Railway Notes.
A new time card takes effect on the Midland Monday next. The change at this end is immaterial.

Two freight trains collided on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk railway on Tuesday afternoon near Brochis. The damaged cars, we understand, are being repaired.

An inspection was made last week of the line of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway by officials of the road. The party consisted of Messrs E. P. Hannaford, chief engineer of the Grand Trunk; A. White, district traffic manager, J. G. Macklin, division engineer; W. B. Ferguson, division superintendent; R. Tivy, bridge inspector, and J. A. Chesser, road master. They went north to Midland on Wednesday, to Halliburton on Thursday, returning by way of Omamee over the Missing Link. This line will be again opened on Monday next.

A Pounding Item.
There is trouble over in the east ward, as there always has been and always will be apparently. It appears the cow law is not enforced in its entirety in the east ward, and on Sunday night a bold effort was made to convince the wicked people in that quarter that the majesty of the law could not be set at defiance. The effort was made, but in the appearance of a prominent member of the ward and the question was evidently a pounding of ribs and bones rather than the pounding of coars. Reports say that a lad named Caesar, a son of old Cesar, was driving a noble cow to pound when suddenly a cry of defiance was heard. The councillor aforesaid was sitting on the stoop enjoying the balmy breeze of the quiet night air when the awful sound was heard, and off he rushed to the rescue. He quickly came upon a boy and some cows in the way of the pound, but the "house stood in the way" in the shape of Paddy Bal, Henry O'Leary, Mick Carlin and others. This was an insult to the cow by-law that no representative of the town could stand, especially a representative of that noble ward, and he expostulated without delay. But he came out of the hands of the Philistines like the man of old on the road to Jericho, grievously wounded and beaten with many stripes. The good Samaritan not happening along however he finally made his way home, and will in due time seek stern justice in the police court. Two or three arrests have so far been made; but the cows have gone free.

Since the above was put in type we learn the gentleman mentioned above in a more serious condition than was supposed, some ribs being broken and several contusions on the head and body. Paddy Bal has been arrested and is now held in custody, while Henry O'Leary is out on bail. Carlin is being looked for but is supposed to have left town.

Y. M. C. Association.
This association met on Thursday evening, Mr. D. J. McIntyre, M.P.P., in the chair. The first on the programme was a reading by Mr. Campbell, entitled, "The enchanted lake." To say that Mr. Campbell enchanted the audience would be to half the mystic spell he wrought. The sweet cadence and rich eloquence of his delivery commingled and colored by so much genuine feeling made one think he narrated the scenes of enchantment of his own boyhood, and although he credited his poem to some ancient bard it was more probably the effusion of Mr. Campbell's own soul. The debate was impromptu, and the boys thought at the moment was near over and all the important political subjects concerning the Brits in general and a few others had been settled, and further that Mr. McIntyre's course hereafter had not been so creditable as it might have been and that it was advisable to send him down to the next session with his opinions a little corrected, it would be better to take a wider range of thought for his particular benefit. In view of this Mr. McIntyre was permitted to name whatever question he desired information upon and then and there it should be given him and his doubts and misgivings set at rest for the future. But Mr. McIntyre, with a most surprising disregard for the knowledge he stood upon in need of, declined to offer any subject for discussion, but the boys thought he was putting himself in his parliamentary career, and hence will again go to the legislative hall unadvised and uncorrected, and again the country may be pained by another of his imbecilities. Also, that he should refuse needed instruction so kindly offered! The subject, "Resolved, that the mercantile and industrial pursuits offer greater prizes to talent and industry than the learned professions" was next taken up. The "talent" of the debaters was unquestioned, but the character of the subject was a thorough surprise, and although Messrs. Stewart, Campbell, Dunn, Dixon and others essayed the task there was so little life in the discourse that the wisest would not carry it, and leaves a much to be regretted blank in our report. We heard the chairman's decision, however; it was negative. The speaker left the chair and the house adjourned.

The base ball match between Lindsay and Peterboro yesterday afternoon resulted in a victory for Lindsay by a score of 12 to 27 with an attendance of 300.
The Lindsay fire company reports a pleasant time in Uxbridge on Thursday last as the tournament was only a partial success. They were awarded first prize for neatness in dress and general appearance.
The county court and quarterly sessions are in progress, but our report is unavoidably held over till next issue. It is the busiest court for some time, both in civil and criminal cases, and gives Judge Dean all he can do for some days. The list of cases will appear next week.

Mr. Jno. Robinson, of Ops, has a foal got by Lofly the Third which will be hard to beat. It is only six weeks old, stands four feet four inches, has four feet girth, is eighteen inches round the arm and eight inches below the knee. Considering his age this is a very fair sized foal.
The committee on discipline of the Benchers' Society who have been hearing the complaint of Mr. Macdonnell against S. H. Blake, Q. C. in Toronto, reported they unanimously and the complaint in question is utterly groundless and no case of professional or other misconduct has been made out against Mr. Blake. Mr. Hudspeck, Q. C. of this town, was one of the judges in the case.

A few days ago a country woman called into a grocery store and begged a clay pipe for as she said "she hadn't had a smoke to-day and was near dead for one." She got it and a pipeful of tobacco as well; but in seating herself for a comfortable smoke she in some way raised the cloth over a fair sized basket, she carried disclosing a good sized basketful of clay pipes. "What's all this, what have you there," cried the merchant. Without a word and quick as thought almost the woman disappeared out of the door with a word to her grocery merchant should be on the look out for such an enormous consumer of pipes.
A meeting of the executive committee of the Canadian press association was held in the Times office, Port Hope, last week, when Mr. Geo. Dew, Canadian agent of the Northern Pacific Railway, was present, for the purpose of exchanging information in regard to the attractions of that line, over which it is proposed to hold the annual excursion of the association this summer. The subject was fully discussed, and the committee will report to the executive at a meeting to be held in Toronto shortly. The excursion, at present, is likely to be to Saravia by the G. T. R., thence to Duluth by steamer, taking the N. P. railway for the special train from that point in a special pullman car chartered for the occasion.
An interesting chess case was tried last week at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, before Justice Frowdfoot. The plaintiffs are the Synod of Niagara, who was suing the Synod of Toronto to compel payment to them of such part of the Episcopal endowment fund as was collected within the bounds of the present diocese of Niagara. The fund was collected when the diocese were one, and since the separation Niagara has not received its share of the spoil. The bishop of Toronto, the bishop of Niagara, Dr. Hodgins and other well-known gentlemen were examined. The defendants claim that there is no fund from which the money can be paid. Judgment was granted for a reference to the master to ascertain whether there is any fund, and if so to fix the amount of the plaintiff's claim. Further directions will be made when that has been done.

It is said two law students during the visit of Principal Grant recently became a little smart, so smart in fact that they almost astonished themselves. One afternoon as they were strolling round the railway station a quiet, easy going gentleman accosted them and asked the direction to the residence of a recently retired dry goods merchant. The young men with the customary discernment of embryo lawyers quickly took his measure to use a common phrase and put him down as an easy going drummer and thought to "stun" him accordingly. They informed him the gentleman in question was still in town and thought if he hurried up he could get his money out of him; but he must be quick. The good man seeing what they were up to quietly led the law students on and after he had got all the information regarding the dry goods man called about one of our leading shoe merchants, who had some years before come from Kingston, where he also came from. This gentleman they told him was away getting married; he was doing a good trade but was a little wild, so much so that it was a good thing he was getting married. The town where he had lived, Kingston, was a bad place they thought at all events and doubly so at college, where he had been. It was a customary thing for all young men from that college to be so, in fact they said Principal Grant was much that way himself and it could not be expected the students would be any better. The supposed drummer agreed with them and much deplored such a state of things and moved on. But imagine the feelings of these two young men when they the next day met Principal Grant in the person they had said so much to the day before. They also go on the opposite side of the road when they have occasion to pass the shoe store of the merchant from Kingston who was so recently married, and it was a good thing to be more careful in their remarks in future.

Demolishing Sale.

Mr. MacFarlane, the purchaser of Keighley's choice stock of crockery and glassware, announces in our columns a big demolishing and give away sale. We can assure our readers that Mr. MacFarlane has no intention of running in Lindsay a day longer than he can help it. As soon as he sells this stock he closes up here. Do not miss to get your crockery and glass and big presents at the monarch of low prices, who rules the roost at Keighley's old stand.—21-1.
Fire Alarm.
Shortly after seven o'clock the fire alarm sounded and the brigade rushed for Robson's tannery, only to find nothing wrong. The man in charge either did not know how or had forgotten to turn off a steam pipe leading into a vat which was permitted to run off, filling the place with steam and hurriedly taken for smoke by those who gave the alarm. When the engine arrived Mr. Robson had returned from the tannery and was quietly refilling the vat. The brigade returned home quietly.
Personal.
Mr. T. E. McQuade, of Emily, who has been visiting Manitoba and the N. W. Ter., returned home last week. Some parts of the country he likes very well, but there are others in which he would not live.

Mr. W. E. Tilley has received the appointment of inspector of schools for Durham. He enters on his duties at the beginning of the month. His many friends in Lindsay will be pleased to hear of his good fortune. Mr. Tilley has been teaching for many years and is well qualified for the position.
How Murdered.
On Saturday night a young lad named Caesar living in the east ward started out shot gun in hand and merrily in his hand to put a sudden and untimely end to a number of hens kept by a Mrs. Southern, a near neighbor. The domicile of the hens was visited and he began to bias to try how many he killed at each shot our reporter did not count in both cases. There was a great row, however, not only the hens but with the owner and a number of neighbors who were hastily roused by the battle cries of the various participants. A prominent representative of the east ward in the crowd, was finally captured by one or two neighbors and peace restored, the boy with the shot gun retreating in good order. What was the cause of the midnight attack and the attempted murder of all the old hens we did not learn, but in all probability the police court will in time unravel the mystery. However, nothing can beat our east ward for gore.

Local Celebrations.
The Port Hope Times has the following to say regarding celebrations such as we had on the 24th May: Peterboro' and Lindsay celebrated the Queen's Birthday by grand demonstrations, the details of which only inspired disgust in both cases. Professional athletes were allowed to run the show, which they did to their own satisfaction, but every one else felt sold. The citizens and local committees worked in good faith to provide a programme that would be amusing and entertaining to the large number of strangers who went a long distance to spend their holiday in the town, but the rowdy element prevailed, and a lot of raffishly bullies grabbed the prizes and terrorized respectable people out of the faintest particle of enjoyment. The mistake made in allowing these "professional" athletes to have any part in the proceedings. It was no doubt thought to be a "big thing" to secure a "grand aggregation," as the circus bills say, of prize fighters, wrestlers, etc., or the Peterboro' committee would not have gone to the expense of having a portion of their poster printed in the Gazette office, New York, but the actual execution of having such people in the town at all was very different than was expected, and has likely satisfied Peterboro's ambition in the fatcuff line for some time to come. Lindsay's experience with the bruisers was equally unpleasant, and the mayor has refused to pay over to the sports committee the sum of $100 voted by the council towards the day's celebration, alleging that the programme had not been carried out as advertised. The reason, it is to be hoped, will not be lost on other towns, and that the gentry who raided Peterboro and Lindsay will give a wide berth in the future. We think in all our local celebrations the programme should be so arranged as to exclude professionals. These demonstrations are got up for the purpose of affording amusement to our own people, and it is poor satisfaction to see all the prizes gobble'd up by a lot of roughs.

Lindsay Presbytery.
The presbytery of Lindsay met at Beaverton on the 27th May. Rev. A. Currie, M. A., moderator, eight members and eight elders present. According to extract minutes of synod it was moved by Mr. Ross, seconded by Mr. McLachlin, and agreed that the congregation of Mount Albert be under the care of this presbytery and united to St. Andrew's church, Scott and Uxbridge; that the Rev. D. E. Chubb be moderator of the united charge and his name entered on the roll of this presbytery. An extract minute was read from Owen Sound presbytery stating that Rev. A. Stevenson had accepted the call from Sunderland and Vromanton and that he was translated to Lindsay presbytery. It was moved by Mr. Cockburn, seconded by Mr. Mathis, and agreed that the induction take place at Sunderland on Tuesday, 24th June. A call was laid out on the table from St. Andrew's church, Lindsay, addressed to Mr. Daniel McFarlane, M. A. Mr. Lochhead's conduct as moderator in the call was approved and the call sustained. Mr. McLennan and Mr. McNeillie were heard as commissioners from the congregation. The call was put into the hands of Mr. McFarlane, who accepted said call, and the call was appointed for Tuesday, 17th June, at half past two, afternoon, the presbytery to meet at eleven a. m. Mr. Peter Thomson, Uxbridge, was appointed commissioner to the general assembly in room of Mr. T. H. Glenisning, resigned. Rev. D. McDonald, Glenora, was appointed moderator of the session of Kirkland and Victoria. The following arbitrary minutes were ordered to be engraved: "It is with deep sorrow that the presbytery would record the death of the Rev. James T. Paul, minister of St. Andrew's church, Bolsover. His meek and amiable disposition secured him the friendship and good will of all with whom he came into contact. Mr. Paul was a man of great simplicity of character, unmistakably manifesting that the things which are true, honest, just, pure, lovely and of good report were ever present to his mind. He was an acceptable preacher, well furnished with sound doctrine and fluency of speech—an untiring missionary to our back fields, when advanced age might well be pleaded as an excuse. After a painful and somewhat lingering illness he died peacefully at his home in Bolsover on the 8th March last. His family have the sympathy of all the members of this court in their sad bereavement." The next regular meeting of presbytery to be held at Woolville on the last Tuesday of August at eleven a. m. The presbytery adjourned to meet at Lindsay, 17th June, at 11 a. m. James K. Scott, presbytery clerk.
