had money from his American correspondents. H. O. Peters wrote Kirkland from Manleter, Miche, to draw on him for $10,000. And it is on second that Kirkland apant large sums of money in buying the voters of Minnesota members, just as he was doing with the Ontario tirit members, until they were found out, and made a virtue of "open confession," Men of the Kirkland stripe, with large timber inlobbying without the wherewithal in ample abundance. That he was in funds on the present operation, and the principal negotiater, appears from the evidence of McKim given in the Terente police court on Friday. He said: in my room. We talked there for some time about his timber policy and I said I would see Mr. Parlee. He said it would be of no use, as Mr. Pardee had got fixed and would not change it. He talked about the manner in which he operated on the other side, and about a sale where there was a number of buyers should be allowed to have any number of sorre from one hundred up if he has the money to pay for them. I said "some thing like myself, men without captial, and he said the money was forthcoming. I said I had had a good deal of running about this husiness with Wilkinson and I said it was worth $2,000, its then "Dr McMichael - Your price was $2,000 and he offered $8,000," From this it seems that Kirkland kidney looked for bribes, but that he was so well supplied that he was ready to give him $1,000 more than he asked for, the leading first organ, in face of this evidence, endeavors to make it appear that it was Wilkinson, and not Kirkland, who had ever the money to the traffers.

THE annual report of the minister of agriculture contains some interesting facts connected with the growth of the Canadian cattle trade. It shows that the exportation of cattle in 1888 was $5,625, being an increase of 20,-247 over the previous year; while sheep numbered 114,862, against an export of 76,905 in 1889, and is a few more years Canada will be one of the most important cattle raising countries in the world-

THE Orillia Packet says :- Although it was the Reform party that benefited by the free railway passes, we are glad to see the Peterboro Examiner express a desire to see the law, as declared by the court of appeal in the East Northumberland and South Victoria cases, amended. It is at present in such a shape that a railway corporation might, without infringing it, virtually control an election in a close constituency through which is passes. Now that it has been shows city had many admirable sites for buildthat a railway may lawfully give free passes to voters, the election law should be so amended as to make the giving of passes per se a corrupt practice. It is useless to say that the giving of a tree pass by a railway is analogous to the gift of a ride to the and whom he had bought up. He said polls by the owner of a carriage. As his policy was as much in favor of the the law at present stands, the cases man with small captiel, as of the lumbers are technically parallel, but prastimen with large capital, and that a man cally they are very different. The owner of a carriage cannot convey many voters in a day, and the owners of carriages on the other side can offset his efforts by their own. But let a failway company throw its carrying capicity gratis on one side of the other, and it becomes, for all practical purposes, master of the situation. It is not safe to leave any such power in the hands of a powerful corporation, and we hope that Mr. Mowat will see was not only a moneyed man, and the that, by his new bill, the law is one to whom Mckim and those of his amended in this as well as in other PETERBORO Review : - We have heard it remarked that Mr. Mowat and his colleagues should not have inte pounded the $1,000 for which Mr. McKim sold his vote and influence as a member, and should not have interfered to keep it from some of Mr. Me-Kim's defrauded creditors, who had garnisheed it.
