

The Victoria Warder

FRIDAY, JUNE 18, 1886.

CAUGHT AT LAST.

"Long runs the fox, but he's caught at last," is a proverb applicable to the Lindsay Post just now.

On May 28th the Post came out with an article giving its readers to believe that Mr. Dundas had refused to listen to the story of the illegally added Grit names...

From the Lindsay Post, May 28th, 1886. The Warder... the article is a mere fabrication.

The Post shows its training. It can turn a corner as quietly as Edgar, or Blake, and does it as neatly as a wherry.

Where the disease ascends from purely local causes that can be readily and instantly removed by the proper means.

Ever since Nova Scotia entered confederation she has been complaining, asking for "better terms," and in general, whining.

The elections in that province for the local legislature, held last Tuesday, resulted in a large majority in favor of retiring from confederation.

It is astonishing, too, to consider the Post's gift of what shall we call it? "Prophecy." "Second sight."

A great Reform picnic is to be held at Beaverton next Tuesday, 22nd inst. Mr. Blake, Mr. Nowak, Mr. McLarty and Mr. Barrow are all to be there, and what is more, are billed to speak.

are such that, were the case one of a decent man, he would have suffered the loss of a limb rather than have divulged them.

DOMINION DAY.

The citizens of Victoria will remember that on Dominion day there will be canoe races, in the morning. Foresters' processions in the forenoon.

The presentation to the North-west volunteers of the County of Victoria medals.

Let every farmer and his wife, and their sons and daughters, lay out their plans now to visit Lindsay that day.

A GENERAL HOSPITAL FOR LINDSAY.

The recent statement over sanitary matters has caused us to consider the question of establishing a general hospital for Lindsay.

A traveller, we will suppose, stops overnight in one of our public houses, and is taken sick. A doctor is sent for, and the disease scarlet fever, or diphtheria, or one of the many dangerous maladies common to the country.

Where the disease ascends from purely local causes that can be readily and instantly removed by the proper means, but to remove the patient, and thoroughly remove the cause of disease.

NOVA SCOTIA ELECTIONS.

Ever since Nova Scotia entered confederation she has been complaining, asking for "better terms," and in general, whining.

It is astonishing, too, to consider the Post's gift of what shall we call it? "Prophecy." "Second sight."

GRIT TACTICS.

During the closing hours of the recent session of parliament the Grits' scandal mongers brought charges against the government of having instructed revising officers to have the voters' lists printed at Liberal Conservative offices.

Mr. Dundas. I am not going to argue the constitutional principle as to whether or not the Government is right or not in depositing the patronage to those papers which support them and approve of their policy.

Is reference to the above we acknowledge the compliment paid Mr. Warden by Mr. Dundas. The issue of the first voters' list for North Victoria by THE WARDER we consider a feat in printing unequalled in Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

It is confidently expected that Mr. Cockburn will explain to his constituents at Beaverton why he dodged the vote on the Riel resolutions.

North Ontario "Grits are grooming their horses night and day," for the Blake-Riel-Feulax boom at Beaverton.

Mr. Barrow's name is last on the list of Barrow orators for Beaverton. To place him below Cook, or Dill, or Cockburn, is indeed unkind on the part of the Reform machine.

Mr. R. E. Cook is to explain at Beaverton how he and his boot-maker, who never saw the logs, changed 150 feet into 95 feet.

With commendable energy Ontario's board of Education is fitting and fixing up their new high school. New chemical apparatus have been ordered, new benches have been erected and a spirit of enterprise is shown.

As in Canada, so in Great Britain, there is a "secession" from the Reform party. The two Liberals there find that their views are much more in accord with the Conservative party's than with Gladstone's.

It is possible that Mr. Blake, when in England, arranged with Mr. Gladstone to carry out the course of poisoning to remain orthodox hierarchical demagogues? Surely not.

are hundreds on hundreds who have renounced all allegiance to the Reform party, and have allied themselves with the Liberal Conservatives, as the true party of progress.

The agent of the reform party in Lennox made oath and said that the following young liberals were twenty-one years of age, were duly qualified to vote, and should therefore be placed on the voters' list—Herbert Robinson, aged 18; Frank Dumas, aged 18; Geo. Ham, aged 19; Chas. Babcock, aged 19; Harvey Miller, aged 19; John Wood, aged 19; Geo. Milne, aged 20; Herbert Clark, aged 20; Jan. Murphy, aged 20.

Salt Your Butter WITH ASHTON'S FINE SALT. A Boon to Butter and Cheese Makers.

The statement that the low prices now ruling for Butter are distinctly traceable—in a measure—to bad salting and to poor packing in the past is a statement which is only too true. Butter well made and salted with fine salt will command the highest prices. We have had butter delivered to us of excellent quality but ruined for table use by a too liberal application of coarse salt. We have imported and are selling a very superior salt for the use of butter-makers. It is the best salt for the purpose in the market. It costs but little more than the coarse salt, and enhances the quality and value. The use of Ashton's Factory-Filled Salt in butter-making enhances the value of butter from one to five cents per pound, as compared with the use of any other brand of salt. Six pounds of salt are usually required for the making of one hundred pounds of butter. One sack of Ashton's salt will make thirty-seven hundred pounds of butter, therefore, the use of it will make a sack worth thirty-seven dollars, in the mere enhancement of value of produce over the use of any other brand. It is not safe to take other salt as a gift. To make cheese, two and one-half pounds of salt are required to make one hundred pounds. The extra cost of Ashton's Factory-Filled Salt above other brands will not exceed, for the manufacture of one hundred pounds of cheese, one cent and a quarter, calling the cost of Ashton's Salt double the price of ordinary brands of salt. The enhanced value of cheese by the use of Ashton's Salt is, in the opinion of experts, one-eighth of a cent per pound, equal to twelve and one-half cents per one hundred pounds. It is not safe to try to save a cent and a quarter, in view of a gain of twelve and a half cents, in the making of one hundred pounds of cheese. Every manufacturer of butter and cheese competent for his business, knows that a fine-ground salt, and not properly dried, runs out with the milk, leaving no flavoring or curing property behind. Ashton's salt is colorless, and its weight of the product is lost, and therefore profit is lost. BUY AND USE THIS SALT. ASK FOR NO OTHER, TAKE NO OTHER. It will repay you many times in use.
