

YARDS LOW OIL FREEMAN'S WORM POWDERS. Are pleasant to take. Contain their own purgative. Is a safe, sure, and effective destroyer of worms in children & adults.

District News. The work of regulating lake Simcoe is progressing. Three burglaries occurred in Collingwood last week.

Some of our rural exchanges predict a very severe winter. Six car loads of stock were shipped from Boston last week.

There are over 60 appeals from the Gravenhurst voters list for 1884. A Hamilton firm offers to electric light Collingwood for $6,000 a year.

Frank Wood, school principal, Bradford, has accepted the principalship of the Port Hope schools. In the recent Muskoka election contest Mr. McEachern's expenses were $372.21 and Mr. Dill's $312.99.

Mr. Kinney, of Bracebridge, raised 292 bushels of potatoes and 200 head of cabbage on one acre this year. A Connecticut man has married off a Boston girl, who believed in annexation to a United States citizen.

Burglars worked all night and visited several places in Penetang the other night for only fifteen dollars. James Smith was putting up Salvation army stove pipes in Stayner the other day and he fell and broke his ribs.

Geo. Tuck, of Sarnidale, had his barn burned last week. The fire was started by children playing with matches. Ben Townsend has bought the Grey Review from his brother, Joe. Could the Chronicle libel suit have anything to do with it?

Orilla had two burglaries last week. Besides the parson's, L. M. McDonald's fruit stand was robbed of fruit, candies, cigars, etc. A six year old son of James Watson, Orangeville, had the flesh torn completely off one foot while playing round a railway trestle.

The Tottenham S-mint says barley went up four cents per bushel there on the receipt of the news that the Scott Act had been carried. The only thing an Orangeville man won't steal is another man's religion.—Walkerton Herald.

The great reason he don't steal a Walkerton man's religion is because the Walkerton man hasn't got any. Chan, Brazil, while assisting at a threshing machine at Jas. Law's farm near Boston, got his clothing entangled in a coupling, and every shred of it except the boots was torn from his body. He was also injured, but how seriously is not yet known.

Mrs. Madill, who resides near Dunedin, has worked very hard in her lifetime, and by honest efforts had accumulated about $600 from the sale of butter, poultry, etc. The old lady did not believe in banks nor in any of the various methods provided for the investment of money, so she stowed her pile carefully away in a spot known only to herself. Wishing to add to it she paid the hiding place a visit last week, but found that her wealth had melted away, and only fragments of paper were left to show that the mice had destroyed the whole of the money, to build themselves a $600 nest.

and a verdict of not guilty was returned. The 5th of November will be celebrated in Collingwood. Midland will vote on a $5000 fire by-law on the 10th November.

It is thought that Wilfred Kendrick a young man who was found dead in the Queen's Park, Toronto, accidentally shot himself. The Barrie school board have had a stormy time of it over the vexed question of teachers' "permits."

A young man named Egbert V. Fleury was arrested at Markham on Monday on a charge of having administered a drug to a young girl who resides in Woburn, for an unlawful purpose.

The people of Penetanguishene assembled one evening last week to bid good-bye to Rev. Mr. Radcliffe who is returning to the Diocese of Niagara, and who seems to have been very popular.

A young doctor from London eloped with the daughter of a Methodist minister living in Nottawasaga, and went to practice in Stratford, whence he sent a message to the parent suing for forgiveness.

Byng Inlet Mills are closed down for the season and nearly all the residents have left the place. Only one shanty will be in operation this season as compared with twelve last winter, and only one mill will be run next summer.

At a land law reform demonstration in Dingwall lately, Rev. Mr. McTavish, of Inverness, formerly of Beaverton, Ont., demanded the establishment of a peasant proprietary. Rev. James Cumming of Melness, insisted on the inalienable right of the people to the soil.

Wednesday night there was a pitch-in on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk, 2 1/2 miles from Scarborough junction. A freight train coming into the city ran into the rear end of another train standing on the track.

Shortly before five o'clock on Tuesday morning Wilfred Kerrick, an Upper Canada college boy, whose mother lives at No. 1 Anderson street, Toronto, left his home with a shot gun and ammunition, saying he was going rabbit shooting.

A gang of Italian navvies raised a row at Brucebridge Wednesday night, using revolvers and knives freely. A man named Louis Johnston happened to be in the way of an Italian who was carving a road to freedom, when he received two stab wounds from the Italian's knife, one through the breast and the other through the muscle of the right arm.

There is no prospect of the price of wheat improving. The Monetary Times, speaking on the subject says: "Low prices must certainly continue as the result of a superabundant if not unprecedented crop."

For the past week, says an exchange, a young man from Wingham, who is said to have a wife in the neighborhood of Teeswater, was in Mitchell making love to a girl from Lygan, the daughter of a respectable German. On Tuesday they roomed together at one of our leading hotels, and on Thursday were to be married.

On Friday, the 10th inst., a fire broke out in the straw stack of Mr. George J. Tack, on the north part of Lot 14, in the 9th con. of Sarnidale township, which was entirely consumed with the barn, sheds and stables.

the building on which there is a small insurance. Cause of fire unknown. A two-year-old child was killed at Fergus on Wednesday last week by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a brother.

Robert Cooper, who lives near Ergonia, set up a dead-fall early this fall, and since that time he has succeeded in capturing four black bears. It is said a syndicate has been formed in Fergus to float cordwood down the Grand river from Luther and Proton, the first drive to be made next spring.

Goods to the value of $600 were stolen from K. B. McKee's hardware store at Peterboro Wednesday night. The goods were subsequently found under a plank in a brick-yard.

While boarding a train at Blackwater a man slipped and fell between it and the platform, but did not fall on the track, and by remaining quiet until the train had passed escaped unharmed.

Mayor Chase of Guelph has gone to Montreal to interview General Manager Hickson of the Grand Trunk railway in reference to securing the establishment of the railway workshops recently burned in London East for the royal city.

For bass-wood logs there is an increased demand. It is now found that bass-wood is available for many purposes, for which pine has hitherto been used exclusively. It makes excellent flooring, and for chair bottoms is without any equal.

Several of the largest lumbermen will not have a single shanty this year. The pine will have twelve months' reprieve. Along the Monck road, Mr. Barnhart, manager of the firm of Boyd of Bobcaygeon, will conduct a small operation, necessitated by the forest fire and the increase of settlement.

Another swindle is now being perpetrated on the farmers. This time it is a patent cure-all, and the vendor granger is informed by the oily tongued agent that he can have the specific, free, on trial, and that it is warranted to cure all the ills which flesh is heir to.

The contractors on the Northern & Pacific Junction railway, Messrs. Hendrie, Symmes & Co., are making rapid progress with their work. Although they only started operations at Gravenhurst one month ago, they now have a force of over two thousand men and four hundred teams.

everything in first-class style, all structures being of stone and iron, and the road when completed is to be equal to any on the continent. A distressing accident occurred at Gurney's moulding shop at Hamilton one day last week.

Richmond and Robert O'Neil were engaged carrying an iron ladle containing 200 pounds of molten iron run out, splashing in all directions. Richmond had his stomach, breast, legs, arms, and test badly burned the iron pouring in through the top of his boots, burning his feet and legs frightfully.

A chap named Bradford, about 30 years of age, purporting to be a horse buyer, was looking about several teams and concluded several bargains, the animals to be delivered on Tuesday.

He accompanied a commercial traveller to Schomberg in a livery rig, and while there he also engaged himself in bartering for horses. He did not have the ready cash, but produced cheques to the amount of about $1,000, drawn in his favour by Messrs. Phillips and Baker of Gravenhurst.

Two or three of these he asked Mr. Isaac to cash on a big discount, which the latter hesitated about doing, believing something was not right.

Mr. Isaac then wired the firm and received the reply that the cheques were forged. As soon as the news got out Bradford fled suddenly for parts unknown.

Mr. McKinnon, of the Royal, was nearly let in for the cheques for $1000 and Mr. Hogaboom is minus $1.50 for the livery rig.
