in Lindsay on Wednesday last and was attended by but a few. President Dobson presented the report of the Directors as follows:

GENTLEMEN, -Your directors beg to report. that the membership for the year 1889 was 213, a perceptable falling off from the previous year,

They are pleased to report a considerable increase in the entries, and they trust they may continue to multiply in the future. Your directors are also pleased to report that the admission fees amounted to $931.55, which with $125 for rent of grounds and stables they consider very encouraging, especially as the exhibition was practically confined to one day, the other two days being unfavorable weather. We desire to return sincere thanks to the Lindsay Town Council for their guarantee of $200, and regret that the non arrival of the lobes on the evening of the electric light exlibion prevented at least one thousand people from entering the grounds, thereby diminishing the receipts and rendering it necessary to ask the council for the amount guaranteed.

The thanks of your directors are also re turned most cordially to the County Council for their very liberal annual grant to the so-ciety, and also to the citizens of Lindsay for the very handsome manner in which they contributed to the special prize list.

The judges and others who so kindly assist. ed your directors in carrying out the exhibition are also tendered most respectfully our aincere thanks In surrendering the trust reposed in them your directors desire to express the hope that the secrety may continue to have the confidence and support of this community, and that the continued prosperity of the society may be assured.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

A great many guns were fired off unsuccess fully on election day. There was the tax gun. the wood gun, the poor gun, with the methedist aun loaded up to the muzzle-each and every one of which either mis fired or exploded. As an illustration of how the tax gun was worked, one poor elector was so fright ned that he would not vote because he had been told if he did he would have to pay his taxes. whilst if he didn't vote his landlord would nave them to pay.

A most painful and fatal accident happened at Whith by which a voung man named Christopher Brett lost his life. Deceased was a brakesman on conductor White's train. The hands were making up the train to come here at night. Brett was standing on the rear end of the last car in the traing as it was backing up to comple on to another car, and as the train was moving too fast and was likely to motioned to the engineer to slacken up, who did so. The speed of the train was stopped so suddenly that it threw Brett off the car as it was backing up. The wheel did not pass over him but shoved him along the track and in doing so it disembowelled him. The poor tellow when picked up was a sickening sight. He never spoke though he lingered for five hours when death released him. He came from Weston and was a sober and industrious young man -Standard.

Appearing in the native and this beffl-d the physician's skill. After intense suff-ring he closed his eyes upon the scenes of earth on the night of Saturday the 4th inst. Some of his father's neighbors went across the ice on Monday and brought the corpse home. The scholars of his school stood around his coffin and sang their farewell song over their beloved teacher. The scene was affecting. On Tuesday his remains were taken to Eden cemetery, six of his former school mates being the bearers, and there in the solitude of the grave yard, he awaits the resurrection of the just.

THE Sonva Literary Society last Friday evening gave an entertainment which was amusing and instructive. The chief features were the instrumental music from the orchestra, Messrs. Renald and Alex. Macdonald and A. McPhail on their violins, and Mr. J. Lee
