Swipes on the Reform Convention.
The delegates of the Reform convention for the West Riding of Victoria met last week in the town of Lindsay and forever immortalized themselves by selecting for the leader, and standard bearer of their party, one of those very curious and abnormal specimens of humanity who by some means or other, or some means or other, they would never expect to find them. They appear to be the veritable creatures of some potent occult influences, and warmed into life by the force of some unexpected occasion. They are generally taken up by other means on the plea of their being available, which means they were so weak and pusillanimous as not to oppose anything; and so insignificant as to have attracted very little public attention, the mere scum of party, floating from place to place, which has to be raised to the surface before it can be dismissed off and got rid of. Perhaps this was the intention of the delegates, and it is possible they may have made the selection for the reasons and qualities we have presented, and if such was really their object and desire, we heartily congratulate them for their keen perception and on their wonderful success.

LOST.
