Fire in Lindsay.

On Friday night last week about 12 o'clock the fire bells rang out through the loggy atmosphere and soon summoned street. That building was found to be on fire in the room where are stored the skates and where loafers congregate. The flames were making headway rapidly up the staircase, but even then three or four pails of water would have quenched all. The firemen or some of them were quickly in attendance and laid on the hore. The mill engines turned on the water; but lo ! and behold! there was little or no water forced through the hose. It was soon discovered that the pipes where the main terminates on William street were burst or as many felt sure were blown apart at a joint. At all events the water burst in a joint. At all events the water burst in torrents out of the escape drain.

Then things were at actual still. Capt. Crundell charman of the fire and water committee was sent for, the intention being to send to Peterboro; as intention afterwards carried out to the discomfort of Peterboro. A counter telegram ordering the Peterboro brigade not to some was sent towards morning, just, we suppose, as half the Peterboro brigade had got nicely turned out. However, Capt. Crundell came over and at once ordered out the old hand-engine. Meanwhile the fire had consumed the roller rink, the sheds under and in rear, Mr. Hartwick's cottage had consumed the roller rink, the sheds under and in rear, Mr. Hartwick's cottage south of it and had seized on the Temperance hotel and sheds on the north as well as on some stubles, etc., on the south. By desperate exertion the stables were saved, a fact worth noting for had they gene the large white frame on the corner below must have followed and with it materiary the three these to take whatever the fire chose to take.

On the north side the hotel was doomed as were all the buildings in rear. At one time the sheds in rear of Skitch's brack-smith shop north of the hotel were blazing up the side and the straw in the loft was burning briskly. There seemed no way of saving Skitch's carriage shops but by tearing down the sheds between them and was on fire. Then many pails of water were thrown in effectually extinguishing it for a time. Mr. Rainsferd of the Grand Trunk Railway had meanwhile been superintending the demolishing of the loag sheds in many control of the load sheds in the load she the hotel. Indeed it was when an open-ing in the roof was made with that object superintending the demolishing of the long sheds in rear so that all efforts were tam instructed by John Meleman, Esq., Sheriff of the County of Victoria, assignee of the Sheriff of the County of Victoria, assignee of the State of JOSEPH WATTERS to sell by public ancion at the JEWETT HOUSE in the Town the small sneds between could have saved had not a fair chance, as they were, Gull and Burnt River Works-Crab Lake dealy been set at work. "She" threw a owing to the shrubbery and dressing of assured everyone that the fire would not | and had no opportunity of displaying any extend north of the hotel. Willing hands | little figures they could so nicely have manned the pumps and fairly deluged fire. By daylight all possible danger was

In commenting on the fire and the incidents of the night we may be permitted to say that to old Capt. Crandell belongs credit for promptly getting out the old hand-engine. She seemed to be forgotten before. To Mr. Rainsford resident superintendent of the Grand Trunk belongs especial credit for coolness and judgment in directing the various parties of men willing to work. To Dougall Sinclair, Messrs. Comstock, Bunting and Smart belongs praise for the able way they handled the hose. To dozens of citizens thanks of the town are due for Mrs. O'Connor, the manager, was citizens thanks of the town are due for manning the engine and to dozens more leather medals are owed for acting as bosses. Indeed there were more than the usual crop of directors. There was the excitable fellow shouting, etc., but displaying no common sense whatever, then was found the cool philosophic chap who stood at safe distance telling what should be done; near him stood the fellow who said how he would do it; while scores of others stood around doing likewise. Meanwhile Ramsford, Crandell, Sinclair,

Taylor, etc., did as they thought best. As was supposed the pipes were parted at the last joint. These Capt. Crandell had repaired on Saturday and in addition to the lead filling in the grooves he caused a plate or strap of iron to be acrewed across the joint to each pipe.

On Friday night Mr. Makins, engineer of the town, was away; Capt. Parkins of the fire company was also away through illness; while Lieut. Cook, was out of town. Lieut. Sinclair was therefore in command but was more than assisted by Charity Entertainment.

We have great pleasure in stating that out. Over five hundred people five minutes before 8 o'clock the orchestra struck up the overture.

The performance opened with Col. Deacon as King; Mrs. Coulter, Queen; Miss Keenan, the Duchess; and Mr. Dunsford as Lord Chancellor, in courtly attire : and their parts were given with that once and grace so necessary to amateurs. We will speak of them further on. Mrs. Hopkins as fairy queen showed marked skill, particularly in her rendering of "Rise Queen of the Night," and received much applease. Miss Gallon, as Spitfire, displayed a clear comprehension Spitfire, displayed a clear comprehension of her part, her manner and style being particularly adapted to the role she assumed. Her sole was especially well rendered the second night. Miss Leary also gave a very heautiful solo in a pleasing manner. We must not forget to mention that the part of the nurse was perhaps the most natural and perfect piece of acting of the evening, and deserves special mention. The Prince, Mr. Matchett, was, as the story reads, a perfect beauty, and creditably gave his part.

Mrs. O'Connor, the manager, was vociferously called for, but being engaged could not appear. She came forward the second evening, and received a perfect round of applause.

The North Riding Nomination.

MR. EDITOR, -It appears that the North Riding Reform Convention met at Fenelon Fails last Saturday, and after much anxious deliberation gave the nom- with some new floor-stringers and partly ination to Mr. J. A. Barron, of Lindsay. re-planked." It is to be hoped that Mr. Barron will not accept it, as it will involve him in a loss of time, money, and probably that which is much more to him, reputation. Mr. Barron is not exactly one of the Patent Combination, but he has been too much identified with them to stand weil with the independent reformers in any part of the riding outside of the town of Lindsay. If there was the slightest hope or expectation that the riding would be carried in the interest of the reform party, Mr. Barron would be quietly passed over; he would not be allowed to become a candidate on any consideration; but as it is 12th February of the Liberal Conservatives believed he has no chance whatever, the Combination have sent him out from the county town with a crust of bread and a Seugog River Works.

An appropriation of $600 was granted last session to be expended on the removal of electractions, which intefered with navigation on the river between Sengog and Sturgeon lakes.

The work was proceeded with during the past summer, and a large quantity of obstructions, consisting of sunken timber, logs, stamps, etc., removed from ber, logs, stamps, etc., removed from the channel in the river, and some sunk-en logs from a sand-bar situated in Sengog lake about two miles above the out-let, where some dredging is also badly

It has been ascertained that the cut re-cently made from the Scugog river to Drummond's bay is becoming badly ob-structed with flood-wood and roots, etc., which have been drawn into it from the adjoining drowned land, by the suction caused by the steamers passing through. Many of these roots, etc. have sunk to-the bottom and formed a sort of net-work, which interferes with the flow of water, in consequence of which the channel is filling up, being now considerably shal-lower than the original depth at the lowor and-vision should be made in the estimate for the coming year for the removal of these obstructions, and also for the dred-ging required in Scugog lake.

As provision was also made for the retenders for the supply and delivery of the quantity of timber required was asked for by public advertisement in the early part of the year. The lock was kept open until the 7th November, when it was clos-ed and the building of the necessary coffer-dam and pulling down of the old structure commenced. The work has
