

EATING YET STARVING:

Some days ago a patient, a remittentetic disease case is occupying the attention of the physicians of the southern cities, and it is said it is the only case of the kind ever seen.

About fifteen weeks ago Joseph Flynn, eleven years and three months old, who resides with his parents in a small alley off Carpenter street, between Eleventh and Twelfth, fell from a coal car of the Pennsylvania Railroad, on which he was steering a ride, and sustained severe injuries to the head. He was immediately carried home in an ambulance, and district physician and physicians, from the Howard Hospital were summoned. When the physician arrived they found the boy perfectly deaf and acting like a raving maniac, being almost impossible to keep him in bed owing to his violent ravings. Drugs were administered, which to a certain extent quieted the boy; but in a few days he became settled and seemed rational, conversing with his friends and relatives, while the doctor was a perfect blank, and so he remained up to the present time.

Symptoms of meningitis, however, set in within twenty-four hours of the accident, and the little patient suffered great pain. For four weeks scarcely any food passed his lips, he having no appetite, and rejecting the most simple diet. The physician thought that he became so thin, being skeleton, equally as quickly, in an unmerciful way, his appetite returned one morning, and at the present time he is ravenous for food. Many physicians have visited him and pronounced it a very remarkable case. It is plain that the boy is suffering from meningitis, which has become chronic, but why he still continues to waste away in spite of his increased appetite is the puzzling question to the doctor. The physician at present says that the most plausible theory is that the patient is suffering from disease of the heart centre, which causes nutrition, and effects will be made to get him into the Eastern Hospital, where a physician says it may be necessary to perform a surgical operation.

An Audacious Thief:

For authority, the record of James Johnson, alias "Davy Jim," H. B. Brown, "A. Hobbs," and several other notorious criminals, will show, will probably equal that of any other notorious criminal known to the police. Last week he came to town, having been released from the Michigan State Prison, and containing his imminent process over numerous railroads and a bank which entitles him to the fees and expenses of the lines of the Western Telegraph Company for one year.

These useful articles Mr. Johnson placed in his wallet, which he lost, were taken by him from Philadelphia to Trenton. On discovering his loss he gallantly inserted numerous advertisements requesting their return, and offered a liberal reward to the finder. It was these notices that led to his arrival by the Trenton police.

Gambler on Parole:

Why a person should in the present days want to behead a Poor or a Baronet I have never understood. As regards the latter hereditary title, it has always seemed to me that those I took an exceedingly bad view of that last month when he sold it to any one who would give $2,000 for it. This $2,000 was exact money, $20,000 now, and if I were Poor I might I would rather have been given $20,000 into the Exchequer.

The New Year has been celebrated by making Sir Alfred Sison, among others, a Baronet. This brings no end, and possibly gives pleasure to this Brighton millionaire, Poor he is, however, for me to protect. But I do not see why this silly distinction should have been given to him for giving a few to the Hippodrome Theatre to the Shush. He had money, as had all barons. He should have been made to pay us, not the Shush—London Free.

May I inquire your occupation? asked the doctor.

"I am a clerk in a salary of $47.50 a month."

"Your throat, sir?" said the doctor, with decision. "It is simply an age aggravated case of ingrowing tonsil—Chloroform.
