THE REVISING OFFICERS LAST DECISIONS.

We are sure the Victoria public are very much pleased with their revising officers for having the manhood to publicly alter their decision to require personal attendance on April 6th, into accepting a declaration after due notice instead.

Now that the officers have done what everyone must admit to be fair in the premises, we respectfully ask our friends to work with a will, forgiving and forgetting the past, to get as many citizens of both political parties registered as are eligible.

Many liberal conservatives have been most active in the work, but many have not. There remain but a few days. Improve them.

Further examine the lists to see if any errors or omissions have been made, and if they have, we are informed that it is the intention of the revising officers to correct them on 6th April on their being simply pointed out to them. That is indeed very fair. We regret exceedingly that the same spirit was not manifested from the first; but, as we said before, the officers deserve every credit for that ewhich they are now showing. Our contention being from the first for the elisplay of that spirit, we beg to express our most hearty approval of their action now, and to hope for a s untiusnes of the same.

MR. BLAKE'S COURSE RE RIEL.

Mr. Blake has signified his inten-

From the World we learn that the people of Halifax, having learned the worth of Rev. S. Many of the reformers of North enstomed to hear their leaders continually objecting to Mr. Hector Cameron, M. P., because he was "an ontsider" and "a lawyer" find a bitter pill to swallow in Mr. Barron. However it is generally understood that that gentleman is trying hard to counteract the rebellious spirit by a judicious amount of "bady mursing" and "kissing." We have not heard as yet whether or not he helps to wash dishes but in due course he will doubtless reach that science.

We are not surprised at the Pest's are opposed to strikes, and do not permit obstruction. We do not see how those statements tally with the Every point stated by the Post s Pacific railway where rails were torn contended for is proven right. proven wrong. Both Revising Officers Dean and Hudspeth have changed their decisions in the case. It is two late to undo the wrong for the preliminary lists; but they are acting well in redressing as far as possible their faults for the 6th April.

The Post of course is annoyed. We are rather pleased thereat; it is a good omen. We contended that personal declarations should be accentable for April even in the face of the decisions. As soon as those decisions were reversed we discontinued the discussion. But it does us good to see the pigmy minds of the Post combination wallowing in mud and writing with anger at being so badly beaten on every single point. They may find perhaps that the "verdant litor" is more than a match for the whole Patent Combination.
