IDAY, AUGUST 6, 1856. A Trip from Norland to British Columbia.

Continued from last week To the Editor of The Warder. The work of settlement is rapidly progressing, and here a few years hence will be found the great grain fields of Canada. We are now following up the wandering Bow river, a and day at present. The climate here is will be held shortly, on the grounds heavy up grade and in plain view of the snow and cloud-capped Rocky mountains, which can be seen at a variable, and it is surprising the difference a few miles makes. They had five feet of snow at Donald last season, while 20 miles south they had only a few inches, and 30 of building a public hall and purchasdistance of 150 miles; and with the sun shining on them they present one is a fine grazing country, and there are of the grandest sights imaginable, now some fine ranches of cattle and ponies majority of 16 votes. The village is We have never seen anything half so here, as the greater part of it is prairie to be congratulated on the result, as lovely, and it is with a sigh of regret several of our old friends from Norland on that we see them obscured by the our arrival at Donald, amongst whom feat it by its opponents. The victory shades of night. By daybreak we were Ed. Adair, G. Bell, F. Cooper, G. S. have reached to foothills of the Rocky mountains, mountains in themselves to us who are verdant excursiopiete on the C. P. R. Here we get a glimpse of the first timber worthy of note for upwards of 1,000 miles; it sonsists chiefly of spruse and Douglas fr. Following up the valley of the Bow river we arrive at Canmore, ten m les from the hot springs. These springs promise to become a great summer resort, as the government to you or any of our readers a most cordial invitation, when passing this way, to drop intends building one of the finest hotels in America; so that to a lover of the wild and beautiful they will be second to none in the world. We arrive at Canmore at 8 p.m., where we remain over night, as they do not astempt as yet to cross the summit after night. which does not appear to be more than half a mile from ne; but after pelled, although very reluctantly, to seling leb our exp dition when at an altitude of about 2,000 ft. At 6 a. m. ince. we resume our journey, and soon we enter the Kicking Horse p se at an altitue of 5,000 ft., and now out of the province of Alberta we enter the district of Columna, passing in our view Ricking Horse Jake. We go down Ricking Horse river on a grade of 4 ft. 94 in. to the 100 ft. for upward of 6 miles. The train is here ward of 6 miles. The train is here handled by two powerful engines, one of them 100 tone in weight. At the end of each mile down this grade they have constructed safety switches, so that in case of a train becoming amountrollable they can be opened for the purpose of healing it up the mountain side, We are now on the summit of the first range of mountains; the wild graudeur of the scenery that is here presented is truly aware inspiring. What a contrast to the broad, gently undulating prairie, or to the quiet landscapes with their graceful background of wooded hills that greet the eye along Bow river.

We are now in the grand canon of the Kicking Horse river, whose mighty waters have out their way through the heart of the Rockies. Here shelves are blasted from the walls of almost perpendicular rock; along this is laid the track; above as rise to an attitude of several thousand so rise to an attitude of several thousand feet the dizzy heights of the snow-dapped mountains. Some of these mountains present the appearance of ancient fortesses or crumbling ruins; while far below no rushes the river, its waters, confined to their narrow channel by walls of solid rock, surging madly in their efforts for freedom. For miles the train huge these precipitous rocks, dashes through the solid rock, dashes through the solid rock of the special to locate. City, about 80 miles from the quantit, we come to the junction of the Eiching Howe river with the Columbia, and following the north hank of this noble river, with the Rechy meantains on our right, and some the river on our left, whose worked has dirit in banks, we so the product range of the fellipin. Finally we arrive at Donald, our promot declination, after long aims days on roots. These last mentioned places are likely to become forms of some mining importance, so gold is found all through this district in many places, in very poying quantitie. Silver is also found in some localities, and a great many people ougage in this comprise the wealth of this country. In the valleys and along the Columbia river and its tributaries are found very valuable belts of timber, chiefly spruce, Douglas fir and cedar, the latter growing to the enormous size of 18 feet in diameter in some instances, and commonly from 8 to 12 feet. The two former, however, are most valuable. They average about the size of ordinary pine, and grow to an enormous length, and are very sound and durable, being used exclusively in the construction of treatles and bridges on the C. P. R. I might also mention that game of different winds is found here in large numbers. The black Cinnamon and Rocky mountain grizzly bear are very Rocky mountain grizzly bear are very numerous. The mountain goats and sheep are found in great numbers as you second the mountains. Cariboo are also plenti-ful, the flesh of which forms an excellent substitute for beef, which is not pientiful in the mountains. There are all kinds of fur-bearing animals common to the forests of Ontario, while wild geese and ducks are in numberless millions. The climate here is somewhat similar to Ontario, with the execution of nights which are somewhat here is somewhat similar to Ontario, with the exception of nights, which are con-siderably colder, caused, I presume, by the great masses of snow and ice on the mountains, which in some places are sev-eral hundred feet deep. This is pierced in different parts by immense wash-holes, in different parts by immense wash-holes, filled with water and forming miniature cumulation of years, frequently become dislodged, and plungs down the mountain side with fearful velocity, sweeping tim-ber, rocks and all obstructions with resistless force down to the valleys below, leaving a trail behin I as void of vegetation as a gravel walk. These slides form what are commonly called foot hills, at the base of the mountains, sometimes several hundred feet deep. These slides are often very extensive, ranging from a quarter of a mile to three and four miles in width. We have had an exceptionally dry senson here, while fifteen miles above us they have a daily rain. Bush fires are raging here at present, and the destruction of property is enormous. There are hund-reds of thousands worth of timber destroyed, as the whole country around for a very resinous nature, and it is almost imp wible to combat the raging fury of the flomes, which present a most magnifirent sight in the darkness ascending the mou fain side, and whirling dark masses f smoke and flame far into the heavens. flames, which have destroyed thousands of cords of wood and ties, and injured the miles west of this, in the Kootenay district, Houston, R. > Now, I desire to present to the readers of your widely circulated paper a few of the glaring blunders committed by Seath and Glashan, the two lumiparies who assisted to get up the papers for the recent second class examination. All, or at least a majority of the papers set by the above two very distinguished men, were so wrapped in obscurity that a first class teacher, inspector, or even a graduate in arts could make neither sound nor yet, I understand that this John Seath, once upon a time head master of St. Catharines Collegiate Institute, is the same John Seath who, being filled with human patnos, forever resorted to snorting if the wind per-chance blew is an aufavorable direction; and continually trampled on the sorns of any examiner who peradven-forms of any examiner who peradventure did not get up the papers to suit the peculiar views of John Seath, Esq.; B. A.

The wheel of fortune is now turned another direction. Seath and Glashan are the "very detinguished" directors of the honorable "Company of Turners." Verily they turn it indeed to accomplish their own ends.

I understand our honorable friend Seath has about completed the skeleton of a grammar.

I, among hundreds of others, (teachers, students and parents) have heretotors worked for the reform party, but plainly seeing that our present Minister of Education, with his horde of fellow-laborers who superintend the book jobberies, are independently managing the department of Education with the sole object of plucking candidates, cariching themselves, and furthering their own ends at the expense of the many, have ends at the expense of the many, have now made a resolution that our support they will not again receive unless there is speedily brought about a satisfactory reform in the management of our educational affairs.

Seath's judgment is indeed equalled by Glashan. His lack of judgment has been exhibited on many different
