Complaints come from various counties of central Pennsylvania that crows are unusually numerous and troublesome this year.

A Stephenstown (N. Y.) justice recently married a couple whose ages were 14 and 11 years. The action has caused much comment at that place.

Cashiers in China are not paid salaries. They depend for their remuneration on buying imperfect coins and passing them off on their customers.

Judge Parker of the United States District Court of Arkansas, enjoys the distinction of having sentenced more men to be hanged than any other Judge in the country.

Murderers in France are frequently compelled, in addition to death or the galleys, to pay a heavy compensation in money, when they have it, to their victim's family.

The subject of abolishing lotteries is being agitated in Louisiana, but as the managers control the legislature there is little hope that the movement will amount to anything.

Mississippi taxes persons traveling with young trees for setting $5 each county. Nurseries sending trees that do not grow are under bonds to make all losses good.

The Arizona Star declares that by the aid of artesian wells the desert lands of Arizona can be made the most productive wheat-growing districts in the country.

Mr. Larrow, of Lamer, Mo., has a beard that reaches below his knees, and his mustache is twelve inches long. The latter he keeps tied up, and packed away under his collar. Mr. Larrow is entitled to the hairpins.

The somewhat curious fact is being commented upon that the state of Massachusetts has never elected a governor or any during the war of the rebellion.

They do say that this year's graduates at West Point are better waiters than those of some years past. This great improvement in the efficiency of our military colleges is something for the nation to be thankful for.

The greatest run by the steamship Alaska in her quickest trip was 419 miles in 24 hours. This is not equal to what was accomplished before 1850, the clipper-ship James Baines having made 420 miles in 24 hours. The Flying Cloud, Mr. Lloyd's most celebrated ship, once made 374 knots, or 433 miles, in 24 hours and 20 minutes.

Water City, Dakota, has a water supply from a remarkable artesian well, the nature of which seems to deserve close examination by geologists on the spot. When the earth was penetrated 500 feet salt water was obtained. Twenty feet farther down a gravelly stratum was struck, yielding also salt water. After boring down 604 feet fresh water mixed with quack-sand came up. Now, from a depth of 675 feet, there is a flow of pure potable water of steadily increasing quantity.

The Chehalis river, Washington territory, is a magnificent stream of water, one hundred miles in length, and navigable for large steamers for a distance of twenty-five miles eastward from Gray's harbor. Its valley averages two and a half miles in width, and although settled with a class of thrifty, industrious farmers, yet it has been, until quite recently, isolated from commercial intercourse with the outside world. At present there are but two villages and trading posts in the valley.

Rev. Leonard W. Bacon, of Norwich, Conn., was recently sued by some of his neighbors on account of a reservoir on his new farm, which, though surrounded by Mr. Bacon's land, was claimed by others. When he built the reservoir they accused him of stealing their water, and brought suit, attaching nearly everything on his farm. This accused his life, and he showed fight at first, but reflection changed his mind, so that he sent the plaintiffs a few days ago a check for $1,000, the damages claimed. He does not recognize, however that there is any damage.

As a Russian Jewish colony in Louisiana the other day were noticed a yoke of oxen hitched to a plow, a Russian leading each ox, one at each plow-handle, and one with a whip driving, making five men to each team. They don't seem to understand farming intuitively.

They have a way, "down in Old Virginia," of selling tramps to the highest bidder, under a vagrancy law, and then putting them at work on a railroad. By all means let every state pass a vagrancy law and sell the grand army of tramps to railroad and other contractors.

Although the St. Gothard Tunnel has been opened, the hospital kept by the monks on the mountains is not being abandoned. During the coming winter the place will be in operation as heretofore. These monks have done noble service to many a poor traveler in the Alps in late years. During the past year alone their records show that no fewer than 15,780 persons found shelter within their doors; that 88,503 rations were distributed, that 8,956 lodgings were supplied; that 123 persons were attended as patients, and that a large quantity of clothing was given away to needy travelers.

The Game of Rhymes. The game of "Rhymes" is commended by the New York Mail as being very amusing if those who play it exercise ingenuity. One of the company thinks of a word rhyming with another word which he mentions. The aim of the party is to guess what the word thought of can be. The rule is that no one should give a name to what they guess, but describe it instead, and each of the company in turn is entitled to a question. Suppose the word thought of is "flag," rhyming with "rag," then the question would be put as follows: "Is it a necessary part of a bootlace?" "No, it is not a tag." "Is it the name of a horse?" "No, it is not a rag." "Is it the name of a jester?" "No, it is not a wag." "Is it the name of an elegant horned animal?" "No, it is not a stag." "Is it the Stars and Stripes?" "No, it is not a flag." "Is it good to go to the mill with?" "Yes, it is a leg."

The Scene of the Assassination. Phoenix Park, Dublin, is the largest public park in Ireland, and nearly three times as large as the Central Park. It is on the Liffey River, and within its boundaries are the vice-regal lodge of the Lord Lieutenant and the lodges of the Chief Secretary and the Under-Secretary. All official business is transacted at the castle in the city, but the receptions and balls are generally at the lodge. The park is full of walks and drives, lined with bushes and trees, where men could easily conceal themselves and easily escape pursuit. There are large open lawns, one of them called "Fifteen acres," where the Land League has been holding meetings every Sunday. These meetings have been largely attended and very bitter in their nature.

During the Itch. A frightful death occurred lately at the almshouse in Holbeach, Eng. It appears that there had been an outbreak of itch in the house, and an apparatus was devised to disinfect those suffering from the disease. This consists of a large box in which the patient stands with his head out of the top, while sulphur is burnt within. A young man of twenty-two was placed in the box for treatment, but was left in longer than the stipulated time, and it is supposed was forgotten. Cries being heard by a man passing the room, he entered, and at once relieved the patient, who immediately fell in a fit. He was very much charred and burnt, and skin and flesh fell off different parts of his body. He died some hours after. A verdict of manslaughter was returned against the master of the house.

He Unconsciously Spoke the Truth. At the funeral of a certain well-known member of the San Francisco bar the preacher failed to indulge in the usual harmless diversion of eulogizing the dead—only reading the regular burial ritual. The omission was noticed and keenly felt by a friend of the departed. "Poor Bill," said he, as he took his last look at his old chum, his voice trembling with emotion, "you and I have often wandered over the town together. I supposed I would have been called away first; wish I had. It has been longed for otherwise." Then, after looking sternly a moment at the derelict clergyman in the pulpit, he added: "I had thought on this occasion something good would have been said about you, but it has not been done. I would like to say something good about you myself, but—I can't." Then breaking down completely, he was gently removed.—San Francisco Chronicle.

He Spilled the Box Trick. There are several lodgerdomain performers at the various auction shops along Larimer street. The Magic Box trick is a favorite method of entertaining customers and collecting a crowd. A few nights since the auctioneer announced with a wordy flourish of his jaw that he would render the great trick. He got out a number of boxes, filled them with handkerchiefs, and hats and case knives, and allow the audience to look them up. Then taking an empty box he handed it to a tall man, evidently from a southern mining camp, and told him to hold it high over his head.

"Now, gentlemen, I will cause a transformation to take place which demonstrates that the hand is quicker than the eye. I will cause the contents of the locked box to appear in the box now held in the air, and I do it before your eyes."

Just as the crowd began to edge up close to detect the modus operandi of the performer, a small boy at the end of the counter called out in a squeaky voice, "You forgot the socks!" Immediately the performer hauled down some socks and began to retail them to the crowd at three for two bits, after which he pulled some undershirts from the shelves, and offered them at bed-rock figures, while the knowing ones laughed at the poor dupe, who held the box in the air for about fifteen minutes. Presently the nature of the box dawned upon him, and hurrying to the head of the auctioneer, left the place amid a howl from the crowd. "His trick is to see who is the d—est fool in the crowd," said the auctioneer, and the merriment was unbounded.

Last evening the hand-me-down performer attempted to repeat the trick, but with less happy results. After the preliminary oratory he handed the box to a green-looking man near him. As he leaned over, the mineralogical person grabbed him by the collar and yanked him clean over the counter. Getting him over on the floor he steered him all over the place, and played with his head, using it to beat the floor with as if he supposed it was a drum-stick. "How do you like the box trick?" he shouted, as he stood him on his head for the fifth time. The crowd howled with glee, for in the person of the animated old man they recognized the party who had been fooled a few nights before. After pitching his pry in behind some old shirt boxes he strolled out, remarking: "When anybody wants assistance in a box trick, send for Jim Slack, Pueblo. I'm a boxer, myself."—Denver Tribune.

Miners don't rock the cradle; they use the sky rocket.

Two Indiana farmers quarreled about a wrench, and went to law. The costs of court and counsel fees have reached $1,700, both litigants have mortgaged their property to raise the money, and the quarrel is continued.

WOODVILLE. Tax Good Templars of Woodville held a picnic at the grove on Tuesday. On the way home a somewhat serious accident happened to one of the party. A high crossing on Simcoe St. resulted in the throwing out of a young lady and her receiving several severe bruises which rendered the doctor's attendance necessary. This crossing has caused several accidents lately.

An ordination of elders and deacons for this district occurred on Sabbath last. Elders: G. F. Bruce, John Ross, Robert Morrison. Deacons: Dan, McMillan, D. Grant, Hector Logan, Neil Westcott.

ONTARIO COUNTY. ORDINATION.—On Thursday a council of ministers and delegates from several sister churches and the city of Toronto met in the Baptist church at Fort Hope for ordination and ordination of Mr. Geo. Stokes. Rev. Dr. Murdoch, of Fort Hope, presided, and Rev. H. A. McDowell, of Whitevale, acted as clerk. The examination was lengthy, of the most thorough nature and highly satisfactory. The ordination services were as follows:—Mr. A. Chandler, of Goodwood, conducted the preliminary exercises; Rev. Mr. Foster, of Clarendon, preached the ordination sermon from 1st Cor. 14 to 26 inclusive, and the ordination prayer was offered by the Rev. H. Carey. The hand of fellowship was given by Dr. Murdoch; the charge of the candidates by the Rev. Mr. McConnell; and the charge of the church by the Rev. Mr. Anderson, of Lindsay. The interesting and impressive proceedings were brought to a close by the benediction which was pronounced by the candidate.

BONCATOGEON. DIED.—News was received here on Wednesday, of the death of William Montague, in the Kingston penitentiary. He was at one time a resident of Harvey, and latterly of Gilway, and was undergoing a sentence of seven years, for attempting to poison an old couple in Verulam.

HOLIDAY.—The preparations for the Dominion day celebration are progressing favorably and promise well. Whenever Boncatogeon has undertaken to celebrate, it has always done so with marked success. Those now engaged feel that a reputation has to be maintained, and every exertion is being made to insure a big day's sport.

HAY.—All reports of the hay crop are exceedingly unfavorable. The prolonged dry weather has completely stunted the growth. Some say that at the present moment it is not worth cutting, and one gentleman, not by any means given to flights of fancy, said that unless we had rain, the grasshoppers might sit on their haunches and bite of the heads of the grass. This is a serious loss, for it will probably necessitate a great reduction of the herd's cattle trade, and add it is upon the cattle trade that this district most largely depend.

CHEESE.—The factory is progressing well, and has already disposed of ninety boxes of the May make at 9j¢. The cheese market is not lively at present, it has had no time to the price obtained is considered fair. It appears that the public taste is becoming so advanced in the matter of color, that only highly-colored, or white cheese will sell. The old style "straw colored" does not match with ordinary furniture. The Star factory of south Verulam has disposed of 87 boxes, and is turning out a good article. Both lots were purchased by Messrs Dundas & Flavell, of Lindsay.

A GOOD SWIM.—On Monday morning Mr. J. H. Thompson was on his way down the lake in his canoe, and when passing the Big Island Farm, noticed a lot of horses at the water's edge, amongst them a Shetland colt. Mr. Thompson had gone some distance when he chanced to look round and saw the colt swimming well out in the lake. He paddled after him with the intention of returning him back, but the little fellow swam so fast, that when Mr. Thompson caught up to him he was more than half way across the lake and puffing like a tug boat. Gradually his head sank lower, and the puffing became louder, and then Mr. Thompson caught him by the mane and lifted his head on the canoe. After a short rest he struck out again and finally landed at the quarry, having made a swim of a mile and a half.

PRESENTATION.—Last summer a party of gentlemen, chiefly from Toronto, who came here for a few days fishing, received some measures of courtesy from Dr. McCamus. Capt. Bottom, of the Forest house, received notification last week that a party would arrive by the noon boat, on Saturday, and intimated that they would like Dr. McCamus and a few other friends to meet them at dinner. The party organized in Toronto as the Forest Club, and on Saturday, the president, secretary and an executive committee of two turned up smiling at the wharf fully armed with rods, lines, hooks, tomahawks, belt knives, and everything requisite for a properly organized Forest Club. The everything was remarkably good, and finally favored. On the conclusion of dinner, the doctor was completely taken off his feet by the chairman presenting him with a handsome gold headed walking stick, and a beautifully illuminated and framed address, expressing their warm appreciation of his kindly attentions. The address was signed by the president, Mr. J. D. Hunter, the secretary, Mr. Taylor, Messrs. McKay, McCaw and all the members of the club. The doctor expressed his thanks, the chairman touched off a cork that shot into the ear of the second executive, the secretary hung the address on the doctor's breast, the first executive furnished his tomahawk and belt, and "Ere's a jolly good fellow," and the club and friends then adjourned, and set sail for the Doctor's lodge on Pigeon lake.—Independent.

SCROFULA and all scrofulous diseases, Scars, Erysipelas, Eczema, Itches, Blagworms, Tinea, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood. To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases. A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores. "Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The sores were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, MRS. ANN O'BRIAN, 118 Sullivan St., New York, June 21, 1882." All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. White, of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge. The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. Hall, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882: "Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, cures and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality. It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease. PREPARED BY Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass. Sold by all Druggists; price $1, six bottles for $5.
