THE HIGH SCHOOL.

From all we can learn Lindsay has always possessed a very unique Board of Education, and certainly the pres operations were conducted by a septown at heart, at least we will suppose winning from the enemy 36, incress a clear statement. "Some people had Smith, are from the noble army of "Mr. Head," or "Mr. Milner." Milner." Many say, "We don't mean Mr. Head." Others say, "Mr. Lees has been doing double duty and cannot be expected to do as good last the agitation was a roman yielded lic affair, and that Mr. Mowat yielded lic affair yielded lic affair yielded lic affair yielded lic affair yielded lic af work as if confined to the high school alone." While there are some who say: "Under Mr. O'Connor the school has succeeded beyond all precedent. The first university scholar ships and honors for the school have been won under him. The first First Class certificates have also been won A greater percentage of students have passed examinations than under ane former master." We know from having taught them that under the regime of Mr. O'Connor's predecessor here, Lindsay and Victoria students in large num bers attended in Toronto. To our own knowledge there were upwards of forty, some of whom were from Lindsay, and one of whom is now on Lindsay's staff of teachers-who left here in Mr. Tilley's time for Toronto. Others left this town for St. Cathan ines and Collingwood. If there were grievances, why were not they aired! If there are faults in any of the staff now let those persons-and those only-be dealt with. To get at one or two, or three, the whole four are But the reason no specific investigation was held is, according to the members of the Board, "because the whole thing would be then public,' A curious reason indeed. Is it not public now? Will boards in other towns, to whom the present teachen here may apply, ask the minutie or details of their leaving here? Certain ly not. They will know Mr. so and 36 so got the three months' notice in Sto 2 55 Lindsay; and he is thenceforward damned. Further, several shrewl lawyers, members of that board, have been guilty of acting in a manner condemnatory of the teachers without giving them British justice. Thatis scarcely the course they pursue towards a thief in the police court. Even he has a chance to defend himself. Mr. Milner, for instance, is tried, found guilty and condemned without even knowing that he is on trial. And so far as the public can officially learn, there is no evidence against one of the staff, other than the gossip of the "old ladies" of both sexes aforesaid.

> In case the board had evidence enough to justify their present action, we maintain they must have enough to definitely settle the cause of complaint on one or two of the staff. Then their duty was plain. To is port either privately or, if need be publicly to those men that the board desired their resignations. No one would have been unjustly injured. "But we will re-engage some of them again" say the board. Then the day to point out those aimed at is merely deferred. The secret cause must out publicly then. So to get rid of one, or say more, of the staff, three months hence, all are now publicly condemned. A most impolite, unjust and unbrave

THE OPINION OF THE LON-DON TIMES.

The London Times of the 30th ult. has an able article outlining the work accomplished by the Irish Loyal and Patriotic Union in the recent British elections. In literature alone the union circulated in Great Britain, ten million circulars, 439,000 pamphlets, 143,200 posters. In England and Wales alone, the union maintained during the contests no less than 43 eminent members of their society si speakers and lecturers. In Scotland ent is in some respects worthy that arate staff. In England and Wales name. All have the interests of the they worked in 98 constituencies, so, yet, in order to get over a diffi- ing Unionist majorities in 38, and deculty largely caused by the gossip of creasing Gladstonian majorities in the Loyal and Patriotic Union has a noble supported with funds. The Irish meeting not one trustee came out with Delegates, Rev. Dr. Kane and Mr patriotic speakers.
