A BARN AND CONTOUR, the property of John Colver, Esq., lot 8, con. 5, Op., was destroyed by fire on Saturday afternoon last. Mr. William Fortescue, while playing on his lawn, noticed fire creeping from a swamp, along the fence leading towards the barn, and as once went over and threw down several buckets of water, and otherwise stopped its progress. However a wind spring up, and in about an hour Mr. Fortescue was horrified to see his neighbor's barn on fire. Rushing over he found the flames had crawled along the edge of the grass and reached the barn. Everything was destroyed. About 500 bushels of oats and some hay, were in the barn. With difficulty the horses were rescued, on the evening of the 20th. The property was insured.

The people of Newburg have somewhat recovered from the lethargy into which they had fallen over the destruction of their homes. The Rathbun Company have offered those above to build; all the lumber they require at cost price, and will give them all the time they wish to pay.

There is a party of choicely pelizes now doing this district, whom it would be well for our farmers to let severely alone. Astonishing bargains in cloth are offered and the most favorable terms are given.

The stuff is shoddy, however, and it will pay better to give good square price to your local dealer for an article, than to buy from these parties for next to nothing.

It is to be regretted for Lindsay's sake that Mr. McNally has received a position as organist in Toronto; and has consequently resigned Cambridge street church here. Miss Mason takes his place meanwhile. Mr. McNally will be greatly missed by his many friends in town, but he bears with him the best wishes of all.

A most eloquent sermon was preached last Sunday morning in the Methodist church here, by Mr. McLaughlin, brother of R. McLaughlin, Esq., of this town.

The family are all mutually clever, but the young student Miss Fair to stain a name as minister that has been reached by few. He is thoroughly democratic in his theology, too.

Last Sunday a young fellow who on horseback drove cows twice daily to and from pasture at the head of William street, received a sharp lesson. He has a bad habit of running the cows. In this instance the horse passed one of them, when the youngster wheeled the horse too quickly. Result, the boy sailed out of the saddle and performed three or four circles in the air hanging by one leg caught in the stirrup. Finally the sixth trial and boy and saddle went fully into the water, so contently was the horse splashing, now and then. He has been seen before. The boy does not look happy.
