Montreal is the chief commercial city, not alone of Quebec province, but also of Canada. Its wealth is almost entirely derived from Ontario, and upwards of three-fourths of the taxable property is owned by British or Gallican protestants.

Quebec was onquered on the plants of Abraham in 1759 when both gallant commanders, Wolfe and Montcalm fell. But, though constitutionally-governed-England won the day, yet she did the few French settlers the terrible wrong of allowing the tyrannical court laws of France to remain on the statute books to the people's great and lasting injury. But the Gallican church never accepted Rome's doctrines on the Virgin. The French people have ever proven themselves the foes of tyranny.
